IMPRESSIVE SERVICE FOR DEAD MARINERS

Gloucester Honors Her Departed Fishermen Who Lost Lives During Past Year.

By Tom Horgan, Associated Press Staff Writer

GLoucester, Mass., Aug. 7.—They have stood their last watch, the 30 mariners Gloucester honored today, whose graves in uncharted waters, whose graves are marked only by ocean grottoes are marked only by the racing whitecaps. They are the men who did not come home from the fishing banks during the past year, for whom the bell buoys toll a lonely requiem as they sleep in their seaweed shrouds.

Thirty times a name was tolled as sprays of sweet, bright hues were cast from Blynnan's bridge where the Ipswich river meets the sea. Thirty times a prayer was spoken as the tide bore the tributes out on the bosom of the Atlantic.

Six of the names called were added to the roll when the steamer Cyprus Prince bore down on the Cape Cod Channel and Elinor as fog hid the Bay of Fundy. When the Belgian steamer Jean Jadot cut the schooner Eleanor Mickerson in two on the banks last February, 21 other names joined the roster.

The Eleanor Mickerson fished out of Boston and not all of her crew were Gloucester men, but so many of them were that the Fishermen's institute, which conducts the annual service, would not separate

Tonight, the British "Cabinet" of seven met to consider the report of the British experts on Canada's offer of preference for preference, and to determine what counter-proposals Great Britain will make to Canada.

British experts examined the offer particularly in its bearing on British exports to Canada. In their report, they hold, it is understood, that the potential value of the offer, in terms of British export

Arrested Commander And Crew

(By Thomas T. Champton, Canadian Press Correspondent)

LONDON, Aug. 7.—A rural policeman, who had the distinction of arresting single-handed the commander and crew of a Zeppelin during the war, has just retired in the person of Sergeant Charles Smith, of the Essex constabulary.

In 1916, when Smith was a constable, a Zeppelin, bent on dropping bombs on the eastern counties, was forced to land on marshy land near Colchester, apparently through engine trouble. After the crew of 22 had jumped out, the commander ordered them to set the airship on fire.

Constable Smith, who was patrolling that lonely country area, walked up and placed the commander and his whole crew under arrest. The captives "went quietly," tramping stolidly at the side of the constable. Presently they fell in with a party of troops, and the constable handed his captives over to the military, who also prevented the fire spreading on the Zeppelin. For his readiness in this emergency Smith was promoted to Sergeant, and awarded the policeman's badge of merit.

LUMBER FIRE AT TIMMINS BURNS OUT

Damage Was Placed At $110,000—Five Million Feet Of Lumber Completely Destroyed.

TIMMINS, Ont., Aug. 7.—Rendered tinder-like by the scorching sunshine 5,000,000 feet of lumber were completely destroyed by fire which started late Saturday afternoon and engaged two Timmins fire departments for hours before it finally burned out. Damage was placed at $150,000 by officials of the Fiesheron Lumber Company, owners of the lumber yard.

The blaze was one of the most spectacular, flames shooting to great heights, casting a ruddy glow for miles around that attracted a great crowd. Smoke poured from the burning mass and sparks flew upward, but fortunately there were no buildings within several hundred yards.

The fire broke out about four o'clock Saturday afternoon and quickly got beyond all control of the hurriedly-summoned firemen. Cause of the blaze is unknown, but is thought to have originated from a spark from yard machinery or some other similar source. The 30 men of the two departments confined their efforts to preventing spread of the blaze when it was apparent the fire had secured so great a hold on the piled timber that water could not quench the flames.

Discontinuance of the service was attributed by Captain Eugene E. O'Donnell, President of the Eastern Steamships Lines, to "uncontrolled truck competition," and a recent increase in fuel oil.

Opening Ceremonies Of Welland Canal Unparalleled In History Of Canada—A Beautiful Scene And One Long To Be Remembered.

(By Ray Brown, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

THOROLD, Ont., Aug. 7.—The Welland ship canal is "open to the commerce of the world."

These simple words from His Excellency the Governor General, on Saturday afternoon, crowned a great achievement. Then he moved a control level. Slowly, the huge red and white bulk of the steamship "Lemoine", world monarch of freshwater, came to life. Pennants flying, almost imperceptibly she moved down the new canal towards the Governor General, the Prime Minister of Canada, and the Empire statesmen and ladies gathered to receive her. Thousands watched her stately progress. At that moment she typified the water-borne commerce of Canada and of the world.

Memorable Ceremony

The opening ceremonies of the new $130,000,000 waterway were perhaps unparalleled in the history of Canada. They brought to the flag-bedecked marquee erected at twin locks number six, statesmen from the four corners of the British Empire. One after another, distinguished representatives of the mother country and her remote Dominions voiced their congratulations that Canada's great water transportation dream was coming true. One after another they expressed sincere pleasure that the vision of 1913 had become the reality of 1932. The United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand, India, the Irish Free State, Newfoundland, through their Imperial Conference delegates, joined in Canada's satisfaction at a great accomplishment and wished her generous success. No discordant note was heard.

Beautiful Scene

The scene was one of beauty. A bright sun in a clear sky shone down upon hundreds of gay flags and pennants flying in the breeze. Along the straight, grey walls of the deep lock basins, thousands of people in holiday attire were gathered. A stairway rose from the motor road to the terraced sides of the canal to the locks. Here the crowd was densest, because up it came the Empire delegates, the distinguished visitors whom people were curious to see.

Drawn up at the side of the stairway, a detachment of the Royal Canadian regiment, with shining bayonets, formed a solid block of scarlet, gold and black in the colorful picture. The ladies of the Indian delegation, in oriental garb, contributed a bit of the far East. With them stood the delegation representatives, the men in formal dress with high hats, the ladies in afternoon costumes of all the colors
