Unique Feature

A unique feature of the case is that the mother did the housework the day following the birth of her youngest son, because the father was confined to his bed by sickness the day before. On the day following the birth of the youngest child, the mother had volunteered to fix the furnace and in doing so neglected to leave the damper open. The whole family retired. About midnight the husband and wife awoke, both of them complaining of feeling ill. Fumes from the furnace had filled the room, which had so affected Mrs. Aubin that she was unable to rise from the bed. Mr. Aubin however managed to crawl nearly to the furnace before he dropped unconscious. They were discovered almost dead, by Mrs. Aubin's brother early the next morning. The other three members of the family, all under ten years of age, had been suffocated, and were expected to recover.
