BIRTHS

MacPhee—At Summerside, P. E. I., on May 19th, 1915, to Dr. J. A. and Mrs. MacPhee, a son.

DEATHS

NICHOLSON—Died at Millville, on May 17th, Mrs. Donald Nicholson, aged 72 years.

PORTER—At Hunter River, on May 19th, Mary, wife of David Porter, aged 48 years. Funeral on Friday at 2 o'clock.

IN THE KITCHEN

Boston Bread—One cupful of rye meal graham meal, Indian meal, sweet milk, sour milk and molasses, one teaspoonful of salt and one heaping-teaspoonful of soda. Stir the meals and salt together. Beat the soda into the molasses until it foams; add the sour milk, mix all together and pour into a tin pail, if you have no brown-bread steamer. Set the pail into a kettle of boiling water and steam three or four hours keeping it tightly covered.

Old-time Custard Pie.—One pint of milk, three eggs, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Line a deep plate with pie crust, rolling it large enough to pinch up a little edge around the plate. Beat the eggs thoroughly, add sugar and salt, and beat again; then add the milk and stir well. Pour into the plate. Bake until it rises, being sure to remove from the oven before it whips. Grate over the top a little nutmeg. The quality of the pie depends largely on the baking.

Pieplant, Tapioca.—Soak one cup of tapioca over night and in the morning cook it until clear, and of the consistency of warm blanc mange. Put one pint of pieplant in a buttered dish, add one cup or more of sugar, enough to sweeten well, flavor with a little cinnamon or ginger root, pour over it the tapioca, cover, and bake until the pieplant is done.

FROM FRANCE

My Dear Mother:—Even as I write the news will have been spread broadcast throughout Canada of the gallant stemming of the Canadians in their attack on the German advance on Calais where I received my slight wound. It was just at the beginning of the great fight, and thus I was not in the fierce fighting of the next few days, and perhaps it is as well, as only a few of the brave thousands of our regiment remain to tell the tale. In the whole of the Canadian division there was not a braver regiment than ours, and to think that in a few hours they should be practically annihilated! It is sad, but grand; poor fellows; they would not budge an inch although they knew they were courting certain destruction, but each one felt that the eyes of Canada were on him and acted accordingly. The point our regiment was defending was like the toe of a horseshoe facing the Germans, and they could have fallen back farther than they did but this would be giving the Germans an advantage, and thus they held their ground. At last, hemmed in on three sides, they charged the Germans again and again and drove them back, only to be attacked by greater numbers. Men were falling like flies and at last, when only a mere handful, they retreated slowly, fighting to the last inch. On three sides attacked by shells, gases and Maxim guns and rifle fire, it is a wonder that any came out alive. Poor fellows! When it seemed as if no man would be left alive on the battlefield, they, to their joy, were relieved by a British regiment, who charged and carried everything before them. Then the few remaining heroes retired to shelter and rest. But their noble work was well done. The Germans at fearful cost had been checked whilst British regiments were rushing to the front, and now the Kaiser can blame only the Canadians for checking him in his long-looked-for advance on Calais. It was grand, but fearful. My friends (and good ones they were) are all gone mostly dead, but if I am lucky enough to see Canada I shall be able to tell their mothers what heroes their sons were. I speak of our own battalion. It was the same with all. From the Atlantic to the Pacific the sons of Canada have won undying glory. By the British regiments we are looked upon as being able to achieve the impossible. Let us hope that their actions will not count for nothing. Surely the Dominion Government will in some way, at least partly, compensate the brave and dead upon the brave maimed and disabled. Well, now, about myself. I am still at the Base Hospital at Boulogne, although I am completely better. I expect to go back in a few days to the remnant of our regiment. Today I went for a delightful walk around the shores and streets of Winerent, just outside of Boulogne. These French towns are quaint and pretty. It put me in mind of home when I scented the salt water and saw the fishing boats in the harbor. Sitting down by the shore I could close my eyes and dream I was in dear old P. E. Island again. They treat you so well in the hospital here that you nearly wish to be wounded always. One fine man who used to send her children to me had three sons in it, and as far as I can learn they are all dead. We shall likely have no severe fighting again for some time as we shall have to be reorganized and our drafts from England will arrive. Then I suppose we shall take part in the general advance.

Well, mother, I have no news, only I am feeling fine, and even yet I have full hopes of seeing you all in the not too distant future. I forgot to tell you that last night I met a wounded fellow from Myshall Carlow Co. by the name of Byrne. He knows a number of Bearnes there and said one of them was in his company, but is now a prisoner in Germany. I lost all my belongings in the fracas but will get outfitted when I rejoin my regiment or at least the tatters of it. I am helping in the clinical work here until the big rush of wounded is over. It is not all so sorry for some of the fellows getting quite peaceful again. Now I want to tell you of a remarkable but nevertheless true happening. It is the talk and wonder of everyone. As you know in France and Belgium at the road corners and in different places in the towns and cities are raised large crucifixes, and a town may be blown to pieces but the crucifix still stands. In one place nothing remained standing but this one large crucifix. A lonely sentinel over the deserted country. Also in the firing line at Plogsturt stands one never touched by a bullet—and in every town no matter how terribly battered, there stands the crucifix as if by magic, proclaiming that here is One who is above all earthly vanities and ambitions. At Neuve Chapelle a crucifix stood through that hell of fire and came out unscathed.

Your loving son, PETER HUGHES.

ISLAND BOYS AT SUSSEX The P. E. I. boys with the 55th Battalion at Sussex are doing well and seem to be enjoying themselves. Some have already been promoted. Roland Day, Joseph Harrington and Roland Gauthier are Sergeants, Simon Nicholson is a Corporal, and William Riley and J. W. Hume are lance Corporals. All the Islanders are in "C" Company under command of Major F. H. Rowe of Moncton. Capt. G. H. Campbell is second in command and Lieut. R. B. Rogers is a Lieutenant in the same company. Lieut. C. Martin is senior Lieutenant in the overseas company which expects to leave camp shortly though their destination is unknown as yet even to themselves.

Five of our men, W. H. Palmer, Joseph Gerrier, George Cameron and George Dunn left last week for St. John as part of a reinforcement for the 25th Battalion. Others will leave with the Overseas Company and the names will be announced later.

All the men have been issued with khaki clothing, boots, sweater coats, 2 suits of underwear, 2 pairs of socks, braces, shirts, three blankets and a straw mattress and will get towels, soap, brushes, shaving material, etc., in a few days.

More men are needed and should apply to Capt. T. E. McNutt, Charlottetown, who will send them to Sussex immediately after examination.

This simple remedy cleans the old foul matter from the bowels so THOROUGHLY that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. It is so powerful that it is used successfully in appendicitis. Adler-ika never gripes and the INSTANT action is surprising.

"THE CURSE OF GREED" MAGNIFICENT PLAY

"The Curse of Greed," a five reel feature production of extraordinary merit, was the banner number of an excellent bill at the Prince Edward Theatre yesterday.

In this play a mere strip of a boy essays the leading role and sustains it throughout the five reels amazingly. He is mentioned in the cast as "Little Adrian." Incidentally, Adrian is called upon to do many strenuous stunts in the plot's developments, and he does them naturally—just as a boy would. The author of this photoplay has used great discretion (there being no display of heroics or impossible stunts which a mere boy could not accomplish) and throughout the entire production a pleasing continuity pertains.

Adrian has inherited from his ancestors a love of the sea, and through this natural born instinct readily accedes to the schemes of his enemies, whose tools subject him to cruelties, and he experiences many thrilling adventures.

The plot of this offering is complicated, but extremely comprehensive, and it has been ably and carefully directed. The cast in all respects is strong and typical. Beautiful scenes, both interior and exterior, embellish the whole. A cabaret scene, embracing about 2,000 persons, including cleverly professional artists, is one of the features, but the court scene in the final reel is hard to surpass in quality and the number of people involved in the scene.

The photography is magnificent, especially the sunset scenes and the entire production is a work of artistic merit. When it is shown at the three shows today all who wish to see one of the best pictures the Prince Edward has ever shown should attend.

"Funny Billie Ritchie," the world's greatest screen-comedian appeared in the "screaming" comedy "Cupid in a Hospital."

"The Sandhill Lovers," a two reel drama, was also a splendid production. Mr. W. C. Edwards, the new bar-

Worse Than Usual Kittylush was certainly the mud-diest town in Bonnie Scotland, but this day it was worse than usual.

Well Worth Trying During a tour of Scotland an American, thinking to get a rise out of a Highland minister, remarked—"Don't you think if a man left enough money to your church that he would get into Heaven?" "Aweel," was the cautious reply, "I wadna say that for a fact, but it's weel worth tryin'."

The Best Treatment for Constipation The Experience of One Who Knows and Places Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills First

It is not difficult to secure a medicine that will effect movement of the bowels. To cure Constipation and the complications which arise from it is another matter. Constipation of the bowels is usually preceded by torpid action of the liver. Hence it follows that if Constipation is to be cured the liver must be set right. And here lies the secret of the success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They awaken the action of the liver and insure a good flow of bile, which is nature's cathartic. The liver, kidneys and bowels are invigorated and regulated, and the troubles with the digestive system disappear.
