4 MAHANEYS TO SEND THEIR PORTRAITS TO FIVE DIONNES

ST. JOHN Dec. 20.—The Dionne quintuplets will receive Christmas greetings from the Mahaney quadruplets.

John Douglas, Edith Mae, Edna Louise and Lyla. Christine Mahaney posed yesterday for photographs which they will send to the tiny Corbell, Ontario, quintet as a gesture of goodwill.

All of which shows that there are no hard feelings even though the arrival of quintuplets this year somewhat obscured the fame of being mere quadruplets.

In fact, it's just the other way around The Mahaneys, ever since the arrival of the Dionnes, have followed in the newspapers their much publicized progress. And when the Dionne five were ill that time, the Mahaney four were quite worried about them.

The Mahaneys have a sort of kindred feeling for the Dionnes. As John, the male member of the quartet, sagely observed: "There isn't much difference between quadruplets and quintuplets. Only one."

KATHARINE CORNELL DISLIKES SHOPPING TORONTO, Dec. 20.—Katharine Cornell who has faced numerous audiences without a twinge of fear is afraid of salesclerks. Here to play Juliet, the actress admitted her great fear as she stressed a dislike for shopping.

Accompanied by a secretary and her two dogs, Miss Cornell made a rush trip to Toronto because she was eager to play here with Edith Evans who make the journey from England to help Miss Cornell with her production.

"I dread shopping," said Miss Cornell. "I get a most awful feeling of inferiority."

Parties are something else the noted actress dislikes. "I don't try to hide," she maintained. "I am not seen much outside the theatre but that is because I don't like going out."

They stared fixedly at one another across the railway carriage. Presently one of them found his voice. "Who art staring at?" he asked. "By gosh!" said the other, "but you're ugly."

"Ah know that," said the first, with feeling, "but Ah can't do nowt about it."

"Oh, yes, you could," said the second man; "ye could have stopped at hoam."
