RED CROSS MEETING—The regular meeting of the Warren Grove Junior Red Cross "Live Wires" was held in the schoolhouse on March 27th, with sixteen members present. The roll call was answered to by a "longue twister." The Health Committee reported that three members had been breaking the Health Rules. The Circulation Manager reported he had received fourteen copies of the "Junior Red Cross Magazine" but had not yet sold them all. An essay on "Canada for our portfolio" was then read by the President. The Secretary then read a letter of acknowledgement of the money sent to Red Cross. The roll call for the next meeting is to be answered by each member paying five cents. A new program committee was then appointed for next meeting. As there was no further business, the following program brought the meeting to a close: Recitation, Florence Jewell; Reading, Dorothy MacLean; Duet, Marguerite Moreside and Hilda Stevenson; Reading, Eleanor Younker; Recitation, Sarah MacWalker; Mouth organ selection, Hilda Stevenson; Recitation, Earl Younker.

MURRAY HARBOR NORTH—The Easter season is quiet here, as impassable roads and a good deal of illness make a poor combination.

We are sorry to report the serious illness of Mrs. Newton Hicken and Mrs. Fred G. Johnston, but hope that under the doctor's skillful care and the excellent nursing of Mrs. Bella Clow and Miss Lucy Johnston that there may be improvement in the near future in both cases.

Mr. William Kennedy is getting a new garage built by the aid of Mr. Herbert Liewellyn.

Our school teacher, Mr. Beck, is attending the convention of teachers of the Island in Charlottetown and as a consequence, the girls and boys are enjoying a holiday, an acceptable thing in the time of bad roads and uncertain weather.

The farmers are finishing up the threshing of their grain and the sowing of the remaining piles of wood for the summer season.

Messrs. Hicken made their rounds gathering eggs on Good Friday so there would be no stale ones in the houses to hinder the enjoyment of the Easter season.

Many of the deep snow banks on the roads here have been shovelled out by the residents as the tracks had become almost a menace to the drivers.

The local lobster factory owners are busy getting in their annual requirements for the season and it is expected operations will be in full blast by the beginning of May if the ice is gone from the Gulf and the snow from the roads and fields.

Miss Gladys Reid is receiving congratulations for having had a birthday during the past week. May they continue in future.

The hooking parties for the season are nearly at an end, though a great many women would like to get more mats completed. The variety and colors are many and so also are the sizes.

Mrs. MacLean Graham is slowly recovering from her recent operation and expects soon to be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Artemas MacDonald of Greek River, are receiving the congratulations of their friends on the arrival of a daughter, one day last week.

ASK FOR STATE FISHERY PROBE

(Canadian Press)
PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 6.—Nova Scotia is not the only part of the world in which difference of opinion exists on fisheries regulations. Late in March a resolution was introduced in the Rhode Island assembly calling for the creation of a five-man commission to study the state's fisheries laws.

The Journal remarks editorially that enactment of the commission "might well be the starting point for the statutory reform in this field which is so much needed."

"The proposed commission ought naturally to do more than obtain the views of the various factions among Rhode Island fishermen and use them as a basis for codifying the existing statutes. It should first determine exactly what rights and privileges are given the Rhode Island free fisherman by the State's fundamental law, then study out the essentials of a programme under which the fisheries would best be developed and conserved as a resource of the State and a source of income to the individual, and finally frame a body of laws designed to protect those rights and privileges and promote that program, with a single commission as the administrative authority."

"The disputes and warfare among fishermen and the ill-feeling between the latter and State authorities to whom the task of regulating the fisheries has been delegated will not end, nor will the fisheries be truly and wisely conserved, until such a course of action has been followed."

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 6.—Old-timers who thrill audiences of small boys with their description of "terrific" snowfalls in Saint John half a century ago, are quite snow-blind when it comes to actual facts. The Saint John Observatory Chart supplies these facts, and thereby hangs a different tale.

Official records issued by the Government Meteorological Observatory, Douglas Avenue, compiled from statistics of the last fifty years, proves that snowfall is dropping in waves each year, and that winter is just about the same as it used to be. The largest number of inches of snow is listed 1881-1882 when 147 inches were gauged, but 1922-1923 saw only one less inch. This year seems to be in a valley of the mountain range trend.

Despite the fact we know March 21 as the first day of spring, the observatory notes that last year experienced 2.50 inches of snow in April; in the same month of 1929, 2.35 inches; in fact, away back in April, 1882, all of 24 inches.

UNITED KINGDOM TRADE CONDITIONS

The first two months of the new year have passed without any tangible sign of improvement in either domestic or foreign business in the United Kingdom, writes Harrison Watson, Canadian Trade Commissioner at London, in the forthcoming issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal. Judged statistically, overseas trade is steadily deteriorating month by month, both as regards imports and exports. Although wholesale prices as a whole appear periodically to have touched bottom, and slight advances are now marked in the case of a few individual commodities, relapses in a downward direction continue to take place. The present unsatisfactory condition of affairs is exemplified by the results of overseas trade of the United Kingdom for January and February in comparison with the same period in 1930. Whereas a fall in wholesale prices of somewhere about 20 per cent has taken place in the interval, the statistics issued for the first two months of 1931 exhibit a decline of 28 1/2 per cent in the value of imports, and of 38 per cent in total exports, made up of 37 per cent in British products, and 29 1-3 per cent in re-exports.

Mr. Taylor, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Neil Taylor, was born here eighty-three years ago on the homestead now occupied by his son, Mr. Elmer Taylor, and where Mr. Taylor spent his boyhood days and practically his whole life with the exception of five years in Vancouver. The deceased was married to Miss Katie MacGougan, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archibald MacGougan about fifty-five years ago and they spent many years of happy wedded life till her passing twenty-five years ago.

In the passing hence of Mr. Taylor this community mourns the loss of a man whose type of character was of the kind that gives good reputation to a community—and not only in this community for he was well and honorably known throughout Prince County. He was an active, energetic farmer; in later life he acted as agent for the Agricultural Mutual Fire Insurance Company and his territory extended over Lot 16, 17, and 18. This position he filled with efficiency about ten years and on his retirement moved to Vancouver to reside with his sister Mrs. Margaret Green but since that time has spent several summers at home here.

Mr. Taylor was one of the pillars of Princeton church—an elder for twenty-five years, a Sunday school superintendent and teacher for over thirty years, a man of ease, good judgment, whose opinion was sought and valued; and a leader in everything that tended to the advancement of the church and community. He was of a generous, social temperament and every one that visited his home was assured of a cordial welcome, he was a kind sympathetic christian gentleman—truly one of "God's Gentleman."

One son Mr. Elmer Taylor and one sister Mrs. Margaret Green mourn the loss of a devoted father and brother respectively. He was also survived by two Grandsons Messrs Charles and Erwin Taylor and many other relatives.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon March 30 from the residence of his sister Mrs. Green of Vancouver.

Mr. Taylor leaves behind him here many, who would fain lay a flower on his bier in remembrance of some kind word or deed and there are many—yes very many who will cherish his memory as long as life lasts.—M.
