before he could steady his reeling brain, a third voice broke the stillness—the thin, quavering voice of age. "I am old," it said fretfully.

"Do not judge him too hastily, my brothers!" cried a commanding voice behind McDonald, a peremptory voice which made him whirl about on his heels.

"Oh, yes it is, sir," she said, evidently enjoying his amazement. "Yes, it is. Don't you see them? My birds, sir—my darling birds."

"Birds!" cried Hector, indicating the cages by a wave of his hand. "They may be devils, but they're not birds."

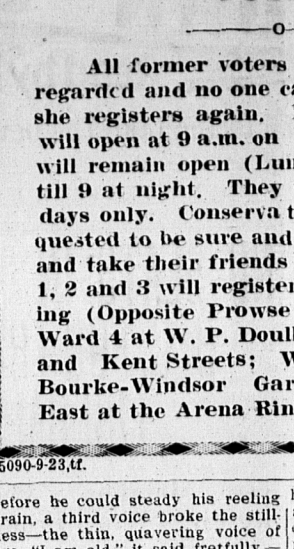

"What can I do for you, sir?" she asked in a peculiarly musical voice, and with a nervous gesture, placed one hand over her lips.

"I want to see some of your parrots," began Hector. "I'd like to hear them talk. I was thinking of buying one."

Profitable Canadian Investments Abroad

Canadian capital has profitably developed many foreign Public Utility enterprises, particularly in South and Central America, and original investors have not only enjoyed an unusually satisfactory income return, but in many cases have made substantial profits from common stock bonuses.

Through our extensive organization and facilities for keeping in touch with developments in Latin America, we have from time to time been able to purchase bond issues of that type, for distribution in Canada.

An opportunity is now presented for you to invest in a bond yielding 8%, secured by first mortgage on the entire tramways, light, power and telephone systems of one of the best known and growing cities of South America.
