

Butter, Cheese Output Down Here, Report

OTTAWA, Sept. 9—(CP)—Domestic supplies of canned fruit, fruit juices and vegetables, potatoes and apples will be "much larger" this fall and winter than for some years and "much larger" than last year, the Prices Board said today.

Reporting on the food supply situation during the last month, the Board said beef, veal, lamb, mutton, sausages and some cooked meats except pork were in good supply, though scarcities of lamb and mutton were reported from Brunswick and southern Alberta.

From British Columbia, the Prairies, Ontario and Nova Scotia same reports of extreme scarcity of pork and pork products. Except in the Toronto area, smoked meats were almost unobtainable, retailers receiving only small quantities with weekly shipments.

In dairy products, fresh milk and cream were generally plentiful, though Toronto had a shortage of cream. Cheddar cheese was unavailable in all areas except Winnipeg, eastern Quebec and New Brunswick.

Canned Milk Scarce British Columbia and Nova Scotia emphasized the seriousness of the lack of canned milk for fishermen and others in remote areas where fresh milk cannot be bought. New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and Alberta also reported shortages of canned milk while Montreal bakers were unable to get enough milk powder and ice cream was a marked scarcity. Butter and cheese production in Prince Edward Island were below last year.

A seasonal reduction in egg supplies, especially of grade "A" eggs, was generally in evidence with prices well up to ceilings. Some pullet eggs were marketed. Fowl supplies showed a decrease but chicken marketings were on the increase. Little other poultry was available anywhere and demand was heavy.

New Brunswick had plenty of fresh, cured and smoked fish while Prince Edward Island had supplies of British Columbia frozen salmon and halibut, plenty of fresh mackerel, cod and smoked filets, but little salt fish. Canned salmon continued scarce in Nova Scotia and the Montreal area. British Columbia's sockeye pack was below normal and little processed fish was on the markets.

New pack peas and tomatoes appeared on store shelves in Ontario and peas and beans in the Maritimes. In the southwestern tip of Ontario, the apple crop rated only 50 per cent of normal but peaches, melons, carrots and other garden produce were abundant. Quebec had plenty of 1945 vegetables on hand, except canned tomatoes, but corn and tomatoes were scarce in the Maritimes.

Citrus fruits were available, with small sizes everywhere and lemons plentiful at reduced prices. Syrups, particularly corn syrup were limited and were spotty shortages. With a good crop in sight, some relief was expected in all corn products.

Fats and oils remained a major shortage, salt supplies were inadequate, with supplies of salt and glass bottles for fruit affected by a strike at a soda ash plant.

Clyde River S. S. Field Day

On Saturday August thirty-first the scholars of the Sunday School of the Clyde River Presbyterian Church together with their parents, teachers and friends, held their annual picnic at Argyle Shore. The fine weather, which prevailed did much to add to the enjoyment of the outing. Many availed themselves of the opportunity to take a refreshing dip in the warm water, which helped to wash away the cares of everyday life while some of the more timid were content to wade near the shore and still others sat on the sands to renew old friendships and make new ones. The sports, under the capable leadership of the Superintendent, Mr. Norman MacFadyen were keenly contested and much enjoyed. He was assisted by starter, Lennis MacFadyen; judges, Messrs. Ira Auld, Norman MacFadyen and Clarence Prizel; secretary, Miss Mable Auld; treasurer, Miss Phyllis MacKinnon, and class official, Mrs. Spurgeon Livingston.

A delicious supper was served by the ladies to which all did ample justice. In the cool of the evening all departed for their homes with many pleasant memories of a holiday afternoon well spent. The following is an account of the sports: Under 5 years (boys and girls): 1. John MacPhail; 2. Jane Docherty; 3. Maurice MacDougall. 5-8 years: 1. George Gillespie; 2. Anza MacPhail; 3. Lorraine Williams. 8-10 years (girls): 1. Shirle MacKinnon; 2. Esther Gillespie; 3. Anna MacPhail. 10-12 (mixed): 1. Velma MacKinnon; 2. Shirle MacKinnon; 3. Elsie MacDougall. 12-15 (mixed): 1. Everett Gillespie; 2. Keith MacKinnon; 3.

Roddie Matheson. Sack Race (under 12): 1. Roddie Matheson; 2. Mervyn Scott; 3. Blair Williams. Sack Race (boys, 12 and over): 1. Everett Gillespie; 2. John Gass; 3. Keith MacKinnon. Sack Race (girls): 1. Bernice Gass; 2. Shirle MacKinnon; 3. Elsie MacDougall. Wheel-Barrow Race (boys): 1. Keith MacKinnon and Charlie Prizel; 2. Roddie Matheson and Everett Gillespie; 3. Mervyn Scott and Eddie MacDougall. Relay Races (girls): 1. Bernice Gass and Vivian MacFadyen; 2. Velma MacKinnon and Ethel Gillespie; 3. Norma MacFadyen and Shirle MacKinnon. Relay Race (boys): 1. Keith MacKinnon and Everett Gillespie; 2. John Gass and Mervyn MacPhee; 3. Mervyn Scott and Eddie MacDougall. Earlier this year it appeared likely major demands might be met by the end of 1946 and at the end of July shipments totalled approximately a normal year's supply. However, during May supplies of brass and copper strip essential to the manufacture of ammunition ceased entirely, due to a prolonged strike at the Toronto works of a supplier. As a result, production has declined at a time of depleted inventories.

Caused by a wartime drop in sporting ammunition manufacture, the present shortage has been aggravated by low dealer and jobber stocks throughout the country. It has been further intensified by an uninvited interest in shooting, with rifle and revolver and shotgun clubs renewing activities everywhere. Ex-servicemen, reluctant to lose their well-trained marksmanship, have taken up shooting as a hobby. Hunters, held back by almost six years of shortages, are eager again to hunt their favorite game. Today the demand for sporting cartridges and shot shells is considerably greater than that of 1939.

SPRING VALLEY W. B. On September 4th, the members of the Spring Valley Women's Institute were entertained at the home of the President, Mrs. Roy Bryanton, when minutes were read and adopted. Thirteen members were present. The sick committee visited and took two special treats during the month. Those bills were paid. The School Committee had no report on account of the school being closed. New committees were Sick, Mrs. Robt. Glover and Mrs. Dan Bryanton, School, Mrs. Mamie Adams and Mrs. Hiram Harrington, Programme, Miss Florence Bryanton, Miss Adelaide Glover and Mrs. Chas. McLellan. A donation of $5.00 to each of the following was made: Salvation Army Campaign, P. E. Island Protestant Orphanage and St. Vincent's Orphanage. Members decided to knit some articles with yarn left from the hooked rug. Mrs. Roy Bryanton read a paper on the care and culture of certain house plants. Miss Florence Bryanton invited members for the October meeting, roll call to be answered by donating an article for a grab bag. Lunch was served by the hostess and meeting closed with the King.

THE FALL FASHION HEADLINERS

Among the designs that make the Fall Headlines several definitely interesting style trends stand out prominently, in the Fall SUITS and COATS,

The Suit has a longer jacket and is fitted with bell, the sleeves show an interesting deep armhole and the shoulders are attractively wide.

It is again a sleeve story in Coats, bringing a fundamental change from last year when the Dolman was popular. This year the Dolman just takes a back seat to make a place of prominence for variations of the bloused sleeve which take the limelight.

Out in front in popularity are two distinctive models - - - the balloon push-up sleeve, to be worn long and tapered at the wrist or bloused in full at the elbow. And then there's the new mosquitoire type sleeve draping from shoulder to wrist in fullness, then shirred with elastic to fit the wrist.

You are invited to visit the Ladies' Ready To Wear Department, on the second floor and see what's new in coats. It will be a pleasure to demonstrate these lovely new styles.

Maritime Strike Settlement Hopes Receive Setback

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—Any hopes for peace on the United States' strike-bound waterfronts suffered a setback tonight with an announcement that C. I. O. seamen would demand pay increases matching anything won by American Federation of Labor sailors in their strike against a "pay-cut" decision by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The statement was made by Joseph Curran, president of 90,000 National Maritime Union (C.I.O.) workers, on the eve of a W.S.B. meeting in Washington to reconsider a cutback to $17.50 a month it ordered in A.F.L. negotiated raises amounting to $22.50 on the west coast and $27.50 on the east. The ruling, based on a $17.50 month award to C.I.O. seamen in settlement of a threatened strike last June, resulted in a strike which made idle 500,000 men and tied up every seaport in the country.

Strike leaders said that only an outright reversal and restoration of the $5 and $10 cut would end the walkout.
