When I had taken the one box I felt quite a lot better and by the time I had taken three boxes I got relief.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it keeps the child for weeks.

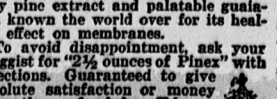

Thousands of housewives have found how to save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for results. It gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugstore, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 8 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and draught cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

DANGEROUS INNOCENCE

CHAPTER XXX

Tangled Threads As they strolled around and around the deck the thought of Tom did not enter Sally's mind for a single minute.

Tom was really, the meat and drink of life, and she had so little of the other side, so little chance to revel in romance. It was as if a certain side of herself had been asleep. Richard had awakened it.

This was life—this thrilling to the unconscious touch of a man's hand. This was life—to wear the loveliest dress on board (save Myra's perhaps). And to be strolling nonchalantly on deck with the handsomest man on board.

She didn't care about the fact that he was wealthy. Of course in a way it did throw an added glamour about him. During the times when she really gave serious thought to it she realized that it did enable him to employ the best tailors, it accounted for his fastidious tastes. But that was all. Material things didn't matter, couldn't really count beside this feeling of being awake for the first time in one's life.

Being a woman she noticed the

But she would not think. She

Little Sally!

The dancing started—magic dancing, lighted by dim lanterns and accompanied not only by the orchestra but the sea.

She drifted into Richard's arms. Her feet hardly seemed to touch the floor. She was drifting—drifting. And then as the music stopped, she opened her eyes to the leader smiling tolerantly on Sally and Richard, struck up "Love Brings a Little Gift of Roses."

They swung into the famous waltz, Sally's small head turned against his shoulders. Her lashes sweeping her cheeks. Oblivious to every one around her, she gave herself up to the rhythm.

As the orchestra played the last few bars, Richard murmured something in a voice that was almost unintelligible.

Perhaps her imagination had been playing tricks on her; but she fancied that he said "Sweetheart—sweetheart!"

Her heart leaped. The next moment he was piloting her along the deck. Without speaking, he gathered up her wrap from the chair where they had left it and flung it across his arm. She followed him without a word, careless of where he took her. But she knew where they were going. Down to C deck where they could be isolated from the rest. And there was something about him tonight, that if she had allowed herself to think, might have warned her. A certain relentlessness of purpose. A determined expression around his mouth that completely obliterated the spotted lines.

But she would not think. She

Oblivious to every one around her she gave herself up to the rhythm

She felt heady, intoxicated. The music was still humming in her brain and down on C cause she had absorbed enough of deck there was the sea and the Myra's philosophy by now to keep round luminous moon on the water.

There were times when a severe long ago. She was no longer the He folded her wrap around her Sally who had clung weeping and settled her in her chair. His handkerchief from the deck-rail fully.

No woman had ever stirred him as this girl did. He was half distance. He had ceased to reason very sophisticated frocks with an "air" much. What he wanted was she had more poise. And yet know whether or not she cared, there was about her the dangerous and how much. To have her innocence of an amorphousness. Richard eyes, filled with love—was the one looked at her and felt as if she thing that mattered.

IN MEMORIAM

MR. REGINALD P. DONNELLY. The death of Reginald P. Donnelly of 14 Stevenson Ave., Everett, Mass., which occurred by accident on Feb. 12, 1927, is only another reminder that in the midst of life we are in death.

He was a young man of unusual robust health and personality, always looking on the bright side of life. The circumstances are particularly sad, owing to the fact that he had only been married a few days when he was struck by a trolley car on Saturday, Feb. 12, as usual where he was engaged in building a series of houses being erected in that vicinity, when in some manner he accidentally slipped and fell a distance of twenty feet, fracturing his skull, and rendering him unconscious. He was immediately removed to the Massachusetts General Hospital, where he was attended by five of his best doctors, but all that medical skill could do was unavailable as he passed away two hours after the accident, after having received the last rites of his church, administered by the Rev. Father O'Brien of St. Joseph's parish, Boston. Immediately after being notified of the accident, his wife and relatives rushed to the hospital, but upon arrival was informed that he had just passed away. Mr. Donnelly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Donnelly of Vernon River, and was well known in Charlottetown where he lived for some years before coming to Boston, and was also a former member of K. of C., Charlottetown.

The funeral which was very largely attended was held from the residence of Mrs. J. J. Dunn, 18 Lexington Ave., West Somerville, on Tuesday morning, Feb. 15th. A requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father Healy in the "Immaculate" Conception church, Everett, his former parish, after which the remains of a loving husband, son and brother were laid to rest in Holy Cross cemetery, Malden.

The pall bearers were Edward J. Burge, John J. Murphy, Francis M. Smith, Frank MacIntyre, John McManus and Maurice Kenfic.

Besides his sorrowing young widow he leaves to mourn his parting, Mr. Donnelly's brother, Vernon, of Vernon River, and sister, Mrs. E. J. Burge, and Miss Bertha of Stoneham, Mass.

Floral tributes: Pillow, (husband); wreath, (brother); Spray (Reg) Mrs. Dunn and family; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fitzgerald, Charlottetown; spray, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Gram, Melrose, Mass.; wreath, Mr. Forest Stewart, Dorchester, Mass.; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doley, Somerville, Mass.; spray, Miss A. Hearn

Topic for the Week "MAN IS A SPIRIT" Thursday

"Death is not to be Feared"

SCRIPTURE: Read—Matthew 10:16-29. "And be not afraid of them that kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul" (Mt. 10:28.) "O death, where is thy victory? O death, where is thy sting? Thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (I Cor. 15:54,55.) "He that soweth unto the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap eternal life" (Gal. 6:8.) See—Hosea 13:14; Hebrews 2:14, 15; Philippians 1:23; Revelations 21:4.

MEDITATION: Man shares the animal love of life. Observation teaches him to expect death. What if the physical life were all? Then if the physical life cannot be helped; let us eat, drink and be merry. But our confidence is in the spiritual. Because God is spiritual and man is spiritual, death need not be feared. Jesus Christ has shown us the truth. When we look upon him until we see what God is like, we are "born from above," and have no need to fear physical death. How good to be gripped by these convictions!

Island; Mrs. Dan Paquette, Dorchester, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Sherry, Glenfennan, P. E. I.; Miss Mabie Jenkins, Millville, P. E. "Requiescat in Pace"

When the soft dew of kindly sleep My wearied eyelids gently steep, Be my last thought, how sweet to rest Forever on my Saviour's breast!

Come near and bless us when we wake, Ere through the world our way we take, Till in the ocean of Thy love We lose ourselves in heaven above.

—John Keble, 1820. PRAYER: Thanks for our hopes. Fear for—deliverance from the fear of death; the dying.

Collect—Our Father in heaven, whose patience knows no bounds, we thank Thee for the oncoming of Thy kingdom in the world, and its fuel and other equipment will for the means of grace in our lives, permit.

Woe bless Thee for the Son of Man; serving in Galilee, loving in Judea, triumphing in Gethsemane, atoning on Calvary and rising from the grave. We rejoice in our redemption through Him and in the hope of immortality brought to light by Him. Yet in our weakness we have set our hearts on things on the earth. We have thought success better than righteousness and ease desirable above service. In Thy patience brood over our dull spirits till love awakens in us. We commit ourselves to the Son of Man in holy living and loving service, for His name's sake. Amen.
