Private Lives Of Elizabeth And Essex

ITALIANS ADMIT

Local Premiere at the Capitol, Summerside, Today.

The local premiere of "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex" opened at the Capitol Theatre, Summerside this evening. The Warner Bros. production filmed in Technicolor has been heralded by critics who viewed it recently in Hollywood as the season's most impressive of features telling a highly dramatic and essentially human story against the magnificent pageantry of the Elizabethan court. The private lives of Elizabeth and Essex deals with the type of life lived in the life of England's most famous queen. The role of Elizabeth is one which Miss Davis was destined to play and act in. Her role reports, she is every inch and fibre the queen. Side by side and pace by pace with her strides, Errol Flynn as Essex, it is the type of role which she is a natural. The story opens with the return of the Spanish at Cadiz. But instead of receiving a royal welcome from his queen, he is upbraided by Elizabeth for not capturing the Spanish port.

Furious and hurt she retires him from her court. An Irish rebellion is the excuse Elizabeth uses to get him back to court, but her courtiers constantly try to rid themselves of the queen's favorite by getting him to take charge of the army. Plots against him prevent him from receiving adequate support in Ireland, and his expedition fails. Angered because he believes the queen has deserted him after seven years' service in the China Seas and with the Mediterranean and home fleets.

use of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. That has been our traditional policy.

"We of the Americas still consider that this defence of these oceans of the western hemisphere against acts of aggression is the first factor in the defence and protection of our own territorial integrity. We reaffirm that policy lest there be any doubt of our intention to maintain it."

Dictators Will Fall

"The President said that "divide and conquer" had been the battle cry of the dictator powers in their war against democracy, that it had succeeded in Europe, but that "on our continent it will fail."

"The core of our defence is the faith we have in the institutions we defend," the President asserted. "The Americas will not be scared or threatened into the ways of the dictators who want us to follow. No combination of dictator countries of Europe and Asia will halt us in the path we see ahead for ourselves and for democracy."

"No combination of dictator countries of Europe and Asia will stop the help we are giving to almost the last free people fighting to hold their own."

"We arm to defend ourselves. The strongest reason for that is that it is the strongest guarantee for peace."

"The United States of America is mastering its own air and sea, arming not only to defend itself, but, in co-operation with other American republics, to help defend the whole hemisphere."

"We are building a total defence on land and sea and in the air, sufficient to repel total attacks from any part of the world. Forewarned by the deliberate attacks of the dictators upon free peoples, the United States for the first time in its history, has undertaken the mustering of its men in peace time."

"Unprecedented dangers have caused the United States to undertake the building of a navy and an air force sufficient to defend all the coasts of the Americas from any combination of hostile powers."

Have Learned Lessons

The assertions that "we have learned the lessons of recent years," Mr. Roosevelt said, could no longer be disputed that forces bent on conquest of the world would destroy whomever and whenever they could destroy.

"The people of the Americas, he said, reject the doctrine of appeasement, recognizing it as a major weapon of the aggressor nations."

Appearing then by withholding aid from those who stand in their way, he said, would merely hasten their attack on the United States.

He emphasized that "this country wants no war with any nation, this hemisphere wants no war with any nation."

On this side of the ocean, he said, there is no desire and will be no effort on the part of any one race, or people, or nation, to control any other.

"So bound together," Mr. Roosevelt said, "we are able to withstand any attack from the east or from the west."

The naval and air bases, strung out in the Atlantic from Newfoundland to British Guiana, were acquired for the defence of the defence not only of the United States but also for that of the entire hemisphere," he declared.

Sad Fatality On Highway Near Kensington

A very sad accident occurred on Saturday morning about nine o'clock on the Irishtown road when little David Mann, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Allison Mann, was instantly killed when struck by a car driven by Mr. Roy Adams of Sea View. The little fellow with another brother and two sisters, all young children, were going along the road on their way to visit their grandmother, Mrs. Johnston Mann, who lived the farm adjoining their own. When the car came along the little boy became confused and ran in front of it. The driver turned sharply to avoid the child but could not. His car struck him in the ditch and his mother, Mrs. William Adams was thrown out and her arm caught underneath the vehicle. Passersby helped to lift the vehicle and extricated Mrs. Adams from her position. She was taken to the Prince County Hospital where she was found to have a fractured arm. She received medical care and is resting comfortably in the hospital.

The R. C. M. P. at Summerside were notified of the accident and came out at once, accompanied by Dr. W. B. Howatt, coroner. A jury was summoned and will meet at the Town Hall, Kensington, nine o'clock Tuesday morning. The jury members are: Rev. A. D. Stirling, foreman, Messrs. Daniel MacKenzie, Hilda Cameron, Hollis MacKay, A. K. Pidgeon, Heath Casey, and George Ives.

The little boy was laid to rest on Sunday afternoon in the family plot in the People's Cemetery, Kensington. The funeral which was held at the home of the child's parents was one of the largest ever held in the district, friends coming from far and near to sympathize with the bereaved parents. Rev. Mr. Rhoads officiated at the service and spoke words of comfort to the bereaved.

The pallbearers were Robert Mann, Leslie Mann, and Everett Cousins. The loss of the little boy is a great shock to Mr. and Mrs. Mann. Particularly so as only about six weeks ago they lost an infant son who passed away quite suddenly. The Guardian extends sympathy to the bereaved family.

sources, and so far as I know every newspaperman and everyone on the inside knew all about the story. I verified the story before I ever referred to it."

"I have told Mr. King on more than one occasion that he should keep me informed for my own guidance but latterly he has not taken me into his confidence at all. I therefore feel free to exercise my own judgment on any public question."

"I am not yet officially informed that the British government desired this information to be made secret. I have a stern suspicion that the matter was allowed to be made public in order to save Mr. King's position in regard to his refusal to permit the British government to train these pilots in Canada in 1938."

"Had he done so Canada would have been making a real contribution at this moment to the Royal Air Force. Instead, he refused to permit the proposal on the ground that to train these men in Canada by the British government at its expense would be a violation of Canadian sovereignty."

"Mr. King was wrong in 1938. He is right in 1940 in permitting these operations to go on in Canada but what a pity that two years have been wasted."

Replying to Air Minister Power's statement which spoke of Mr. Hanson's "great work of recruiting for the Tory party" and said that "by betraying the secret not of the Canadian government but of Britain... he (Mr. Hanson) may be a new recruit; his name is Hitler," the Conservative leader stated:

"What a very dignified statement about a political opponent, for a cabinet minister to make on a matter of such importance."

Evelyn Bell read the scripture from Matthew 25:31-46 and the president, David Murphy led in prayer. After the hymn, Lord, Speak To Me that I May Hear, Mary Quigley gave a reading on the streets and led a short discussion along the same line. This part of the meeting closed by singing O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee. The president then took charge of the meeting. The secretary was instructed to pay the remaining $10.00 of the allocation to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund. $3.00 was voted to the R. C. Cross and $5.00 to the Dr. Gilchrist Fund. canal leading out of Chilla to the Black Sea.

Chilla is a river port on one of the branches of the Danube River near where it enters the Black Sea.

A report that a Rumanian Monitor plying between Odessa, Soviet Russia, and the Danube River mouth had been sunk by Russian destroyers was denied in informed quarters. It was explained the report grew out of a slight accident in which a Rumanian passenger boat from Odessa grounded and then aboard were rescued by a Russian Monitor.

German troops, under command of a general of cavalry accompanied by six officers wearing the regimental trousers of the general staff, entered Bucharest Saturday and planted the Swastika firmly in the capital of Rumania.

A long column of field gray trucks carried German soldiers with fixed bayonets through the streets and quadrants of airplanes, some with the Nazi insignia, roared overhead. German flags flew from unaccustomed standards; bands played German music; the streets and squares were filled with the sound of the German march.

The implications of this ostentatious entry—this incontestable German military penetration of Rumania—were many.

Some observers speculated that new German-Italian moves in southeastern Europe and weighed the declaration of Turkey that 2,000,000 bayonets would stand afoot any attempt to move in Turkey's direction in the near east.

Amid the parades and the band music, British subjects quietly packed and hurriedly left. Severity of diplomatic relations was believed near.

Pope Pius Asks Prayers For Peace

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 13—(AP)—Pope Pius, in a broadcast to the closing session of the National Eucharistic Congress of Argentina, urged his listeners today to pray for peace.

"Pray to Jesus Christ, our Lord," the Pontiff said, "to spread His peace... among the spirits of all mankind that it may overflow from the heart and extinguish the bitter struggle which sows death on land and sea and in the sky and feeds people with the bread of pain and bathes them in the tears of blood."

"Only in Christ," the world's Saviour, is our hope, because in His hands are the hearts of men, and he knows and can bring tranquility to the tumultuous waves."
