CARPENTIER AIRS HIS VIEWS ON AMERICA

French Pugilist Describes Trip to United States. Is Keen for His Bout With Dempsey - Declares if Beaten; it Will be When Stretched out in the Ring With no Strength Left.

When Georges Carpentier returned to that dear France after his first visit to America, he sat down, took his pen in hand, and wrote his impressions of America. "No words of mine," he wrote, "can express adequately my appreciation of the welcome I received, and no one could have possibly profited more than I have done by a visit to that great country. Until I set out for the States I had travelled but little; except France and the French, only England and the English did I know. To roam abroad made but little the mysteries of the world having been shown to me, but now the wonders, which have been shown to me, I would go everywhere.

"Maeterlink, Tristan Bernard, many men of letters of my country, have sought to teach and tell me things far away from boxing and as a professional fighter I think I may claim to have read much, even extensively. But my American trip has opened my eyes to what is delightfully new and fresh; it has helped to a better understanding of humanity; it taught me that in a matter of real knowledge I was but a child. America has made me rich in money, but has made me wealthier in mind also; she has told me of my littleness; she has helped me to know the world.

"With pleasure," I said. So doffing my dress jacket, I put on the gloves and boxed with the gallant major. It was rare fun, and on passion, I would say that Francois Descamps, the strange little man who has done so much to help me to become rich, fixed my fee at $5,000.

"Everywhere I went I was sought by world famous pugilists—the most interesting of all being Jim Corbett, with whom I spent a most delightful afternoon, a few miles outside of New York. A rare story teller, a much travelled man, at 50 years or so a magnificent specimen, he told me of his long and memorable life in the ring, and he was good enough to say that although Dempsey was very big and strong, I had every reason to believe that my science would prevail.

DEMPSEY A MIGHTY MAN

"It is said of the French that they are incorrigible demonstrative; in sheer expression of her feelings France can never be more demonstrative than England; she will never be so uncompromising as America.

"When I was in New York men who writes on boxing remarked on my pale face, my slimmness, my boyishness; that in a physical test, I was fitted to take the ring against Dempsey they were shy to believe. For this Dempsey, I was forever being told, was a 'man-eater'. Much to my regret, I had to leave America without meeting him, but I am prepared to believe that he is a mighty fellow and a cruel fighter. I have studied this fact; I have sought to know him by the statements attributed to him, and that he stands for hardness; I am certain; and yet, though he will enjoy an immense advantage in reach when we get into the ring, though he may be a human cyclone, I await a fight with him without fear or trepidation. I will never have it that brute strength is everything. Boxing is a science, and not of the butcher's shop.

"Joe Jeannette, who beat me at Lunar Park, Paris, in the spring of 1914, also looked me up. Joe has lost his jet black curls; age is cutting into this superb man of bronze, but he is well circumstanced. I shall always remember him as one of the greatest men of color who ever fought in the ring. I was delighted to allow him to claim me as his boy.

"In eight weeks I visited and sparred at sixty-three towns and cities. I travelled in a specially appointed train, one I believe, used by the late President Roosevelt. When I was not showing myself in the ring I was being whirled through space; for eight weeks I knew no rest. But it was worth it all. My tour was one long triumph, as it was a great business success. My reception everywhere was cordial in the extreme, and the articles which appeared in the various newspapers and magazines were both numerous and fantastic. "America is the home of the king of publicity. He, at least, made the discovery that my wardrobe consisted of 75 suits of clothes, 20 overcoats, 100 silk shirts, 75 pairs of shoes and 200 neckties."

"I can but say that if I had been

Ladies Look Young, Darken Gray Hair

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair, beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.
