REVIVAL OF SORCERY
 PARIS Oct. 8.—(British United Press)—"The first step for novices in sorcery and witchcraft is to make a contract with the devil," declared Maitre Maurice Garcon in an address before the Metapsychic Institute of Paris.
 "We have many ancient examples of these contracts in old French legal documents, and the ones being written today are practically identical with them. They are always written and signed in blood, of course. The substance of these contracts is that the novice agrees to sell his soul to the Evil One in return for power, or money, or something else he desires," Maitre Garcon explained.
 The speaker, who is one of the foremost barristers in Paris, has made a special study of the survival of sorcery, witchcraft and Black Masses in France, and has appeared in court in many cases involving these strange practices. It is a vast subject, for scarcely a week passes without such a case coming up in some part of the country.
 For example: a peasant will accuse an old hag who is reputed to be under the influence of the Evil Eye, of making his milk turn, or his pigs become ill, or his child develop a bad temper.
 This superstition is not confined to the remote mountain districts and other backward regions. A pastry-cook of the Parisian suburb of Fontenay-sous-Bols is now prosecuting a neighbor for making his cream turn sour in mid-winter, and similar cases are at present before the courts in all parts of France.
 "I have not only held some of these contracts in my hand," said Maitre Garcon, "but I actually witnessed one of these strange pacts recently. A friend who is also interested in these questions informed me that a novice was going to make a pact with the devil in the woods near Fontainebleau. Knowing the exact rendezvous he had chosen, we crawled up under some bushes until we had a good view.

 "The man had chosen a cross-roads, as the protocol demands, and a moonless night. He suddenly appeared at midnight. First of all he traced a magic circle around him. Then on the ground behind him he wrote the monogram of Christ, so that the devil could not creep up and catch him unawares. In front of him he lighted two candles and burned incense in a bowl. Then, opening a book, he began to curse God and invoke blessings on Satan, from whom he asked riches and the fulfillment of various desires. It was the classic ritual from ancient times.
 "Several times the wind extinguished the candles. Finally, standing on his tiptoes, the man held up the contract he had written with his own blood and adjured the devil to give him power and fortune, promising to find the Evil One a human soul for every blessing the devil conferred on him.
 "It was a grotesque scene at first, and then it became tragic. He was obviously a victim of fear and covetousness, and he worked himself up to a paroxysm of nervousness that approached dementia. The words began to strangle him. He began to call on Satan to appear before him, all the while becoming more and more incoherent.

 "To our mutual disappointment the Evil One did not put in an appearance, and the sorcerer slunk off into the woods."

Southern Notes
 Potato digging is now general in this neighborhood and the crop is apparently not much below the average but considerably smaller than that of last year which was a bumper crop.
 An auction sale took place at the home of Mr. Alex. MacGregor, on Friday, Oct. 4th. The day was favorable for the event and while the crowd was not very large, it contained individuals from a good many scattered points. Among those present were Mac MacSwain, Chester MacSwain and John MacDonald Greek River; Angus Matheson and Alex MacLeod from Glen William; Richard Murley from Murray Harbor South; Allan MacLeod, from Abney; Allan MacLean from Greek River; Daniel MacLean Upper Belle River; John T. and Levi Morrow, Iris and others. Live Stock and implements brought good prices. The potatoes were sold in the field unharvested, one plot containing about two acres was disposed of for $187.50. These were Green Mountains. The other plot containing three-quarters of an acre was knocked down at $77.50. These were reds and a good crop. Mr. D. J. Riley was auctioneer.

 Mr. MacGregor leaves shortly for Hunter River where he recently took up his duties as R. R. section foreman.
 Mr. Daniel J. MacDonald of Hopefield was a recent visitor to Little Sands.
 I was recently shown a specimen not of handwork but of tooth work executed by a beaver. This was in the form of a poplar chip gnawed out by the incisor chisels of this able mechanic. It is very like the work of an axe. The tree from which it was cut was to be used for dam construction when divided into sections suitable in size to be handled by the animals. As everyone knows it is their habit to cut round and round a tree till it falls. I don't know whether they adopt any method to prevent fouling other trees or not. If they do and are successful they must use more than mere instinct. They must use judgment based on observation, experience and good sense.

 Miss Verna Dixon is receiving the congratulations of her friends on her success at the Provincial Exhibition. Dixon secured two prizes for fancy work.
 The other day I examined a cur-osity in the form of a bullet, supposed to be of that kind known as dum-dum. The core had been removed and nothing remained but a hollow shell of lead about two-thirds of an inch long and one half inch in diameter. In the small end was inserted a lens about one sixteenth of an inch in diameter. Holding the bullet up to the light and peering through the lens I beheld before my astonished eye a battle piece which appeared to be larger than an ordinary post card. At the bottom it bore the legend Ficketts Charge. The picture would appear to be at least 3,000 times the size of the object lens. It was depicted on another lens inside the bullet. The scene of action was a deep defile and appeared to be an incident of the American Civil War. H.

CHANGE OF RESIDENCE—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bruce, who have been making their home in P. E. I. for the past two and a half years, were week end visitors with Mr. Bruce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bruce, Stellarton. They are now residing in Pictou where Harold has taken a position in the Ferguson Pharmacy—New Glasgow News.
WILSON-PERRY—A quiet but pretty wedding took place in Saint John on Monday morning when, at nuptial mass, Rev. Father Gillen united in marriage Margaret Lillian Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Perry, of Souris, P. E. I., and William Leo Wilson, of Saint John. Miss Mae Perry, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and J. C. Callaghan, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Royal Hotel, after which Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left on a motor trip through the provinces. The bride received many useful and handsome gifts. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a white gold pendant with topaz setting and to the best man a K. of C. emblem ring—Moncton Transcript.
