

WAS SO STIFF AND SORE HE COULD HARDLY BEND

As good as new next morning, after simple home treatment

After tramping around all day with wet feet while out running, a Philadelphia sportsman found himself so stiff and lame he could hardly bend.

"I went to work but had to come home," he writes. "I applied Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. I was as good as new next morning, thanks to the quick and sure action of Sloan's."

Sloan's gives real relief because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It helps the body to throw off the cause of the pain.

Apply a little lightly, without rubbing. Right away the stiffness and pain ease up, as fresh healing blood is sent to the sore spots.

Get a bottle of Sloan's today and have on hand for the first emergency. All druggists—35 cents.

Scottish Cove Dweller's Fate

(By British United Press.)

LONDON, March 15.—An old woman street singer, well known throughout the North of Scotland as "Joyful," who lived for the greater part of the year in one of the famous Covessea caves, three miles west of Lossiemouth, has died under pathetic circumstances.

"Joyful," whose real name was Christine Farquhar of Macdonald, is believed to have been a native of Sutherlandshire, and she earned her nickname from the fact that she and her husband invariably chose the hymn "Oh that will be joyful."

For the past nine months "Joyful," along with her aged husband, James Macdonald, who is almost blind, and a daughter, have been living in a cave at Covessea.

The other day as "Joyful" felt unable to rise from the litter of bracken and rags which she called a bed, a doctor was called in who ordered her removal to Craigmoiry poorhouse, Elgin, "Joyful" however stoutly refused to leave the cave, and during the night fear of the poorhouse evidently proved too much for the old woman who unobserved by the others, rose and left the cave.

When the husband and daughter awoke and found her gone they immediately took their dog and set out to track her along the beach and across the frost-brown bents.

Towards dawn, as they were passing a lane in Stottfield, the dog suddenly stopped and refused to go further. Nearby the old man and his daughter found "Joyful" lying across the path numbed with cold and speechless.

When the police arrived, the dog became savage and attempted to attack them, and it was found impossible to lift the old woman on to the stretcher until the animal had been dragged away from the spot and forcibly held down.

"Joyful" received every kindness at the police station and subsequently at the Elgin poorhouse, but exposure had told its tale on her emaciated frame, and a few hours later she passed away.

BAN THE DESSERT.

It takes heroic measures to sluff off the extra ten pounds lamented by the overweight sister. To retrain from dessert will help. There are two ways to reduce: Choose bulky vegetables and bran and eat all you want; or eat what you want and only eat a little of it.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. MARY McLEOD

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary McLeod, which was one of the largest ever seen in Orwell Cove, took place from her late residence on January 23rd. Mrs. McLeod had been in her usual good health up to less than a fortnight previous to her death. She will be much missed in the community as she was of a kind and unassuming personality, much loved by everybody.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. Alexander Marchison of Orwell. Her husband the late Mr. Alexander McLeod predeceased her twenty-two years ago. There are left to mourn the loss of an always kind and loving mother, one daughter, Jessie, and one son, John, living at home, also one son Alexander who resides in Boston, Mass., but who returned home in time to see his mother before she passed away.

She is also survived by one brother John Marchison of Bridgewater, Mass.

MR. NEIL McKINNON

At the residence of her son-in-law William Buchanan, Eldon Belfast, on February 14th, 1927, Christy Stewart, relict of the late Neil McKinnon aged 90 years. The late Mrs. McKinnon was a quiet, unassuming Christian lady, and was well liked by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

She leaves to mourn one daughter, Mrs. Wm. Buchanan, with whom she resided for the last thirty years, also one step-son, G. E. McKinnon, Montague. Twelve grandchildren and fourteen great grandchildren also survive.

The funeral service which was very impressive was conducted by Mr. Brown, Presbyterian student. The choir rendered beautiful and appropriate singing. The pall bearers were James Larabee, Norman McPherson, Alexandre Campbell, Joseph Dixon, Dan Boss, James Stewart, Interment Belfast Cemetery.

MRS. PETER FERGUSON.

At Graham's Road, on February 15th, Mrs. Peter Ferguson died, after the affliction of a fatal illness. The very best medical skill that science could command was ineffectual to combat the fell destroyer and she departed her soul to the Supreme Judge in perfect resignation. She was buried at Summerfield on Thursday, March 3, the services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Harrison, Clifton. The pall bearers were the deceased's six cousins: James A. Campbell, G. Campbell, James N. Campbell, Hugh Campbell, Allan Campbell, and Bert McKay.

Rev. Mr. Harrison delivered an appropriate address, briefly, yet eloquently, exemplifying the virtuous life and commendable example of the deceased, and emphasizing the prime importance of conforming our daily actions to the Will of God.

Mrs. Ferguson was in maidenhood, Kristy Ramsey, a sister of the late Mr. William Ramsey, Park Corner, a man who was known throughout the whole Province as a gentleman of superior integrity. In fact few families merited higher repute. One brother, Alexander Ramsey, lives in Wisconsin, and one son Hugh John, resides on the homestead. To the stricken husband and to all the relatives the sympathy of very many friends is extended, and all are confident that the meritorious deeds of the happy departed has merited of the reward of a virtuous life. JAMES D. PROUDE.

The death of James Proudé on March 7th, after a very brief illness came as a terrible shock to York and the surrounding communities. Little people dream that this determined, ambitious boy, who could laugh at any obstacle would be taken off on the threshold of an active and useful career.

It is needless to say that his death robs his home of a very dear member. It robs the community of a valuable and inspiring worker in any good cause, a friend and protector of the younger boys, and a conscientious member of the church and Sunday School. It robs his companions of a loyal comrade who would play his part in any enterprise and stay with them till the end, regardless of the issue.

Jimmy was a regular boy. His companions who grew up with him, and who perhaps knew the real Jimmy best, know that he was that is to be desired in a red-blooded boy, that he understood sportsmanship, and was playing the game of life as hard and straight as he played his athletic encounters, and that he was honest and chivalrous to a degree that was certainly admirable.

As an athlete he early showed marked ability. He was the modest possessor of a gold medal for distance running. When only fourteen he entered a five mile race in Charlottetown, and from a large field of older competitors, won the race, exhibiting ability and gameness which marked him as a coming star. He never relinquished his interest in athletics and now at seventeen, through intelligent exercise and care he had brought his body to a degree of physical perfection which would certainly do credit to any track or field team.

He was a versatile musician and for one so young played the violin with remarkable ability. No social gathering or public entertainment was complete without one of two of his popular selections. He was always willing to play for any worthy cause, and time and again carried his violin to homes where he knew old or sick folks would be brightened by his music.

There is not an activity in the neighborhood which is passing which will not leave a vacancy. Everybody loses a friend, for it can be truthfully said, he had no enemies. We, his comrades who remain are shaken at the thought that this fel-

During my third expectant period I was nauseated, my nerves went to pieces and I grew so weak and miserable that I could not do anything. I finally began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and from that on I got along fine. My nerves quieted down, I grew stronger and had a very healthy baby. She always has been exceedingly well. low, a prince of a boy, with a body built by the gods and on the very eve of an active career of usefulness, is taken, while we, in so many ways subordinate, are left to carry on. For him we shall always hold beautiful and precious memories, we take off our hats to his straight clean, active life, which is an inspiration to his companions and a great source of consolation and comfort to his family in their very deep grief.

He leaves behind his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Proudé, two sisters, Mrs. James McCormick in Sask.; Mrs. Gordon Carr-Oyster Bed; one brother Peter, at home.

The funeral service was held at the home Tuesday afternoon at 2.00. Although the weather and roads were not at their best, between three and four hundred people crowded the home to pay their last silent tribute to a youth who made friends, and demanded respect wherever he went.

The pall bearers were: Messrs. Leith Brown, William Cooke, Vernon Vessell, Harry Lewis, Harry Vessell, Edward Beaton.

The floral tributes were: Pillow—the family; Wreath—York Sunday School; Crescent—York Young People's Society; Crescent—Aunt Ada and Ellwood; Crescent—Mr. and Mrs. James Gesner.

MISS NETTIE HYDE

There are some lives which, though modest and retiring, yet extend their gentle, loving influence like the current of a vast sea. This is particularly true of Miss Nettie M. Hyde, who passed into the great beyond on Sunday, March 6th, in her 60th year. The late Miss Hyde, from early girlhood, had the Divine gift of making sincere friendships and was blessed with a kindly nature, practical sympathy and understanding heart which, through life, endeared her to everyone who knew her. The centre of a wide circle of Christian friends, she practised a practical Christianity, and made her a source of help and inspiration and assuredly had a great influence in the lives of those she loved and who loved her.

The late Miss Hyde was the daughter of Flora A. and Artemas Hyde, Clyde River, and spent the first three years of her life at her native home. Later she resided in Boston, returning home to her father's place on account of failing health. Neither the sturdy Island climate, professional skill nor the environment of her girlhood days, however, could prevent the illness, which ended on March 6th the patient sufferer entered her last rest in the presence of her nearest relatives. There are left to mourn five brothers: John Chalmers and William in Boston, Mass.; George at Vancouver and Austin at Clyde River; and three sisters: Mrs. Robert Walker, Summerside; Mrs. Martin, Boston and Mrs. John Montague, Vancouver.

The funeral service was held on Wednesday, March 9th at the MacLean Funeral Home, Charlottetown, and interment was made in Meadowbank Cemetery. The services at the Funeral Home were conducted by Rev. Scott Fulton, assisted by Rev. H. Stavert and Rev. Mr. Aitken, and at the grave by Rev. Mr. Aitken. The pall bearers were Gordon MacMillan, Heber MacPhail, W. Murray, H. MacLean Hector Darrach, F. Darrach.

DEATH OF REV. G. P. TATTRIE, B. D., OF O'LEARY.

At the Manse O'Leary on March 9th, Rev. George Phillip Tattie, B. D., passed peacefully away to the home on high. He resigned his charge at the Oct. meeting of Presbytery owing to ill health. He had been under treatment for more than two years for Anaemia, and was able to be up and around until two weeks before his death. He was born at River John, Pictou Co., N. S., on July 21st, 1869 and was a personal friend of the deceased. He was of hardy Protestant Huguenot stock, which came originally from Switzerland. He secured his early education at River John, at Pictou Academy, and went to Dalhousie College, Halifax, graduating with a B. A. degree in 1894. He entered Pine Hill Theological College and graduated in 1896. He went out to Saskatchewan and did pioneer work in the Mission fields there for 8 years and then took a post graduate course in Princeton, N. J., taking his B. D. degree in 1905. He accepted a call to New Carlisle, N. B., that year and laboured there for 8 years and was called to Tabusintac, N. B., and remained there 8 years and was called to O'Leary, P. E. Island and inducted there on July 1921 after 1-2 years of faithful service there he resigned and remained in the Manse there until his death on March 9th. He gave 50 years of service to his church. He was a sound preacher, a faithful pastor a conscientious Presbyterian and a generous friend of missions giving out of his salary $300 every year for the support of a missionary in Korea, and doing his full share in his own church as well.

Mr. Tattie's first wife was Mable Sutherland, daughter of Rev. Mr. Sutherland of New Carlisle, N. B., who lived only one short year after their marriage. Before coming to O'Leary in 1921 he married Helen Simpson of Tabusintac, N. B., who with their little son Lawson, now mourns the loss of a devoted husband and father. Mr. Tattie's brother from River John, N. S., and Mrs. Tattie's two sisters were at the Manse when the end came and were a great comfort to the widow. The funeral service was held in the O'Leary church Thursday March 10th, at 2 o'clock. Rev. F. E. Boothroyd, chairman of Presbytery, presided. Rev. D. K. Ross of North Bedouque delivered the address and Messrs. Hooker, Elliott, Weir, Copeland and Turpie were on the platform and took part in the service. The music was good and the floral tributes were very beautiful. The church was crowded, all nominations in the vicinity were present. The remains were taken from the church Friday morning to the train and thence to River John, N. S., for interment. Much sympathy went for Mrs. Tattie and her little son in this hour of their sorrow.

—WESLEY JAY

A wave of sadness and gloom swept over Mt. Stewart and the surrounding country when it was learned that the pure soul of Wesley Jay took his flight to heaven on the morning of February 21st, at the age of 41 years.

In the autumn of 1926 he was stricken with that dread disease, cancer, and despite the best medical attention and skill in his native province and at Montreal the slender thread of life was severed on the above date.

During his illness through which he was attended by his pastor, Rev. M. K. Charman, minister of The United Church of Canada at Mt. Stewart of which he was a consistent member. He bore his intense suffering with the greatest patience and resignation to the Divine will and was never once known to murmur.

In his passing Mt. Stewart has lost one of its best citizens and Mr. Jay's brother, he having twice held the office of W. M.

Whilst all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance mourn their loss yet it is in the home where he will be most sorely missed for he was a kind and loving father and a devoted husband.

He leaves to mourn a heart broken widow (nee Annie C. McCannell) and six small children, the oldest being only nine years old, also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Jay of Fanning Brook, and three brothers viz. Robert M. of Mt. Stewart; B. Franklin of Oshawa, Ont., and Ward B. of the homestead at Fanning Brook.

The funeral services which were very impressive were conducted at the home by Rev. M. K. Charman. The hymns sung were "Shall We Gather at River," "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Abide with Me," at the close of which the casket was borne by six brother Orangetmen, viz. L. E. Jay, K. C. Jay, E. McAssey, F. L. Jay and G. W. Jay to the nearby cemetery where all that was mortal of a once noble and useful life was laid to rest there to await a glorious resurrection.

The services at the grave were conducted by the Rev. M. K. Charman and the brother Orangetmen. The floral tributes were:

Wreaths—Family; Mr. and Mrs. Archibald McCannell and family; Daniel McCannell; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leard and family.

Leaves have their time to fall, The flowers must wither at the north wind's breath The stars shall set but thou hast all seasons for thine own. Oh, Death!

FUNERAL OF THE LATE LIEUTENANT BENEDICT COYLE AT WASHINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Coyle are in receipt of letters from their two sons Louis and Leo also their daughter, Mrs. Blanchard, who attended the funeral of their brother, the late Lieutenant, Benedict A. Coyle, who was killed in an airplane crash at Kelly's Field, Texas, on Feb. 16th.

The funeral was held in Washington, the remains being accompanied from Texas by his widow and young child.

The plot where the remains were laid to rest in Arlington Cemetery was selected by the Captain of the Air Base at Washington who bore a personal friendship of the deceased Lieutenant. The plot is on a high portion of ground, "a place fitting of a flying officer's last resting place."

Two brothers, Louis and Leo, in their Canadian Uniforms acted as warders of the casket, which was borne by three Majors and three Captains.

Lieutenants from the flying corps acted as the active pall bearers.

The body was conveyed to its last resting place on a gun carriage drawn by six horses while three aeroplanes flew above and dropped beautiful flowers at the grave.

The following extract from the "Woburn Times" concluding an article on the accident says of deceased: Benedict A. Coyle came to Woburn when a young man. He made his home with his sister on Hart Place, having entered the employ of the United States Trust Co. of Boston. He was also employed by the Barker Lumber Co. of this city. At the outbreak of the war young Coyle immediately applied for admission to the officers' school at Plattsburg from which he graduated with the rank of lieutenant. He went to France as an observer in the air service and after twenty-five months in foreign service he returned to this country where he was discharged. After spending some time in Woburn, he took his course in the different branches of airplane instruction. Lt. Coyle was graduated with the rank of Lt. Instructor. It was while in structuring a young cadet that he met his death.

While stationed there he met and married Mabel Morgan who made her home a few miles from the airport at Kelly's Field when the young lieutenant was transferred to that camp. One daughter, Mary Evelyn, was born of the union, who also survives. After completing his course in the different branches of airplane instruction, Lt. Coyle was graduated with the rank of Lt. Instructor. It was while in structuring a young cadet that he met his death.

Lt. Coyle just completed his tenth year in the United States Air Service having been in the branch of the air service during his army career. He enlisted in 1917 and after the World War where he served as an observer took up the technique of flying all its planes. He has many friends in Woburn who will be gratified upon hearing of the death of the young flier.
