The Milk Question.

SIR,—In reply to Mr. R. Jenkins, whose letter appears in your issue of Feb. 20th, I wish to say that we cannot remove the temptation to skim or water milk, by any method we may employ in the distribution of proceeds. Nor yet can we render such a practice ineffective to those who desire to indulge. As matters stand at present the temptation is there, and perhaps it is not always resisted. There is, however, an easy method of detecting such fraud and there is a remedy.

In regard to statements of Prof. Van Slyke they do not bear the impress of a very high authority. And so far as any mere statement concerned, unless supported by scientific fact, it is not well to accept it as a truth. When the Professor attempts to prove his assertions by means of figures, he makes a Slyke statement, not calculated to enlighten to any extent the majority of patrons.

He tacitly admits that to get results in closest agreement with the yield and composition of cheese, it is correct to add to the percent of fat. Why? He states that this result is obtained by the addition of the factor 0.3. Now certainly if the correct result is obtained without the addition of any factor, then the addition of the smallest possible factor would give the next best result. This factor would not be 0.3.

He further states that the addition of the quantity too, makes a difference in favor of the poorer milk, six times as great as it should be. Such a statement coming from high authority is remarkable. Taking samples of milk testing 4.3 per cent respectively, of an average value of 72 cents per 100 lbs., we find the individual values would stand thus: By the fat 90, 72, 54 cents; by the addition of two 84, 72, 60 cents, and by the addition of 0.3, 88.7, 72, 55.8 cents per 100 lbs. Now take note that 3 per cent milk, being the poorer, has an advantage by the Fat Casein plan, over the 0.3 plan of 4.7 cents. This difference is said to be six times as great as the difference—1.3 cents—between the value by the fat plan and that of the 0.3 plan. Then we find that 1.3 x 6 = 4.7 by Prof. Van. Slyke. I think there is something wrong with the Prof. Certainly the equation does not look hearty. I trust Mr. Jenkins is not a proselyte of the New York doctrine.

W. L. McLAREN,

New Perth Feb. 25th 1901.
