"CHRIST IS A SPIRIT"

Thursday

"It Means He is Present With God"

SCRIPTURE: Read — John 16:25-33.

"I came out from the Father, and am come into the world; again, I leave the world, and go unto the Father (Jn. 16:28). "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall be done also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto the Father" (Jn. 14:12). "Looking unto Jesus, who... that sat down at the right hand of God" (Heb. 12:2).

See — John 14:20; Philippians 2:9; Hebrews 10:12; 1 Peter 3:22.

MEMORIAL: The attempt to understand the nature of God, Father, Son and Spirit is praiseworthy. Is this too deep a mystery for us? It is not difficult to conceive of the Jesus of Galilee and Jerusalem as continuing in company with God; that is, it is easy if He Himself is a spirit, and not simply a physical being. Materialism sees the extinction of that person when nerve cells cease their work. Faith on the other hand sees those nerve cells as the temporary instruments of a spirit too loving to be allowed to cease living. God lives; so does Christ. The Spirit brings Him to us. We walk in that presence. Let us walk reverently and lovingly.

"Let me love Thee for what Thou art, not for what Thou givest."

HYMN:

Dear Lord and Father of mankind, Forgive our feverish ways; Re-choose us in Thy rightful mind, In purer life Thy service find, In deeper reverence, praise.

Drop Thy still dew of quietness, Till all our striving ceases; Take from our souls the strain and stress, And let our ordered lives confess The beauty of Thy peace.

Breathe through the heats of our desire Thy coolness and Thy calm; Let sense be dumb, let flesh retire; Speak through the ear of quietness, wind and fire.

O still small voice of calm, O still small voice of calm, O still small voice of calm, O still small voice of calm.

PRAYER: Pray for — trust in God's blessing on our gifts and charities; the discouraged.

Collect: Almighty Father, whose power knows no limit, let us feel within us the movings of Thy Spirit in its ways. We bless Thee for the world, rich in its workings of life. We rejoice that Thou art a spirit with whom our spirits may commune, and that Thou hast shown forth Thy nature in Christ who lives with Thee and with us. We praise Thee for the

Women's Hygienic Mistakes

Being Ended — New way discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. HUCKLAND Registered Nurse

BECAUSE one woman told another, and because doctors and nurses so urged, millions of women are discarding old-time sanitary ways for the new way called Kotex.

First, you discard Kotex as easily as tissue. No laundry, no embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, it enables one to wear shorter frocks and gowns without slightest fear of embarrassment. Also deodorizes, thus ending all danger of offending.

Eight in every 10 better class women employ it. Once you use it you'll never again dare the uncertainty of old ways.

Obtain at any store simply by saying "KOTEX." Box of 12 costs only a few cents. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

high privilege of prayer in which spirit blends with spirit. Meticulous forgive us that we have so often chosen the satisfaction of our lower instincts to the improvement of the soul. Quicken, we pray Thee, our inner awareness of Thee, so that temptation have no authority over us. Through Thy grace, we engage to walk in all Thy ways. Amen.

DANGEROUS INNOCENCE

CHAPTER XXXVI The Engine Room

For a brief time Sally forgot everything but the engines.

Her eyes dilated until they seemed to be all pupils.

With her hands filled with cotton waste, she clambered down the narrow ladders to the engine room below. Even through the waste she could feel the ralls hot under her hands.

"Writing things of steel shining with the oil that covered them rose up out of the floors like great, terrible and awesome. Of course she understood nothing of what the engineer was telling them, but with this strange new recklessness of the engineer upon her. And Myra's technique now, yet—and yet—beneath everything—shaking hands with the engineer, thanking him for including her in the visit to the engine room.

She made an excuse to go to her cabin, complaining of the fact that she had soiled her shoes and must change. Then she was flying up to D deck, once more alone. She hoped that Myra would be in her deck chair, but Myra was nowhere to be seen.

Her cast-aside book was the only thing waiting for her.

Once more she settled herself on the print before her.

And then she saw him coming along the deck. Myra was with him. He was laughing at one of Myra's clever remarks. She was very gay.

Instead of being vaguely jealous as she once had, Sally once more experienced a sensation of unlimited power. She knew intuitively that a man of Richard's type would never be impressed with a woman of Myra's. He was up to the floors like great, terrible and awesome. Of course she understood nothing of what the engineer was telling them, but with this strange new recklessness of the engineer upon her. And Myra's technique now, yet—and yet—beneath everything—

"Hello, you people!"

She looked on from her book, her eyes sparkling

WOMAN HITS DUKE OF YORK KERENSKY IN GUIDED TRAIN THE FACE IN TUNNEL

Blames Former Premier for Death of Finance, Officer in Russian Army. Many Entertaining Incidents Enlivened His Journey Through Southern Alps.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Under the guise of presenting a bouquet of roses to Alexander Kerensky, a former premier of Russia, a woman yesterday struck him in the face.

Kerensky had just risen to address a gathering in a theatre, held to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the revolution. A woman rose from her seat on the stage and advanced toward Kerensky, holding out a small bouquet of roses. As she came face to face with him she said something in Russian and struck him on the left cheek with her right hand in which she held a pair of gloves. At once the gathering was in an uproar.

Kerensky stood unmoved, waving back those of his friends who sought to lay hands on his assailant.

Five detectives who were acting as Kerensky's bodyguard, seized the woman and took her off the stage. She said she was Miss Catherine Barry, 34, a designer, New York. At Kerensky's request Miss Barry was allowed to go free after being removed from the theatre.

Miss Barry said she blamed Kerensky for having caused the death of her finance, an officer in the Russian army in 1918, by issuing an order under which civilians were placed in charge of armed forces. She said she was neither a monarchist nor a communist.

"Poor monarchists! They have lost their method and their courage," Kerensky said after the meeting. "None of the former monarchist officers in the hall would dare come up. Instead they sent a woman."

The Duke then changed into full naval uniform in readiness for the ceremonial of welcome at Christ Church. The Mayor met the Duke on the railway station platform and immediately bestowed on him the freedom of the city. The streets were packed with throngs who cheered as the royal procession drove around Cathedral Square where the Cathedral bells chimed out a welcome.

(Canadian Press) WASHINGTON, March 14.—With the exchange at the state department of ratifications of the American-French liquor smuggling treaty following closely the lines of the original agreement with Great Britain, the Washington Government has virtually completed the programme launched by Secretary Hughes in an effort to break up "rum row" of the Atlantic coast and tighten the prohibition blockade.

France is the thirteenth country to enter formal treaty relations with the United States designed primarily to curb liquor smuggling into the United States.

Crowned Skull On Its Travels

(By British United Press.)

MELBOURNE, March 14.—A skull, darkened by age, gilt with a jewelled crown, and resting on a blue silk cushion in a crystal case with gold columns, is being borne in triumph through Italy and extraordinary scenes of devotion.

This is the skull of St. Luigi Gonzaga, a prince who became a Jesuit and died at Rome in 1591 aged 23.

He is the Saint of purity and the protector of children.

To mark this second centenary of his canonisation, his skull was transported from the Gonzaga sanctuary at Castiglione delle Stiviere (Lombardy to Mantua) in a old-fashioned steam street car fitted up as a church.

Mrs. Robert Enman had the misfortune sometime ago, to fall on the ice and severely injure her neck. We are glad to report that the injury is steadily improving.

Miss Florence Brown, Charlottetown, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown, of three months.

Malpeque

The Malpeque and Baltic Auxiliary of the W. M. Society gave an enjoyable social evening at the home of Mr. Thomas MacNutt on Friday, March 11th, and the committee in charge were undoubtedly gratified by the social and financial success which attended their efforts. The large number of young people who were present and received enjoyment was a splendid feature of the gathering and each member of the programme was well selected and splendidly rendered. Rev. D. M. Grant ably presided and contributed to the evening's entertainment by his rendition of "The Sweet Bye and Bye, in Gaelic, and in his response to his encore he gave the beautiful selection, "There is no Night There." The violin selection numbers by Mr. James Bearsto with Mrs. Russell MacKay at piano accompanist deserve very special mention as they filled a large place in the evening's entertainment. The readings by Miss Maude Donald, Mrs. Ralph Ramsay, Miss Marlon MacLean and Miss Thelma Donald were all well received and the solos by Misses Rogers and Hunter, Messrs J. K. Macdonald, Russell MacKay and Charles Lowe made up the programme. Mrs. Chester Simpson acted as accompanist. A sing song and a good lunch were heartily participated in by all and God Save the King brought the evening's programme to a close.
