Trawler Question Raised in House
 OTTAWA, March 28.—Abolition of trawler fishing off the coast of Nova Scotia was urged in the House of Commons today by J. J. Kinley (Lib. Queen's-Lunenburg) while Revenue Minister Isley argued the trawler method was necessary in order to maintain an adequate steady supply of fresh unfrozen fish to consuming markets.

The trawler question, an annual subject of debate, was raised by Mr. Kinley on the Government motion to put the House into committee on the United States trade agreement.

Thieves Steal Cash Register
 One man was under arrest early today and police were seeking his companion in connection with the theft last night of a cash register from the Union Cafe on lower Water Street. Police were informed by the Chinese proprietor of the restaurant the two men had been in his establishment in an intoxicated condition and had refused to leave. The proprietor called the police and the two men were taken upstairs to call the police. Meanwhile a girl employee, afraid of the men, went into the kitchen of the men alone in the front of the cafe. When the proprietor returned from calling police he discovered the two men had left and he immediately called the police. The second time he discovered the small cash register, located near the street door, had disappeared. Police were called again and discovered the missing register. A search was instituted for the two men and later they were discovered talking in a gangway. When police appeared the men ran and one succeeded in escaping but the other was taken into custody. He was drunk, police said. The cash register contained $35.00, the Chinese proprietor of the cafe claimed.

B. N. A. ACT NEEDS
 The variance from the text, begun in 1894, be undone by legislative declaration, all other reasonable objections to the modern construction by the courts of sections 91 and 92 of the B.N.A. Act can be overcome.

(These are the sections which set forth the spheres within which Dominion and provincial jurisdiction may be exercised. It does not refer to any specific national activities to the Dominion under section 91 and over provincial activities to the provinces under section 92.)

The judicial Committee of the Privy Council, he says, is a board which "advice" results in an imperial order-in-council. It has the right to reverse its previous decisions but traditionally it does not do so, although, adds Mr. O'Connor, it sometimes "explains" recent decisions of that board which had not met with favor in Canada.

The board, taken by court and council alike to have been rightly decided.

Unemployment Insurance
 Another highlight of the report is the Parliamentary Counsel's opinion that the Dominion may itself engage in a business. The Government has the right, he says, to embark upon unemployment in-

Daily Lenten Meditations
 The Business of Religion
 By Sir James Ballis, Vice-Chancellor of Leeds University.

The business of religion is to challenge materialism, without any hesitation whatsoever; without fear or trembling—knowing that if there is anything in the spiritual life at all it has to triumph over matter in every shape and form and over nature, and to reveal the spiritual life.

Do not run away from what materialism has to give. The power of a man over the forces of nature is a magnificent illustration of the power of man's mind; but spirit is not the equal of matter. The spirit must triumph over matter, and it is the function of the preacher, it is the aim of the religious mind to establish by experience as well as by reasoning the priority of spirit in the world over matter and nature.

Materialism cannot give those things which make a man's life worth while—the sense of the eternal, serenity of the spirit, the hope which issues in immortality—and the first word remains the last: What will it profit the soul if he owns all the riches in the world or short time is out of all proportion to the importance of establishing as between individuals those relations which endure and express what is eternal.

Mounted Police Activity Under Prohibition Act

Out of 393 prosecutions under the Act during the year, 316 convictions were obtained while 127 were acquitted. Sixty-two withdrawals. One case is still in court.

Total fines and costs imposed under the Prohibition Act amounted to $22,175. The amount collected was $5,712.05.

First to Sign
 Mr. Eden, who resigned as Foreign Secretary Feb. 20, 1938 over the Anglo-Italian treaty which he viewed as a surrender to Premier Mussolini, was the first man to sign the motion placed on the order paper today.

It revealed the volume of opinion in the House favoring conscription, an all-party government and a vigorous foreign policy. Although it may not be discussed immediately, it may influence the Government in making up its mind about conscription.

 of the speech is to be broadcast at 7.45 P. M. tomorrow (8:45 P. M. AST) in reply to Premier Mussolini's speech of last Sunday in which he said that Italy's controlled Italian Djibouti, and the Suez Canal.

Sources close to the Government indicated that Daladier would take the position it was up to Italy to make the first move toward any negotiations.

Despite the statements of Mussolini and King Victor Emmanuel of Italy that the Italian note of last Dec. 17 set forth the Italian claims on Tunisia, Djibouti and the Suez Canal, Government sources maintain that the note simply denounced the 1935 Colonial Pact and presented no concrete demands.

Debtor's Act
 On motion of Premier Campbell the House went into committee with Mr. Wright in the chair on second reading of an Act respecting consolidation of ten different statutes dealing with arrest for civil debt, the first passed in 1849, the last in 1888.

Mr. Saville suggested that all these obsolete, arrest for debt being a relic of earlier days when even a man's dead body could be seized for debt.

Mr. Campbell agreed that the procedure was largely a thing of the past but said there were cases where it was called into use in connection with a person who was seeking to get out of the province for the purpose of evading payment of a debt, also where a non-resident, who was here only for a short time, incurred liabilities and was likely to get away without paying his debts.

The bill was reported agreed to with amendment.

On motion of Premier Campbell the House resumed committee reading, with Mr. Hughes in the chair of the Indigent Debtors Act. At Mr. Saville's suggestion, Sec. 2(d) which requires an indigent debtor, before being released from custody, to swear that he does not believe in the demand of the plaintiff to be just and for that cause and no other resists payment, was deleted as being irrelevant to the empilions from custody were made after a court discussion.

As in the case of the Act respecting arrest and bail, the bill was rarely invoked, and the bill was agreed to with amendment.

Dairymen's Act
 On motion of Hon. Mr. Dennis, the House went into committee with Mr. Stewart in the chair on an Act to amend the Dairymen's Association Act.

The promoter explained that the amendments were of a minor nature and were intended to make the Act "more workable."

Sec. 3 amends Sec. 8 of the existing statute by adding the following: "One director in each county shall retire each year, the selection of the first three retiring directors and the order of retirement of the Queen's County members of the Board of Directors to be arranged by the Board of Directors previous to the annual meeting in 1940. Retiring Directors may be eligible for re-election."

Secs. 13 and 16 of the Statute are repealed as being no longer required.

Sec. 12 of the bill provides: "The provisions of 'The Dairymen's Association Act' and all the regulations made thereunder shall now apply to cheese and butter factories and to cream grading stations shall likewise apply to ice-cream plants and pasteurizing plants."

Mr. Jones asked for a definition of an "ice-cream plant." If he had a freezer at home and started to make ice-cream, did that come under the term?

Mr. Jones: "No."
 Mr. Jones: "If the Women's Institute were having a picnic and they started to make ice-cream, would that be an ice-cream plant?"
 Mr. Jones: "No."
 Mr. Jones: "If somebody has a camp on the shore and starts to make ice-cream, would that be a plant?"
 Mr. Jones: "I would say not."
 Mr. Jones: "The Minister will have to give some line of demarcation."

Successful Egg Grading Students Complete Course

The egg grading course held under the Youth Training Programme and sponsored by the Provincial Department of Agriculture and Dominion Dept. of Labor closed on March 25th. The purpose of the course was to train boys and girls to become egg graders, and to certify them as to their ability to grade the product.

The course extended over a period of four weeks and was conducted by F. M. Nash, Senior Poultry Fieldman of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Students were given instruction on the production, care, handling and marketing of eggs. A laboratory was set up to give them a certain amount of technical training pertaining to the measuring of interior quality.

The practical training, or the grading of the product was emphasized. A grading room was provided to accommodate 15 graders. Students were required to grade a certain number of eggs daily.

On March 25th students were given written (technical) and practical (grading) examinations. Those making 70% on both papers received certificates, certifying to their ability to grade eggs according to Canadian Standard Grades. Forty-eight young men and one young lady were in attendance at the course and took the examinations. Thirty-seven, or 75 percent, were successful.
