Woman Who Never Threw Things Away

TWO CARTLOADS OF ODDS-AND-ENDS IN 3 ROOMS

LONDON, Dec. 22—There is a woman living in a back street in Stepney who has occupied the same three rooms for fifty years.

And during all that time she has never thrown a thing away.

She was not have parted with anything even now if her possessions had not become so numerous that they overflowed into the yard and street, and so attracted the attention of the local authority.

It took seven dustmen with two carts to remove her superfluous rubbish. The odds-and-ends she had stored up included:—

Twenty boxes of clothes, some of which had not been worn for thirty years;

Five boxes of old boots and shoes

Three hundred empty tins, which had contained every kind of food ever canned;

More than a hundredweight of broken crockery;

A hundred and twenty-two odd woollen stockings.

NOT ALL RUBBISH

Nearly everything was carefully wrapped in brown paper. The stockings were not only packed in pairs, but each stocking had also an individual wrapping.

There is a note of tragedy in the story, for the accumulation was not all rubbish, much of it would have been valuable had it been properly taken care of.

The woman is of Polish extraction, and among her "treasures" were a national costume made more than eighty years ago with the colours unfaded, and old Polish shawls, but they fell to pieces at a touch.

The crockery, too, included fragments of Polish ware of great interest, but it was beyond repair.

Another queer find was shorthand notebooks the woman had used when a girl.

Réception And Concert

A very delightful holiday reception and concert program was held last night in K. of C. Hall when the St. Zita Club was hostess to their many friends of the C. W. L. with Rt. Rev. Monsignor Maurice MacDonald, Rev. A. J. MacIntyre and Mrs. F. J. Casey guests of honor. The hall was nicely decorated with a beautiful Christmas tree, glowing with lights and trimmings and well laden with gifts as the centre of attraction. The following program was announced by the President of St. Zita's Club, Miss Alice Gallant:

Opening Chorus—Silent Night.

Vocal Duet—Misses Stella and Regina Gallant.

Dialogue—Misses Florence Arsenault and Alice Peters.

Vocal Solo—Miss Gertie Gallant.

Comedy Duet—Miss Alice Gallant and Mrs. Myers.

Recitation—Mrs. Minnie Myers.

Vocal Trio—Misses Stella, Regina and Gertie Gallant.t

Step Dance—Miss Della Arsenault.

Each number of the program was admirably executed and reflected great credit on the officers who arranged it and displayed a remarkable degree of talent among this splendid group of young ladies.

At the conclusion of the program Santa Claus in the person of Mrs. Minnie Myers, who not only looked the part, but acted it to perfection, winning the warm applause of all present, arrived on the scene and distributed the gifts, beginning with one to Monsignor MacDonald from the St. Zita Club, whose sincere friend he has ever been. Mrs. F. J. Casey, President of the local C. W. L., was also presented a lovely gift by the Club in recognition of her unfailing interest and devotion to them. Then the girls all were presented gifts by Santa with a merry joke and quip for each. Stockings of candy were passed to each guest and a large box of chocolates, the gift of Father MacIntyre to the Club, was passed around.

Short addresses of appreciation of the splendid entertainment and of the Club and its good work were made by Monsignor MacDonald, Father MacIntyre, Mrs. W. J. MacIntyre, National President of the Catholic Women's League of Canada and Mrs. F. J. Casey.

The program was brought to an end by all singing the National Anthem after which with all good wishes for a Happy Christmas and Blessed New Year to one and all, the merry party dispersed.

LLOYD GEORGE

mood today, the little Welshman referred to the passages in the House of Lords. It was a new thing, he said, when the Lords threatened members of the commons.

"I beg to say," Lloyd George continued, "that if partial disclosure is given again I shall without any hesitation take the responsibility of publishing the whole transaction." Others would be sent to jail with him, he held.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald also came in for hot words from the war time premier. Recalling that Mr. MacDonald absented himself from the commons during a recent debate on unemployment on the plea of indisposition, Lloyd George added:

"He was able to travel to Lossiemouth and speak there on unemployment on the very night that the House was debating the question."

Net Operating Revenue C. N. R.

MONTREAL, Dec. 23—The net operating revenue of the Canadian National Railways for the month of November, 1932, amounted to $1,038,581, gross revenues having totalled $11,742,329 and operating expenses $10,703,747, according to the official statement issued here today.

The operating expenses of the railway during the month were $2,502,763 below those for November, 1931. For the eleven months of this year operating expenses were $122,992,035, a reduction of $33,378,539 from the 1931 figures.

Gross revenues for the month of November were $3,548,664 below 1931 and for the eleven months were $133,156,206, or $30,706,368 under those of last year.

The net revenue of the Canadian National Railways during the eleven months of 1932 amounts to $10,164,170, an increase of $2,672,171 over the net for the same period of 1931.

The "Bambino" And Good Beer

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—(Associated Press)—Let good legal beer flow through the spigots and Mr. George Herman Ruth, the baseball man, will ask nothing more from the United States in general in the way of a Chirstmas present.

The Babe, all off-season 232 pounds of him, has not developed any sudden thirst in the past few days. With the Babe it's strictly a baseball problem.

"Ho, ho," he roared today in the office of Artie McGovern's gymnasium for the over-weight and under-muscled, "just give Colonel Jake Ruppert the right to make good beer again and I'll have no trouble signing any contract with the Yankees for 1933."

In a way, it's the Babe's large manner of making jokes, but as baseball's greatest hitter digs his way through the annual seasonal problem of signing and mailing over 1,000 Christmas cards, there's more than a little shrewd foresight mixed with his hearty clowning.

Facing the Bambino is his annual problem of negotiating a contract for 1933 comparable with the $75,000 document he negotiated with the Colonel in 1932. Before the Colonel are two problems, signing Ruth for the Yankees on one hand and providing beer for a good part of the metropolis on the other, always provided that the lawmakers make the latter move possible.

"The Colonel would be so tickled," Ruth chuckled, "he's never even heard how much I was asking."

The Babe said he had no idea now what he thought his 39-year-old presence should be worth to the Yankees in right field next season.

LIBEL SUIT

The Sun Life President volunteered full details about the loan of $9,375,000 his company was credited with making to Insull Utilities Investments Inc. in 1929. It was not really a loan, he said, as no money had changed hands. The Sun Life had 25,000 shares of stock in the Commonwealth Edison Company which Samuel Insull offered to buy at $375 a share. This represented a profit of more than $6,000,000 to the company and, as Insull was unable to pay at the time he was given the shares on the security of his note and other collateral. Later the purchase price was paid in full.

At one stage of Harpell's evidence he asked Chief Justice R. A. E. Greenshields for a "word." Then he startled the courtroom with the declaration "Mr. Macaulay was a crook 25 years ago and he is a bigger crook today."

The prosecution is based on statements published in Harpell's magazine "The Journal of Commerce," and in his book "Industry, Commerce and Finance."

Distribution of the assets of the Sun Life as between Canada and other countries was the subject of questions directed to E. A. Macnutt, treasurer of the company, by Calixte Cormier, defence counsel. In 1931, Mr. Macnutt said the company transferred more than $20,000,000 in cash from the United States to Canada. This reduced credit balances in United States banks. At the same time they increased their holdings in Canadian government bonds, provincial and federal by more than $20,000,000 and much of the money transferred was used in this way.

Harpell's complaint about his evidence and repeated attempts of defence counsel to question witnesses about matters considered irrelevant drew from the judge the warning his rulings must be respected or he would regretfully "have to take stern measures." Ernest Bertrand, K. C., crown prosecutor, at one stage suggested defence counsel were bordering on contempt of court.

One witness whose evidence was brief was Mitchell F. Hepburn, M. P. for Elgin West and leader of the Ontario Liberal party. He said he had been a member of the House of Commons committee on banking when a Sun Life bill dealing with an increase in the capital stock of the compay was under consideration. Aime Geoffrion, counsel for Mr. Macaulay, objected to evidence of proceedings before the committee and was sustained by the court.

Under questioning by Mr. Cormier Mr. Macaulay told of the visit of Samuel Insull of Chicago to Montreal when the sale of Commonwealth Edison stock which yielded a profit of $6,000,000 was negotiated. He said as far as he could recall no mention was then made of the syndicate which was later formed to underwrite the new stock issues of the Middle West Securities Company of which he became a member.

"You have told us the profit you made on this transaction," said Mr. Cormier. "Will you now tell us how much you lost on the purchase of 127,000 preferred shares of the Middle West Utilities Company?"

This question was ruled irrelevant and no loss on this security had been set out in the Leadings. Counsel was able, however, to question Mr. Macnutt about securities of the International Paper and Power Company as he had specifically mentioned them in his pleading. The Sun Life, Mr. Macnutt said, bought $500,000 international debentures for $481,795 which were later converted into preferred stock which was now selling in New York at 2¼ to 2½.

"If they were sold today they would bring between $13,000 and $14,000," said Mr. Cormier.

"Something like that," said Mr. Macnutt.

"That represents a loss of more than $450,000," said counsel.

"We would be very foolish to sell them now," said Mr. Macnutt. "This depression can not last forever."

When Harpell was cross-examined by Mr. Geoffrion he denied his attacks on the Sun Life had been inspired by the refusal of the company to make a loan on some of his property. He had applied to five insurance companies for the loan and two had refused while three had accepted.

He also denied he had pressed T. Kelly Dickinson, editor of the paper in 1928, to attack the Sun Life.

Mr. Cormier announced he would have one witness tomorrow after he completes his examination of Mr. Macaulay.

Has The Real Christmas Spirit

GLACE BAY, N. S., Dec. 22.—(C.P.)—Twenty-five years ago John Dregatis came to Glace Bay from his native home in Greece. For five years he worked in Caledonia Colliery, and to this day holds the loading record of 36 hoxes in one shift. Then he took his savings and started a grocery business near Boutilier's Corner at Caledonia. Finally a new street was named after him.

Today John Dregatis gave Caledonia a Christmas present of $38,108. He notified all retail customers that their bills to date are written off his books. All, he said, were "good debts," owed by honest and reliable people.

"I know they are honest men," said Dregatis. "I worked with them in the mine. They have now little work and not much money, and they have for a long time dealt with me. When times were good and work plenty, these people always paid me. Now it is coming Christmas, work is scarce and so is money and men and women are worried. I know if times were good all these bil's on my books would be paid. I am going to try and make it a little easier for these people by telling them that now they owe me nothing. I am calling everything square—they will not have to worry at Christmas over what they owe John Dregatis."

parent joint responsibility" for such action.

With the discussions between the two terminated, it became apparent in the Capital tonight that the problems concerned probably will be handed on to the next administration in much their present form.

Despite Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion that the President proceed with an examination of the war debt and related problems, without pledging the next administration to action, Mr. Hoover feels that the creation of a commission would be useless unless it could continue active after March 4, at which time Mr. Roosevelt takes office.

The President-elect declined also to acceed to the chief executive's hitherto undisclosed suggestion that Owen D. Young, Col. E. M. House or some other prominent Democrat be named to "sit with the principal officers of this administration in endeavor to see what steps can be taken to avoid delays of precious time and inevitable losses that will ensue from such delays."

"For me to accept any joint responsibility in the work of exploration," Mr. Roosevelt replied, "might well be construed by the debtor or other nations, collectively or individually, as a commitment—moral even though not legal—as to policies and courses of action."

tration is in power in Washington. He also indicated clearly that he regarded that the main lines of these negotiations, so far as France is concerned, were laid down by the chamber in its recent vote on the debts. (The Chamber voted against payment of the interset payment due December 15 unless the United States first agreed to confer about revision).

The Premier promised in his declaration "to concentrate all our efforts" to the work of achieving "general settlement of the war debts question." "With the same frankness we esteem that the circumstances, as well as the complexity of the present political situation in the United States, oblige our conducting with an extreme prudence the negotiations whose orientation was traced out by the chamber's vote on December 14," he continued.

Answering criticism by Louis Marin, Conservative leader, as to the composition of the new government in view of its similarity to the Herriot ministry, M. Paul-Boncour replied:

"I do not believe that the vote on the debt, important as it was, can dominate all the work of the legislature."

He added an expression of regret that M. Herriot would not reconstitute his Cabinet.

M. Herriot interrupted: "Our constitution does not make us Minister for four years."

"It creates a majority for four years," M. Paul-Boncour replied.

Paying tribute to the debt conversations carried on by M. Herriot during the interim between the two Ministries, the Premier said:

"What can one ask of the government if not to respect the Chamber's vote? But one cannot keep it from working at conciliating viewpoints instead of widening the breach. The Government will do everything toward reaching a possible understanding. It is toward that it is working. It will do this in full collaboration with the committees and the chamber itself."

While M. Paul-Boncour was explaining the French position on the American debt in the Chamber Henry Berenger, in an interview with the Associated Press voiced his fervent hope that America will understand that payment of the December interest was not refused but was subordinated to a friendly understanding between the United States and France.

HOPES TO BE BURIED BY SIDE OF LOVED ONES SAYS MUSSOLINI IN BIOGRAPHY OF BROTHER

ROME, Dec. 22—Declaring that his one great wish "is to be buried by the side of my beloved ones in the cemetery at San Cassiano," Premier Benito Mussolini expresses some of the philosophical beliefs in a biography of his late brother Arnaldo, published here today.

"It would be naive on my part," Mussolini wrote, " to request to be left alone after my death. There cannot be found around the grave of leaders of those great transformations which are called revolutions."

The premier complains in the book that Arnaldo's last testament was made public in a mutilated form, since its most important section, dealing with Facist affairs was omitted.

"My death," Mussolini writes, "might be as sudden as Arnaldo's I have not made, and do not intend to make, any testament, any sort of political or spiritual legacy. It wil be useless for anyone to search for such material after I die."
