Saved!—a Testimonial —By Herbert Johnson GOSH DING! IT'S HA' PAST TEN! I HAD NO BUSINESS SETTIN' ROUND AT THE FIRE HOUSE SO LATE! I'LL JES' OPEN THE DOOR A CRACK AN'— SEE IF SHE'S WAITIN' UP FOR ME—

$50 to $5,000 A YEAR FOR LIFE A CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITY PROVIDES IT

MR. MERCHANT! Ever go hunting? Ever throw your arm over your shoulder on a crisp morning and go afield for furry and feathered game? Wasn't it a great delight to hear the whirr of wings or see a glint of fur between the tangle of the underbrush, to sight along the barrel until you had a line on your quarry, press the trigger and—find you hadn't loaded your gun!

Every day during 1921, Mr. Merchant you will be hunting—out gunning for customers. Your ammunition is your stock. Your gun is the Guardian. You will often draw bead on your quarry—a customer. Are you going to forget to load your gun and disappoint yourself?

Naturally you want to do a big business in 1921. But the first requirement is to have somebody to do business with. And successful business men, those who have applied the acid-test know the only way to have customers is to let folks know what you have for them by persistent and not spasmodic advertising.

This is no age to argue: Does advertising pay? It has proved to both big and little stores that it does pay. The man who makes it pay is the man who is big enough to look ahead for better business, instead of keeping in the same rut year after year. Behind every business that keeps up with the times is an individual who keeps ahead of them.

The merchant who lets himself believe that Guardian advertising won't pay him is virtually saying: "My business is big enough. I don't want any more!" If you want less business keep quiet—you'll have it! But this is no time to throw business away. You need it. Judicious advertising in the Guardian is the most satisfactory way to get it. Then Prince Edward Island folks will migrate to your door as naturally as the birds fly south in winter.
