The Butter Tariff

fates and the forward offering of New Zealand butter on our markets establishes a maximum price for the winter season which is below our cost of production and which produces the effects on output which we are discussing.

A Striking Comparison

It has been stated that New Zealand lands are vey high in price, and that this is a countervailing factor in our favor, as, for the most part, our dairy lands are worth from one-third to one-eighth he acre price of theirs. The cost of land undoubtedly enters into the cost of producing milk or butter, but we must remember that over a period of time that the price of land is a reflection of its earning power; New Zealand land is high in price because it has great earning power; ours is cheap because it will not earn a rental at any higher figure. In other words the fact that the New Zealand lands devoted to dairying can and do change hands at $350 per acre and more, is in itself an indication of potential profit and the fact that dairy farms all over Ontario and Quebec are practically unsaleable at from $75 down to $40 per acre and even less, shows that there is no money to be made in the business.

It is not necessary before this Board to refer to the criticism that butter would rise to exorbitant prices in this country if the duty were increased to four cents per pound. It would rise by three cents per pound in the season when import is required, and that is all; and I would point out that the proposed duty is only about 10 per cent. ad valorem. In other words, much less than the duty on many other farm products which, because they are still surplus products do not benefit by it. Of course, the 7 cent general tariff mentioned in the proposed schedule is only a basis tariff from which to grant a British preference, and no butter would come in from countries other than Australia and New Zealand, so that 4 cents would be the effective protection.

The Consumer's Viewpoint

Let us look at it from the consumer's standpoint. Is he really benefited by the fact that there are 160,000 cows not being milked in this country because the equivalent of their production is imported from abroad? Furthermore, a decrease in winter dairying means a decrease in total production so that at present our summer production of butter is scarcely sufficient for the demand and this results in higher prices in the flush season than would obtain if the industry as a whole was adjusted to the total demand for the year.

I have made no mention of the feed situation, which is highly abnormal this year owing to the widespread drought both east and west. If it were unprofitable to sell milk for manufacturing purposes last winter, what will it be this winter with feed at least $5 and perhaps $10 per tone more?

We must decide whether we wish to have the dairy industry contribute towards the paying of our bills abroad or whether we intend that it be a source of such bills.

Milk and cream to be consumed in fluid form continue to be produced to fill the available market because: (a) They cannot be imported and (b) this fact together with sanitary restrictions maintains the price far enough above that received for milk to be made into butter or cheese to be profitable. This winter many city markets will pay from 80 cents to 91 cents per pound butter-fat for whole milk, while the dairyman who has not the advantage of that market will be getting 44 cents or even less.

Present conditions indicate:

1. An import requirement of $50,000,000 lbs. of butter next year.
2. The total extinction of the favorable trade balance in dairy products in three years or less.
3. The ultimate cessation of cheese exports also.

Everywhere dairymen are either forsaking the production of milk for cheese or buttermaking purposes for the more profitable fluid poducts trade, or only engaging in dairying as a side issue, and that only in the summer time.

The tariff schedules set forth in connection with this brief are moderate. They would place no undue burden upon the consumer who would still be getting these fundamental foods at less relatives cost than other food products. They are designed to place the two great southern Dominions on an equality with each other. They preserve the principle of Inter-Empire Preference.

Recent legislative and economic tendencies in this country have produced an increase in machine operated extensive agriculture and a lessened rate of growth in those branches of farming requiring much capital and labor per unit area. It is not thus that our population may be increased. Nor must we forget the fundamental part that live stock farming must play in the conservation of soil fertility. It cannot be lessened or neglected with impunity, and the extensive practices referred to above have but a short life at the best.

We submit, therefore, that it is in the public interest that the proposed tariff schedule for butter and cheese be put into effect.

WEDDING BELLS—A very pretty and quiet wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Andrews, Hunter River, on December 11th, 1929, at 7 o'clock when their daughter Silla Jane, became the bride of Orville W. Sellar, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Sellar, of Hunter River. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. E. Chapman, of the United Church, in the presence of immediate relatives and friends of the bride and groom. The bridal party standing under a beautifully decorated arch of wedding bells were unattended. The Wedding March was played by Miss Ruth D'Eloiem, New Glasgow. The bride was given in marriage by her father and looked very pretty in a gown of beige georgette trimmed with brown transparent velvet and radium lace, with shoes and stockings to match. The groom's gift to the bride was a necklace of white gold set with Aquamarine. The double ring service was used. The gift to the organist was a gold bar-pin. After the bridal couple had received congratulations, the signing of the register took place during which time Miss Hazel Sellar, sister of the groom, sang sweetly "O Promise Me." A sumptuous repast was served. The color scheme of the dining room was white and pink. The bride's table was gracefully presided over by Mrs. James Andrews and Mrs. Ira Rackham. The wedding presents were numerous and costly, consisting of cheques, silverware and linen. The bride's travelling costume was blue transparent velvet with hat and coat to match. They will reside in Hunter River.

Half Million Fire In N. B.

MONCTON, N. B., Jan. 8—Fourteen buildings destroyed, four men in the hospitals suffering from injuries received in dynamite explosions resorted to in efforts to stay the progress of the flames and half a million dollars loss, is the net result of a fire which swept the east end of the town of Dalhousie, N. B., this afternoon. The fire broke out in Dujay's tailor shop in the east end of the town at 4.30 this afternoon and was under control at 10.30 tonight. The Campbellton Fire Department was summoned and only at 9 o'clock was water obtained with which to fight the spreading flames. The New Brunswick telephone wires were put out of commission early in the blaze. The Canadian National Railway station as well as the new Intercolonial Company Paper Mill escaped damage, although two houses occcupied by some of the company's staff were destroyed. Six men were injured in the dynamiting of buildings to stop the progress of the fire, and four of them, Leonard Cook, Wm. Desjardines, Lester R. O'Brien, and John Roy were taken to the town hospitals for treatment.

The fire is the worst the town of Dalhousie has suffered and the closest estimates of the property lost available tonight is near half a million dollars. The fourteen buildings destroyed were: Duguay's tailor shop, Clifford's store, Royal Hotel and annex, Mrs. Dean's residence, New Brunswick Telephone Company Bldg. Rose Jewelry store, Mrs. Roi Ruitzeler's store, Chisholm's store Goodwin's store and dwelling, LeBlanc block, two staff houses used by International Paper Company employees.
