ALLEGED SHAKESPEARE PORTRAIT FOUND IN AN ENGLISH VILLAGE INN

Had Long Adorned the Walls of the Bar Parlor, Along With a Collection of Sporting Prints, Before it Attracted Attention

LONDON March 16—Great interest has been aroused by the discovery of what may turn out to be the earliest known portrait of Shakespeare. For many years it hung among a collection of sporting prints in the bar parlor of the Bridgewater Arms, an inn in the village of Winston, near Darlington. No special value was attached to it, until a stranger, who knew something about old pictures, chanced to see it. He noticed its strong resemblance to other supposed authentic portraits of Shakespeare, painted when he had reached a maturer age. He said that it might be a portrait of the immortal bard. In the mouth of rumor, the "might be" became "was."

M. H. Spielmann, the famous art critic, now engaged in preparing a volume on Shakespeare portraits, heard of it, and wrote to the Misses Ludgate—two maiden sisters who conduct the inn—asking them for a photograph of the portrait and its history so far as they were acquainted with it. Mr. Spielmann, who is disposing of the claims of scores of alleged Shakespeare portraits, has not yet been able to devote that attention to the latest discovery necessary to determine whether or no it is a genuine portrait.

It represents a young man with budding moustache and a head of thick, curly hair. He wears a crimson velvet slashed doublet and lace collar. The portrait, which measures 15¼ by 17½ inches, bears in white letters on the panel the inscription, "Ae suae (aetatis suae) 24, 1588," and on the back are the letters "W. x S." Nowhere, is there an indication of the painter's name or initials.

"If it can be proved to be a Shakespeare," says Mr. Spielman, "it is impossible to estimate its value. It would be worth £10,000 to buy it for the nation, but it is not unlikely that an American would offer £50,000 for it.

Meanwhile the portrait no longer adorns the parlor of the village inn. The Misses Ludgate have deposited it for safety in a bank, pending a determination of the question whether it is worth the fortune that will enable them to retire from the ink-keeping business.

If the portrait is genuine, it was painted when Shakespeare was 24. In 1587.

Coughed All Night, Could Get No Sleep

COLDS ON THE CHEST WOULD YIELD TO NO TREATMENT UNTIL WE USED

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Overwhelming evidence from the people of Canada attests that there is no treatment so effective in the cure of bronchitis and cold on the chest as Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

This is positively proven in two ways. First, by the extraordinary increase in sales and secondly by hundreds of such letters as this which follows:—

Mr James F. Thompson, Youge Mills, Leeds Co, Ont, writes:—"Last winter my two boys were so bad with colds on the chest that they coughed all night and we could get no sleep or rest. Several cough remedies were tried to no avail until I was told about Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and this treatment soon cured them. It is invaluable as a cure for colds on the lungs and bronchitis."

Parents who make a practice of keeping Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house have at hand the most certain means of curing coughs, colds, croup and bronchitis, and positively preventing more serious disease. It is sometimes forgotten that few ailments possess more possibilities of danger than a common cold.

Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine was especially prepared for the children by one of the most skilled and conscientious doctors that has ever practised medicine.

Experience taught Dr Chase that some of the simple products of the vegetable kingdom possessed most extraordinary curative properities, and he succeeded in so combining these in Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as to make a medicine that is at once pleasant to the taste and wonderfully effective.

Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle at all dealers, or Edmanson. Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr A W Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.

BRASS BUTTONS THE FASHION

NEW YORK, March 15.—Mrs Elizabeth A C White, President, of the Dressmakers' Association, who has just returned from abroad, spoke of the gowns she had observed while across the ocean.

"I learned much during my five weeks' stay," she said. For one thing, all sleeves are Japanese. That is to say, they are loose at the shoulder, and not clearly distinguished from the bodice. It is hard to tell where the sleeve begins.

"Another thing I notice is that the French women no longer wear evening veils. Only while automobiling and driving are they worn. I inquired the reason for this and and was told that as veils are bad for the eyes and skin they have to be abandoned.

"Another thing of importance abroad is the vogue of checks and stripes, especially stripes. They are being worn in all sorts of material, cloth and silks. Also Japanese embroidery is employed in the decoration of the gowns that imitate the Japanese in the matter of sleeves.

"Of course we have the short sleeve in everything, and with it the long gloves of tannish brown. Everything in gowns is semi-empire. There are no long-waisted gowns.

"Then, too, there is a piece of news in buttons. Brass buttons, large and small, are having a rage on all sorts of materials.

"I also found a new hat, the Louis XVI, which is a huge sort of mushroom set back on the head. It has many aigrettes in it, which look like spiders with fifty legs. There are nine tailor-made dresses to one fancy dress. The lingerie princess dress will still be the thing for summer."

DISCOVERY OF COMMERCIAL WAX

LONDON, March 16—A report comes from Tamatave that Perrier de la Bathie has recently discovered in the leaves of the rafia palm a product which, by its chemical and physical properties, might be classed between wax and gum, and bids fair to become a valuable commercial commodity of Madagascar.

The process of extracting the wax is simple. The natives who gather the rafia fiber generally pitch their camp in the neighborhood of a rafia grove, to which they bring the leaves. The fiber is taken off and the leaves are thrown aside in large quantities. The wax is collected as follows:

First, by beating the dry leaves on a dry mat or cloth and gathering the pellicles and white powder which fall from them. Then, after boiling these pellicles and powder, the wax thus formed is kneaded into cakes of any form. This wax, which is very pure, will probably be more highly valued than beeswax, although yet not an entirely new product. It first made its appearance in the market place in Marovoay in October last. The curiosity of the merchants of Majunga being roused, they bought the whole lot at 50 cents per pound and shipped it to France in order to ascertain its industrial and commercial value. When the governor general of Madagascar, heard of the discovery, he ordered a sample of 25 pounds to be forwarded to Dr Heckel, director of the Colonial institute at Marseilles, who will made an analysis.

Feeling oppressed with a sensation of stuffiness and finding the food to distend and hang like a heavy weight at the pit of the stomach, are symptoms of indigestion. With these, the sufferers will often have constipation, fullness of the blood in the head, acidity of the stomach, nausea, heartburn, headache, disgust of food, gaseous eructations, sinking or fluttering of the heart, choking or suffocation sensation when lying down, dizziness on rising suddenly, dots or webs before the eyes, fever or dull pain in the head, yellowness of the skin and eyes, pain in the side.

A few doses of Hutch tablets will free the system of all the above named disorders. Purely vegetable, it acts without pain. Small and easy to take! One after each meal!

FEMALE TRAMP WAS GRATEFUL

Left $6,000 to One Who Helped Her in Tedious Journey

LONDON, March 15.—For a few little acts of kindness Mr. Edward English, the relieving officer of Alton, is now richer man by over $6,000, the dispute which arose over the will of Charlotte Spiers, a penurious old woman of seventy-eight, being decided on Saturday in his favor.

Like a veritable fairy tale are the facts of the story. One hot summer day in 1901 Mr. English saw what he took to be an old tramp with a bundle on his back in a dusty lane. She asked for a "lift" in his trap, which was readily given. At the end of the journey there was a sixpence for the woman, and subsequently many others, in addition to food. The tramp was Charlotte Spiers.

After living in many places and spending two periods in the infirmary, she ultimately died of starvation in December 1905. The previous January she had requested Mr. English to draw up her will leaving all she had to him in return for his kindness. No one, and certainly not Mr. English, imagined for a moment that she had anything to leave, but when she died it was found that she had money to the amount of over $5,000 at two banks.

Her nephew, Mr. Frederick George Spiers, opposed the will, alleging that it had not been legally executed, and that Mr. English had exercised undue influence in the making of it. Mr. English denied any irregularity.

SAYS KENTUCKY HAS DIAMONDS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 16—"We will be washing out diamonds equal to any of the South American product within 30 days. In 60 days this will be the most talked of place in the world," declared City Engineer John Sanborn today as he described a tract of ground 35 miles from Huntington, Ky., which, he says, will develop the richest diamond field in the world.

The new diamond-bearing outcrop of mineral and earthy formation lies in Elliott county, Kentucky, a little way across the state line. Here is the crater apparently, of an extinct volcano. The mineral, Kimberlite, found in what is called a "pipe," is identical with that found in the Transvaal.

Garnets have been found on the surface.
