Buote, while the groom was ably supported by Marshall F. McLellan, brother of the bride. The bride was prettily attired in white tulle and wore veil and orange blossoms. The bridesmaid's costume was of blue tulle with hat to match. After the wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. About sixty invited guests partook of the repast. Afterwards singing, music and dancing was enjoyed until 3 p. m., when the happy couple departed on a three days' trip to Charlottetown. Their place of residence will be Providence, R. I., where they will carry the good wishes of their many friends and acquaintances.

GONE TO HONG KONG.—The last issue of "Sunshine", the monthly Bulletin issued by The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, contains a photograph of Mr. A. R. Bishop, who, as manager here, made many friends. The following is an extract: "On September 1st, Mr. A. R. Bishop assumed the management of the Company's operations in the South China agency, the headquarters of which are in Hong Kong. Mr. Bishop, although still a young man, has had quite a considerable experience in life assurance and financial work. Like many another successful field man, he got his first taste of life assurance from the inside, having joined the Head Office staff of the Sun Life of Canada some twelve years ago. Later he left and was for some time occupied in banking business, but at the beginning of 1910 he re-entered the employ of the Company, going out to Singapore, Straits Settlements. Here he worked for three years, attaining considerable success, and on his return to Canada in the summer of 1913 he was appointed to the management of the Company's business in Prince Edward Island, Canada. As manager Mr. Bishop continued to obtain good results, and when, by the transfer of Mr. F. Morgan to Chile, a vacancy occurred in the South China agency he was chosen to fill it. There can be no doubt that the success that has marked his career thus far will still attend Mr. Bishop's efforts. His previous experience in the East should stand him in good stead, and the qualities that have brought him success in the past are still his. The best wishes of the Company go with Mr. Bishop into his new sphere." Mr. T. Edgar MacNutt has succeeded Mr. Bishop as manager for this Province.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR.—The directorate of Summer Resorts, Ltd., is again in a position to report a favorable year's working to the shareholders. Through the depression caused by the war of course, had a curtailing effect upon the summer resorts, as with nearly everything else industrially and commercially, the business done by Summer Resorts was quite as satisfactory as last year. In fact, the bulk of business done was greater this year than last year, and the operations of the company having this season been considerably extended. It is expected that a dividend equal to that of last year, eight per cent, will be paid. The holders of seven per cent, preferred stock will get their full return and there will be some dividend accruing to holders of common stock.

RED CROSS AT MORELL.—The women of Morell and vicinity have organized a branch of the Red Cross Society, and have begun work on an extensive scale, with the following officers:—Pres., Mrs. W. T. Anderson; Vice-pres., Mrs. A. Barry; Sec'y., Mrs. R. N. Cox, Jr.; Treas., Miss F. Sutherland. The society is progressing most favorably on account of the enthusiasm and sacrificing spirit in this good work, shown by its forty odd members. Previous to the formation of the society a patriotic concert, consisting of music, readings and short addresses, was held; and this concert was the means of realizing about eighty dollars. This sum with the membership fees paid by the members has placed at the disposal of the society considerable sewing material

BURIAL OF SIR JAMES WHITNEY

MORRISBURG, Ont., Sept. 30.—With an absence of garish display that he reflected all through his life the remains of Sir James Whitney were buried yesterday afternoon in the cemetery adjoining the Whitney memorial chapel, near his birthplace at Williamsburg.

Through the passing of the years many of Sir James Whitney's early associates had been removed from the scene, and the crowd that gathered to-day was largely composed of those who had known him during the latter years, when he was climbing the political ladder. It was here, in reality, that Sir James Whitney was a man of the people, for at his graveside his brothers and those related to him by blood mingled with Cabinet Ministers, parliamentarians and men representing the official and domestic life of Canada from every class.

The special train did not reach Williamsburg until nearly 5 o'clock. The railway runs immediately behind the churchyard, which fronts on the St. Lawrence river. A cold, drizzling rain had been falling for an hour, but even with this the crowd waited patiently, and for the most part followed the remains on the funeral train.

The casket was supported by a detachment of ten men from the 58th Highlanders and a detachment from the Fourth Hussars bore the floral tributes.

Only a few stops were made on the trip down, the first at Cobourg, where a few friends met the train. At Belleville where a stop was necessary to change engines, about 200 people visited the car where the remains rested the same demand was made by people who had waited an hour on the platform, while at other places as the train rushed through several groups stood with bared heads in silent reverence.

Of all the ceremonies of the day, perhaps the service in the small chapel by the river was the most impressive. It was in charge of Rural Dean Carson, rector of the Morrisburg parish, and he was assisted by Rev. M. G. Poole, at one time rector, Rev. G. S. Anderson, late rector of the parish; Rev. Canon Arthur Jarvis, a more remote rector of the church, and Rev. Quartermaster of Renfrew.

The regular ritual of the Anglican church was used, with practically no change. It seemed particularly fitting that the closing hymn for a life so full of vigor and activity should be "Now the laborer's task is o'er." Sir James Whitney lies adjoining the plot in which his father, mother and brothers are buried, on a slight slope, facing the great St. Lawrence, in the midst of a country rich in historic anecdote and pioneer traditions.
