ISLAND MEMBERS

The Island before the fall. Also, as whip for the Province, it's up to me to set an example and avoid any waste of time in a very busy session. We have complete freedom of speech on the government side as well as with other groups, but in the common interest we don't want to encroach on that freedom. J. Watson MacNaught, Liberal member for Prince who moved the address in reply told the Guardian he was giving thought to speaking in the budget debate and had several points in mind which he might bring to the attention of the House. Like Dr. Grant, Mr. MacNaught felt that the bulk of defence of government financial policy would and should rest in the hands of Finance Minister Abbott and members of the Cabinet.

He admitted however that if the Progressive Conservative member in the Prince Edward Island delegation should attack government policy concerning Prince Edward Island, he might feel it incumbent on him to reply. The minister, Mr. MacNaught said would answer criticism on matters of fact. Privately members such as himself might deem it proper to reply to criticism on matters of specialized local import and to correct misinterpretation.

Mr. McLure Preparing

W. Chester S. McLure, Progressive Conservative member for Queen's said he was in the course of drafting his address on the budget. Mr. Abbott's budget, he said, was assailable from a number of points of view. For one thing, thousands of Prince Edward Islanders viewed with regret the government's decision to retain high taxes on fur. It was the general view that this industry is to suffer under a disadvantage. James Lester Douglas, Liberal member for Queen's said he had thought of speaking on budget matters but as yet had not reached a final decision as to whether he will speak or not. "If the points I have in mind will be covered by my friends Mr. MacNaught and Dr. Grant, I certainly won't go over the same ground again," he said. "You know that much of my work here in Ottawa is outside the chamber. However, I'll be following the debate very closely."

When the budget debate resumes, J.M. MacDonald, chief opposition financial critic and Progressive Conservative member for Muskoka-Ontario will continue from where he left off last Tuesday night. Mr. MacDonald is expected to emphasize the lack of budget information on Dominion-Provincial relations.

Los Angeles Scene Of Another Sex Slaying

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Montgomery, 34, whose nude body was found on a vacant lot under a pepper tree Saturday, met death by strangulation, the coroner's office reported today. Sheriff's officers continued their investigations of the fourth sex slaying in Los Angeles in four months. Lieut. Fred Wolfe of the sheriff's criminology section said tests were being made from a shirt found near Mrs. Montgomery's home to determine whether they were blood. Mrs. Montgomery, mother of three children, had been raped, mutilated and strangled, sheriff's investigators said. Her husband, Thomas F. Montgomery, 45, an aircraft worker, reported her missing Friday night.

Widow Says Dr. Fritz Todt Was Murdered

MUNICH, May 4.—(AP)—Field Marshal Wilhelm Ritter Von Leeb, whose armies smashed Leningrad but failed to capture it, will be tried as a war criminal, an American source said Saturday. Von Leeb, Field Marshal Georg Von Kuechler and a group of other high officers who conducted the German campaigns on the Eastern Front will be named in an indictment by United States war crimes prosecutors, this source said. The German conduct of the war, it was stated, will be the principal target of the prosecution, especially the Wehrmacht's treatment of Russian prisoners and the civil population.

S. J. Anning of St. Andrews, N. B., Dies ST. ANDREWS, N.B., May 4.—(CP)—Sydney J. Anning, 62, one of St. Andrews most prominent residents, died today after a four-month illness. He was charter president of the St. Andrews Kiwanis Club and in 1945 became lieutenant-governor of the New Brunswick Division of Kiwanis International. He was an organizer and first president of the New Brunswick Fish and Game Association. Born in England, Mr. Anning came to Canada in 1910.

50 Refugees Arrive On Liner Aquitania

(By John Langlois) HALIFAX, May 4.—(CP)—The second small band of 50 displaced persons—lured but looking eagerly to the future—were in Canada and headed for central and western centres tonight after their arrival here aboard the liner Aquitania late yesterday. The veteran liner brought a similar number here two weeks ago. For the 39 men and 11 women it was an opportunity to renew lives broken by war and begin anew with relatives in Canada. Many of them bore tattooed numbers, reminiscent of confinement in Nazi concentration camps. Also aboard ship, but a little more tactful, was a group of three Russian diplomats en route to New York on "official business." They did not elaborate. Leader of the group was Nicholas Soultzky, consul of the Foreign Office of the U.S.S.R. A second member of the group interpreted the few words of Soultzky who could not speak English. It had been reported that Col. Gen. Efim Shchadenko, Russian vice-commissioner of defence since 1941 and member of the Red Army Supreme Military Council, was among the passengers. He was not listed as a passenger, however, and the pursers' office staff had no knowledge of him.

Former Polish Soldiers

Twelve members of Polish forces were aboard the Aquitania. Included were members of army, navy and air force. Five were remaining in Canada while the remainder were going to the United States. Able seaman Mieczyslaw Fischer, 35, a mechanic, showed a Canadian national registration card and said in broken English he hoped to return to work in Montreal—"a nice city." After his ship, the Polish destroyer Grum, was sunk near Norway in 1940, he was taken prisoner to France and made his way to Canada by way of Spain and Portugal. He worked in Montreal for seven months (Canadian Car and Foundry) before he went to England and rejoined the Polish Navy. Of the group of displaced persons, 22 are going to Toronto and the remainder to Montreal and Western Canada. Farmers, blacksmiths, tailors and forestry experts, the group's average age is 30. Only one married couple is included. One of the women, Toba Trefler, rolled up her sleeve and showed the identification mark A1450 on her arm—a grim reminder of days in Oswiecim and Elsen camps. Through an interpreter she said she had been the fourth person to acquire that marking. Three previous owners had been cremated in the camp's gas ovens. A dressmaker, she is going to Toronto to live with her brother Isy Trefler (282 Robert Street), who came to Canada from Poland in 1927. The six other members of the family died during the war in Treblinka concentration camp near Lublin. Asked her age, she protested shyly and finally told the interpreter she was 30. Would Never Go Back A 45-year-old Polish Ukrainian who would not permit use of his name for fear of reprisals against relatives said he was "very, very glad" to be in Canada. He would never go back. Now he was headed for Edmonton where a brother lives. The displaced persons were chosen from British and American occupation zones of Germany after receiving medical and intelligence tests and other screening by Canadian field officers. The group was escorted by John H. Legis of the inter-governmental committee on refugees. A group of 50 British citizens, coming to live with relatives in Canada, were aboard the liner. About 180 seamen were en route to New York to take over four tankers for far eastern service.

Workmen Uncover Ancient Secret

LONDON, May 4.—(AP)—A workman loosening stones at the Windsor Guildhall poked his pneumatic drill into a secret the go-slops didn't know about in 1675. The drill suddenly left his hands, and he found that he had penetrated a large hole. Investigation established that he had struck a portion of a tunnel which led off in the direction of one of Windsor's historic houses. Then historians took over the inquiry. The historians just about agreed that they were dealing with what they called "the Glynne tunnel." Nell Gwyn used to live in the historic house, and the workman with his drill apparently uncovered one of the subterranean passages used by King Charles II to make secret calls on the glamorous lady. The discovery at Windsor was associated immediately with the other subterranean passage, recently found in the Chelsea region, which enabled the King to call on Nell without the neighbors knowing about it. One end of the Chelsea tunnel is under Sanford Manor House, now an office and shop of the Fulham Gas Works, where Nell Gwyn once lived. The other end is some feet under the turf of the horticultural ground of the Royal Hospital, a spot in which King Charles found a mysterious interest. Nell Gwyn, illiterate actress who was called a child of the London streets, charmed a nation, a generation and the King with her simple talents.

Cost-of-living Index Is Up

OTTAWA, May 4.—(CP)—Led by higher food, clothing and home furnishing prices, Canada's cost-of-living index advanced 17 points during March to 130.6 at April 1, its biggest jump since 1941. In reporting this Saturday the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said its food index mounted from 148.7 March 1 to 151.6 with beef, sugar, vegetable and fruit prices climbing in various parts of the Dominion. Increases in furniture and home furnishings jumped from 138.6 to 137.2 while price increases in a broad range of clothing items advanced from 136.1 to 136.9. The miscellaneous index also was up slightly, climbing from 116.0 to 116.3 with the rise in gasoline prices a particular item. Rents, fuel and light were unchanged with the index for that group remaining at 113.4 and 109 respectively. The 17 point general rise was the biggest jump since August, 1941 when it leaped from 111.9 to 113.7. The heaviest advance on record was for the Sept. 1 to Oct. 1 period of 1939 when the index jumped 27 points.

Will Try Von Leeb As War Criminal

MUNICH, May 4.—(Reuters)—Dr. Fritz Todt, Hitler's minister for armaments and production, was murdered by the explosion of a time bomb in an airplane, his widow declared here in an interview with a German newspaper. Frau Todt is to appear before a denazification board some time this month. She said her husband, founder of the notorious "Todt Labor Organization" and builder of the Atlantic Wall, attempted vainly to warn the Nazi rulers of the hopelessness of a war with the United States. She believes that either Hitler or Goering ordered the engineering of her husband's death.

Halifax now is the only Bluenose city still with a tram service, and decision already has been made by City Council to replace the four-wheeled cars with trolley buses. The announcement said buses now are gliding along the route between Cape Breton's largest towns, where faithful but outdated trams changed for many years. The change-over began May 1, and some trucks had already been removed.

Army Camp Quiets After Race Riots

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kas., May 4.—(AP)—The United States Army disciplinary barracks, scene of a two-day race riot between white and negro prisoners, was slowly getting back to normal today. No signs of disorder were evident as the prisoners filed into the prison mess hall for their morning meal. White and negro prisoners, eating at separate tables, were served together as previously had been the custom. This was the cause of the riot which took the life of one prisoner and injured five guards and six other prisoners before the disturbance was brought under control Saturday night. Honor guards and trusty details left the barracks to resume their routine work today and Major Henry C. Triestler, Jr., public information officer at the post, said the rioters, all employed inside the walls of the prison, will be back at their work not later than Tuesday.

Showdown Conference On Coal Strike?

HALIFAX, May 5.—(Monday)—(CP)—The Halifax Herald said today in a dispatch from Sydney, N. S., it had learned that next week-end has been set as a tentative date for a showdown conference in Ottawa on the 11-week-old Maritime coal strike. The newspaper said the exact date of the parley will depend on the prorogation date of the Nova Scotia legislature, which is expected this week. The Herald said its "informant pointed to the fact that on May 15 jurisdiction over labor relations reverts from the Federal to the Provincial governments, and Nova Scotia government officials were anxious to press for a strike settlement before that time."

Britain's Fuel Crisis Costly To Exports

BRISTOL, May 4.—(CP)—Britain lost $200,000,000 ($800,000,000 worth of exports as a result of the recent fuel crisis, Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, speaking at Bristol's Labor Party May Day celebrations, disclosed today. The years ahead, he added, would show whether nationalization or private enterprise was the better for the country. The nationalization of basic industries would lay a firm foundation for the rest of Britain's industrial life. "The rest of that industrial life we are at present leaving to private enterprise," he continued. "It is up to private enterprise, with the help of the Government, to do what they can to show that they can create efficiency in industry as well as we can in nationalization. In the years ahead we shall be able to judge which of these two methods will be the better."

Toronto Presbyterian Supports Rockwood

TORONTO, May 4.—(CP)—Glen Thomson, Toronto lawyer and Presbyterian Church layman, today issued an appeal to fellow Presbyterians to withhold contributions to the Church's general budget until the General Assembly has reviewed the case of Rev. Forest Rockwood, who resigned from the Church after being censured by the Halifax-Lunenburg Presbytery for sermons he made at Truro, N.S. In his statement Thomson charged the Halifax Presbytery's hearing was "a mock trial" when it tried Mr. Rockwood on a charge of pursuing a divisive course. "On behalf of those I represent I urge that the budget funds for general church use be cut off until the General Assembly makes an impartial inquiry into Mr. Rockwood's case. Contributions for the local needs of each congregation should, of course, continue." The General Assembly meets in Calgary June 4.

Showdown Conference On Coal Strike?

HALIFAX, May 5.—(Monday)—(CP)—The Halifax Herald said today in a dispatch from Sydney, N. S., it had learned that next week-end has been set as a tentative date for a showdown conference in Ottawa on the 11-week-old Maritime coal strike. The newspaper said the exact date of the parley will depend on the prorogation date of the Nova Scotia legislature, which is expected this week. The Herald said its "informant pointed to the fact that on May 15 jurisdiction over labor relations reverts from the Federal to the Provincial governments, and Nova Scotia government officials were anxious to press for a strike settlement before that time."
