Efficient, Compact, Inexpensive For Homes, Apartment and Offices

The ravages of dry air in homes and offices during winter months are well known. Dust particles float in dry air with the greatest of ease. A ray of sunlight in dry air reveals a mass of dust particles which, if the air was not dry, would be almost eliminated. The air you breathe should be free from germ laden dust.

CHILDREN, ADULTS, FERNS, PLANTS, FURNITURE, FURNISHINGS & CLOTHING ALL NEED PROTECTION AGAINST DRY AIR.

then for hikes. Let every P. L. make a promise that he will take his patrol out on at least three hikes during the holidays. Don't wait for your S.M.'s to prod you into action. Why not try a different kind of hike? For instance: a mapping hike, an estimation hike, an observation hike, or perhaps a hike without cooking utensils, using aluminum foil instead, or a backwoodsman's hike—cooking an egg in an onion, grilling a steak over hot coals. It can be done; it can be a lot of fun. If any of you patrol leaders try any special hike or use any special methods, be sure to write in and let us know about it.

While on the subject of Christmas holidays. It is generally the custom of most Troops to stop their regular meetings for a week or so. Before they stop there is usually a Christmas party, where perhaps badges are presented, Scouts promoted, etc. Scoutmasters and Cubmasters be sure you write an account of any party for this column. It will make interesting news for all to read.

Mowgli Stories

The Mowgli stories are in stock at Provincial Headquarters, complete in one volume. Cubmasters if you need a copy, drop in and inquire.

Scout-Cub Concert

At a recent meeting of the Charlottetown Scouters Club, the following Committees were appointed: Mr. Parent, Provincial Commissioner, Chairman—G. Anderson; Acting Executive Commissioner, Mrs. R. C. Parent, Mr. S. Walker as a committee to make all arrangements in connection with the concert, such as, securing a director, getting a hall, etc. S. Walker and G. Anderson agreed to find out what each Cub Pack and Scout Troop intend to present as their part of the program. All this, of course, must be done before Christmas. So S.M.'s and C.M.'s be prepared when Sterling or "Andy" calls on you.

A POULTRY EXPLANATION

In the past two days I have received considerable criticism for not paying the same price on poultry for Dec. 7 as one of my competitors.

My excuse is, it was a surprise buy and frankly speaking I was caught napping.

Kensington Stations were paying 37c live on heavy, good quality chicken, no grading.

Tuesday, Dec. 7, my U. S. A. loading day, a Charlottetown truck, also a poultry buyer with money arrived at a competitors. Men were stationed at the different cross-roads, all farmers stopped and offered fancy prices. Needless to say my share of the U. S. A. shipping was weak.

Dec. 8 prices 37c all stations.

I consider this clean and aggressive competition. It was just the old trick of breaking up an important shipment and discrediting a buyer. Naturally the buyer concerned has to give the public the true facts at once.

I am asking you right out. Do you want American competition eliminated? Do you remember 1947 prices?

The Island has sold close to a million lbs. of poultry to U. S. A. for 1948. Turning what might have been a mediocre poultry meats year into one of the best in our history. . .

"MR. RECKLESS" AT CAPITOL SUMMERSIDE

"Mr. Reckless", Paramount's thrill-jammed melodrama of the men behind the oil derricks—their lives and their loves—arrives today at the Capitol Theatre with an excellent cast headed by William Eythe, Barbara Britton, Walter Catlett, Minna Gombell, Lloyd Corrigan and Nestor Paiva.

William Eythe, the attractive young man whose star has been on the ascendancy since "House on 92nd Street" and "Centennial Summer", portrays a rugged daredevil to whom danger is just a word in the dictionary. The story of "Mr. Reckless" concerns his return to the California oil fields where he finds that the girl he walked out on in favor of the adventurous life, is engaged to marry his old friend, Nestor Paiva. The girl, who works as a waitress in Paiva's restaurant, is played by lovely Barbara Britton, recently seen in "Albuquerque" and "Gun Fighters."

In spite of themselves, the old sparks of love is re-kindled between Eythe and Barbara. On the day of her wedding to Paiva, her ne'er-do-well father (Lloyd Corrigan) gets into trouble over a gambling debt. He is locked in an oil storage tank that is gradually being filled. In going to his rescue Paiva is attacked and injured. Eythe overpowers his assailant and rushes on to extricate Corrigan from the fast-filling tank.

of prices they will pay for raw furs until such time as the market has been established by the auctions which are held semi-weekly. These prices are considerably lower on mink, somewhat lower on muskrat and about the same on racoon. We noticed that muskrats No. 1 large are quoted at $3.50, No. 2 medium $2.50. Skunk, black, No. 1 at $1.85. No. 1 medium $1.50. The manager of the Taylor Company told trappers that dealers who have carried over furs from previous seasons are finding it very difficult to move their stocks and when they find a buyer the resulting sale usually shows a loss. This is due primarily to the loss of the foreign markets.

There is a report current that the Dominion Agricultural Dept. will offer mink ranchers a plan similar to that that the fox pelts have been marketed under.

At a meeting of the directors of the P. E. I. Fur Breeders' Association yesterday afternoon it was decided not to hold a pelt show in 1949. The fact that the pelt show collection could not be marketed as such was the main reason for the discontinuance.
