IN MEMORIAM

MRS. ANNIE WOOD

On December 22nd, 1935, at her late residence which adjoins the home of her childhood, there passed away one of Orwell's oldest and most highly respected citizens, in the person of Mrs. Annie Wood, wife of the late Richard Wood. She was in her 94th year, having been born on January 8th, 1842. In Mr. Malcolm McQueen's book "Skye Pioneers and the Island", is given a review of Mrs. Wood's family history in which it is recorded that she was a daughter of the late Murdock MacLeod who was born in Harris, Scotland, and as a young man emigrated to P. E. Island in 1816, and died at Orwell in 1860. He joined the Navy and fought in the Napoleonic Wars, being present at the Battle of Trafalgar, according to family traditions on the Victory ("Nelson's Flagship"). A brother of Mrs. Wood, Capt. Alexander MacLeod, who has descendants at Orwell, was widely known as a Master Mariner, having commanded the S. S. Gulnare, employed by the British Government in surveying and charting the coasts of Eastern Canada and Newfoundland.

Mrs. Wood was the youngest of a family of twelve and was its last survival. Mrs. Wood was much beloved by her neighbours and highly esteemed in her home community for her personal fine qualities and she was held in high regard also by St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church (now united) of which she was a devout member. The funeral was largely attended, the service being held in St. Andrew's Church on December 24th at 2.00 P. M. A short service having been held earlier at the home. Her Pastor, the Rev. A. S. Weir officiated., and in his address bore testimony to the fine Christian faith and trust of the deceased, as well as to the esteem in which she was held by all who knew her. The hymns sung were "The Lord's My Shepherd", "Nearer My God to Thee", and "There is no Night in Heaven." Mrs. James Gillis sang a very lovely solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Interment took place in Orwell Cemetery. The pall bearers were: Messrs. Neil MacLeod, James Hughes, Henry Wood, Leo McDonald, P. I. McQueen and John Huntly. The floral tributes were: Pillow, son Cyrus, Boston; Sprays, Mae and family. Wreath, Violet, Hamilton, Ont. Spray, Norman and family. Wreaths, Myrtle and Gordon.

Mrs. Wood leaves to mourn their loss, two sons Cyrus in Boston; Norman at home, one daughter Mae, (Nrs. Neil MacInnis) at Orwell. She is survived also by fifteen grand children and seven great grandchildren. With her passing Orwell lost a fine citizen of the old school, the Church a valued member and the people of the community a good friend whose name will long be remembered. L-771-2-4-1i.

Urges Changed School System

SASKATOON, Feb. 3.—(C.P.): Revision of the educational system to emphasize character-building rather than passing examinations was advocated by Dr. S. R. Laycock of University of Saskatchewan in an address here.

The present system, he said, was designed to meet the needs of the average child and the "under average" children were handicapped as a result. Parents should decide whether children should concentrate merely on efforts to pass examinations or give some time to training with a view to character development.

"Teachers should not be judged on their percentage of passes," Dr. Laycock said. In England, which he had visited a short time ago, emphasis was placed on character rather than on knowledge. Teachers were permitted to mould the character of their students.

"Constant emphasis on examinations makes matters difficult for the below-normal child," the speaker said. The mental effect of continuous failure caused the student to drift into undesirable channels and lose interest in school work.

Accurate diagnosis by the teacher was the only remedy. Parents were notoriously poor judges of their children's ability. Intelligence tests should be made to determine what studies the pupil was capable of assimilating.

Maritime Exhibits Draw Big Crowds

BOSTON, Feb. 3—(C.P.)—The Maritime Provinces last night drew the largest crowds visiting the famous Eng'and sportsmen show with 20,000 of the 29,000 visitors examining the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick exhibits.

The principal attractions for Sunday night were the Nova Scotia tame moose family of three and New Brunswick's six live salmon, weighing up to 15 pounds each.

Each of the Maritime Provinces featured exclusive exhibits with the result the two Canadian provinces drew more spectators than any other display, according to D. W. Griffiths, director, New Brunswick tourist information department and E. S. Campbell, registrar of motor vehicles, Halifax.

Both Campbell and Griffith stated, according to show manager Albert Ray, this year's show was the most successful in its history and much of the credit was due to the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick real, wild life exhibits.

U.S. NEUTRALITY LEGISLATION ATTACKED

International Law Critic Claims Proposed Bill Will Have Direct Opposite Effect.

(By Nathan Robertson Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(A.P.)—Secrecy of Senate hearings on the administration Neutrality Bill was shattered today with disclosure that John Bassett Moore, former world court member, had characterized the measure as a "curious blend of homicidal with suicidal mania."

Moore's statement, presented in executive session of the foreign relations committee, warned that the bill would create "the worst form of dictatorship ever set up," and asserted it was designed to permit the United States to cooperate with the League of Nations.

The statement was made public by Senator Johnson (A.-Calif.) avowed critic of the administration plan, despite an injunction of secrecy from the committee. The California Senator called Moore "the greatest living authority upon international law."

Johnson said he agreed with Moore "that the pending legislation will not accomplish the result that all desire, of keeping us out of war and making us neutral in any conflict, but will have exactly the opposite effect."

The Senate committee hearings will be continued on the measure Tuesday. The committee will resume hearings on factors involving United States entrance into the Great War, with J. P. Morgan and his associates again on the stand.

In a 10,000 word discussion of the proposed neutrality legislation, its intent and probable effect, Moore charged it was bred by a "plague of propaganda." He aimed his sharpest fire at the plan to permit the President to curb export of war materials.

"This obviously would bring us fully into any war to which it was applied," he said. "I would not give this unlimited power to any man."

Caustically recalling events of the war, Moore added that when the Washington Government suggested armed merchantmen should be put under belligerent restrictions, the London Government threatened to keep British vessels out of American ports.

"Immediately we ran to cover and submitted," he continued.

The veteran authority on international law said it was "inconceivable" that the United States should ever abandon the doctrine of freedom of the seas.

Lief Ericsson To Be Honored

REGINA, Feb. 3—(C.P.)—Honor to Lief Erickson, reputed discoverer of North America, will be paid in future on October 9 in Saskatchewan. The Saskatchewan government has set aside this date as "Lief Erickson" day, in recognition of the voyage of the Norse explorer to Vineland in 1,000 A.D.

While it will not be declared a holiday, the government will suggest the day be observed by church services and exercises in the schools.

October 9 was similarly proclaimed "Lief Erickson" day in the United Sates by President Roosevelt last year. Lief, the son of Eric the Red, is stated to have sailed westward with 35 men, and to have touched first at Newfoundland, from there, according to the old runic legends, he is reported to have sailed on to Nova Scotia, which he called Woodland.

The name Vineland was given to a region farther south, where his crew found grapes in abundance. The explorer is believed to have made a settlement in the new country, which lasted almost two years, from 1002 to 1004 A.D. A second expedition under his brother Thorvold left Greenland in 1004 or 1005 A.D., according to the ancient records.

China Supplies Boiled And Salted Duck Egg

The average weight of egg laid in the Dutch East Indies is only 1.1 ounce as against 2.1 ounces for larger European and Canadian eggs. Duck eggs, boiled and salted, are the favourites with the native population and are much in demand. 2,462,000 eggs were imported in 1934, principally from China, according to the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways. Preserved and cold storage eggs have been tried but do not seem to stand up under the voyage and the climate. An attempt was made to raise the standard of the native egg for which purpose Canadian pedigreed birds were imported but, owing to the failure to realize higher prices, not much headway has been made in this direction.

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

Rare Owl Wins Right To Live

MILLETT, Alta., Feb. 3.—(C.P.): Far from its native icy tundras, a magnificent white owl, first seen here in many years, was shot and wounded by a hunter and put up a successful fight when an attempt was made to end its suffering by chloroform.

Herman Kohn, farmer, stalking a mountain eagle, shot and rushed forward to pick up his quarry. Passing under a tree Kohn felt something touch his shoulder and glanced up. The monarch of the northland, its snowy white plumage already stained red, was swaying and watching him closely. It had received a portion of the shot intended for the eagle.

The farmer carried the badly wounded bird to his home, where warmth and a pound of beef, supplemented by three fat mice, aided in its revival.

Despairing of saving its life, Kohn placed the owl in a warm box and sent it to Edmonton with instructions to have it chloroformed and stuffed, as it was one of the finest specimens of birdlife he had ever seen.

The bird's instinct of self-preservation was strong. With beak and talon it resisted every effort of the druggist, appointed executioner, to put it to sleep—and won. The would-be executioner turned healer, and the bird is rapidly recovering.

From wing tip to wing tip it measures five feet, clothed from head to tail in beautiful snow-white, velvety plumage. Its saucer-like eyes and feathered feet give it an odd appearance. It weights five pounds.

Temperance In Church Work

The following report was written by Mrs. John Frizzel, Temperance Secretary of the P.E.I. Presbyterial of the United Church and read at the recent meeting held in Kensington.

Madam President and Fellow Worker:—Once again I bring a report of our Temperance Department, and I wish it were possible to report all that has been done, but this is one Department of our work where it is impossible to tabulate results.

Letters were sent out to all Auxiliaries and Evening Auxiliaries in the spring, and during the summer reports and posters were sent to several of the rallies. Then the latter part of September the National W.C.T.U. sent clip sheets on the scientific temperance course, asking me to send one to each Auxiliary; and as the lessons started early in October I sent these along with the annual report forms for the temperance department. On account of sending these report forms so early I would conclude that many of them were mislaid, as a smaller number than usual were returned, but it was done to save time and postage. Those that were returned brought very encouraging reports. All have Temperance Secretaries and a gerat many give a Temperance item at each meeting and one whole program on this subject.

Some write that they find it hard to find readings for their meetings and some ask where plays or playets could be found suitable for a program. Some of these have been answered personally. We would again refer the Auxiliaries to the White Ribbon Tidings which can be obtained for fifty cents a year, and also to the Saturday issue from the Guardian where the W.C.T.U. column contains many good articles. These should be saved and made into a scrap book for future use. Then, too, the United Churchman has some excellent articles on this subject.

We are pleased to learn that the number of schools taking the Temperance course was as large as last year. No doubt this has meant a great deal of work to Sunday School teachers and others, but we feel it is the most important part of our work and will bear fruit in the years to come.

Our Secretary asks if we could not have picture stories in card form for distribution among the children, teaching them in this way the evils of intemperance.

For improving this department one suggests "Something for a program with a little humor and still a good moral to it." Another suggestion "by having more temperance sermons from the pulpit."

Some districts have been canvassed with good success for the names of those who oppose the bringing of liquor to our Province and the selling of it. All these things help to keep alive the Temperance sentiment of our province and I think it is our duty to bring before our Auxiliary members the awful failure of government control in the other Provinces. Letters have been sent to some of our Local members of the Legislature asking that they give their continued support to prohibition. These were answered in a very satisfactory way, and we feel that if more of this were done our Provincial members would realize that we were most interested in these matters.

When we remember that there are seventy-three brewing establishments in the Dominion and their output in 1934 was 46,000,000 gal. we can see what Canadians are spending on liquor. We can see what Canada is doing for the brewer but what is the brewer doing for Canada—nothing but unemployment and ruin to our homes and youth. We cannot name one legitimate business that is helped by the brewers, and still some well meaning people will talk in favor of Government Control.

We regret the many anonymous letters published in our daily papers, opposing prohibition; but we are proud of those who have spoken out for the cause of temperance and are not ashamed to sign their names.

HIGH NECKLINE AND ACCENTED SHOULDER-LINE FOR SPRING

PARIS, Feb. 3.—China put an oriental sign on the new spring mode shown in today's 1936 fashion displays.

Chinese lacquer red appeared in trimmings, Chinese motifs marked belt buckles and Chinese figures were designed along simple, high necked lines, suggestive of Oriental suavity. Some black dinner frocks were topped by knee-length coats of flower printed black and cire silk, whose cut showed Chinese inspiration.

A slender silhouette, high neckline and accented shoulder line, marked by big topped sleeves gathered into the armhole, distinguish the Paris profile shown so far.

Waists are normal and busts are definitely outlined.

Zipper fastenings are being used everywhere—up the backs and down the fronts, even around the armholes, where their opening transforms the sleeves to cape effect.

Two outstanding fabric trends were noted. The first is the use of felt for suits and trimmings and the second the use of printed piques in tones of rose, blue and white for sports frocks and in short loose jackets to top other dresses. Sports frocks were topped by striped linen jackets.

ONLY 1,700 GERMANS EARN $25,000 YEARLY

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—Germany has 1,962,200 persons assessed for income -tax, but of these only 1,700 have income of more than 100,000 marks $25,000 a year.

These 1,700 are included in the 6,300 who have incomes of more than 50,000 marks $12,500 a year. This is 3 per cent of the income-taxpaying population.

The 1,700 richest men in Germany had a total of 356,000,000 marks $89,000,000, which is 5.3 per cent of the total assessed income of taxpayers.

At the other end of the scale 75 per cent of the taxpayers assessed had incomes below 3,000 marks $450 a year, and 90.9 per cent earned less than 8,000 marks $2,000 a year.

These figures do not include all those earnings, for the majority are assessed not on income, but pay a salary tax, having a fixed percentage deducted from earnings each month. About 90 per cent of those so taxed earned less than 3,000 marks a year.

Official figures of the numbers of these are not yet available, and those quoted for income-tax relate to the 1933 tax year.

CHARLOTTETOWN'S Electric Rates

MANY statements have been made, and tables printed, comparing electric rates in various cities. One table recently published shows that our residential electric rates are high. But comparisons of electric rates are misleading unless due allowance is made for all conditions which are dissimilar in the different cities compared.

Comparing electric rates in effect in Charlottetown with rates charged in other cities which produce electricity by means of steam, it will be found that our rates compare favorably.

Unfortunately, our Island does not have a Niagara Falls. There is no abundant supply of water power from which we can generate electricity.

This company does not have the privilege of being free from taxation, nor do we receive any government subsidies or grants. Everyone who uses our service pays his fair share. Nothing comes out of the general tax levy to support electric customers at the expense of the taxpayer.

CHARLOTTETOWN RATES ARE FAIR

Despite the fact that we do not enjoy some of the physical benefits of some of our sister cities, your company feels that the rates in effect are fair and reasonable, and can further point to the fact that the rates are so designed that with increased usage our rates per kilowatt hour become lower.

RATE REDUCTIONS MADE WHENEVER WARRANTED

We can proudly point to our record of reducing our rates as soon as such a reduction is warranted. A review will disclose that the revenue received per kilowatt hour sold to residential customers has dropped nearly 50 per cent. in the last 10 years, which means we have cut our customers' bills per kilowatt hour paid for, practically in half.

The average residential customer in Charlottetown pays about 9 cents a day for his electricity. This is equal to less than two-fifths of a cent per hour, or more than 2½ hours for a penny. Where can you get so much for so little money?

More than 2½ Hours

in the Average Home

There is one thing that we wish those who would criticize our company to remember. In addition to the kilowatt hours the company sells, it also furnishes SERVICE which is available day and night, rain or shine, no politics involved, and everyone is treated alike.

This is the fourth in a series of neighborly talks about your local electric company. Another important message for our friends and customers will appear in this newspaper soon.

Maritime Electric Company, Ltd.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I.

NEW CLARE-REMOVING CLASS DEMONSTRATED

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—First demonstrations were given today of a glare-removing glass expected to allow beauty specialists to look deeply into the skin of women patrons.

The glass is utilized in a lamp to throw an intense, polarized light. With the resultant beams all in one plane, confusing reflections from the skin surface are absent, thus permitting closer examination of the complexion. The specialist must wear "polarized" light spectacles.

The demonstration also included elimination of auto headlight glare for a driver sitting behind a polarized glass in windshield and approaching a car with the special glass in its headlights. The glare was removed by making the shield and lamp cover of glasses which is combination permit control of the light without dimming the driver's field of vision.

Another adaptation of the discovery was shown in "three-dimensional" motion pictures made with two cameras set-space apart and viewed through polarizing spectacles. The effect was that of the old fashioned stereoscope, objects given space and depth.

Sheets of the new glass in windows are expetced to obviate the need for apartment dwellers to draw their shades. Although barring vision from outside, the glass would permit vision from the inside and would admit light.

PRAYER BOOKS, COINS POSTAGE STAMPS TO BE ALTERED

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Because a new king has come to England's throne the Book of Common Prayer of the Church of England must be repinted and postage stamps, coins and currency of the entire Empire must be altered.

Custom required that the head of the ruling monarch appear on stamps, coins and currency. The Book of Common Prayer mentions the king by name in two places and the queen once. The prayer for "Our Gracious Queen Mary," will be altered to read "Our Gracious Queen Mother," and Edward's name will be substituted for that of his father.

Some time will elapse before an order is issued for new currency and stamps, but an artist will be commissioned soon to design a head of King Edward for the dies.

Keen Competition At Wool Sales

There has been rather keen competition between English, Japanese, French, German, Belgian and Australian buyers at the Sydney, Australia, wool sales. The United States and Canada were also represented at the market. Sales jumped 190,392 bales this season to date as compared with last season, figures for this season being 540,734 bales, according to the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways. Japan has been a very heavy buyer of Australian wool: in 1914 20,500 bales were exported and for the year ending June 30th last this had increased to 709,600 bales, an increase of 3,361.88 per cent. With the advance in wool prices, the outlook for the Australian wool grower is hopeful. Many of the farmers have turned from grain to wool growing and raising lambs due to the unsettled state of the wheat industry. At the November sales in Auckland, New Zealand, there was keen competition for the first offering with prices from 20 to 40 per cent and, at times, 50 per cent higher than the opening prices last season. Japan and France were notably ready buyers.

Chinese Make Shoes From Old Auto Tires

Many a Chinese farmer and coolie walks around in shoes the soles of which have covered many miles before they were worn by him. Old automobile tires that have been discarded are imported from Los Angeles and San Francisco, in the United States, and on arrival in China coolie labour makes a very cheap type of shoe sole from the walls of the tires. Heavy truck and bus tires are not suitable for this trade. And now inquiries have been made as to possible sources of supply of old worn-out automobile tires from Canada, a firm in Changhai being desirous of obtaining supplies from Canada, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways.

COLOMBIA DISASTER VICTIMS EATEN ALIVE BY ALLIGATORS

OROCUE, Colombia, Feb. 3—Giant, man-eating alligators infesting the waters of the Meta River ate alive most of the 30 victims of yesterday's catastrophe when a police launch capsized during a storm, according to survivors. Twenty-seven of the dead were policemen.

One survivor said he saw several men dragged under by the snapping jaws of huge saurians. Survivors said all the dead were expert swimmers, and blamed their death on the alligators.

Relief expeditions carrying medicines and food rescued the survivors, who were marooned on uninhabited, inhospitable jungle shores.

The policemen were en route to Arauca and Puerto Carrena to relieve garrisons along Orinoco River.

Two other launches which quickly reached the scene rescued several, some of whom had reached the banks of the river.

The launch left Bogota for the Orinoco garrisons Jan. 18 and had been in the Meta River since Jan. 23.
