STRANGE TALE OF TATTERSON RAGGS

I'm a sort of a curious character, I do most whatever I please. I ramble all over dis continent, but I never stroll down near de seas. Er anywhere els where dere's water—I don't care if it's fresh or it's salt I can't plinnin' fer bathes in de sea. "Say nuthin' but keep sawin' wood." I can't settle meself down to labor, I reckon I'm not such a guy; Some people can't live without workin', don't get me mixed up with that fry. I ain't got no use for wise sayin's, I don't see why any man should make use of a foolish expression like: "Keep sawin' wood,"—de idea! Bind y'rself down to labor and t'lie! Work like a bloomin' old nigger—de idea jest makes me blood blue. I ain't got much use fer dem fellars as writes up dem stories in books, All about de clear sparklin' waters runnin' down in de babble-in brooks. I'll never forget de experience I once had at one of dem places; Phraps odders hee had somet'ing sim'lar, but I reckon dere's not many cases Phraps yer'd like ter hear how't happen'g. I reckon I won't keep you long. Coz me hand gets as shaky as weigh-scales most times when I break in'ter song. But o'course I can't help me hand shakin', me doc. sez me nerves is unstrung; De prospec' is cheerin', me readers, does dat sound as if I'd be hung? But ter tell o' me thrillin' experience, it happened jest this way: Me part Hungary Hawker, he sez, "Let's go over to Farmer McStubbles' yard; Round dere at de back of de kitchen dere's a fat goose placed out fer to cool. Climb over de barbac fence and git it an meet me around by de school, An den we will have aight blow-out; I'll wait fer you—you hurry up! I consented to do so—he waited.

I forgot all about de bull-pug Which was sleepin' inside o' de wood-shed 'touside of an overgrown rake' I t'ought Hungary a mighty smart fellar I t'ought dat he jest took de cake. Well, I sneaked along easy an' soft like, de goose wuz outside on a shelf. It was smokin' an' steamin' delicious an' dere wuz jest enuff dere fer meself. Without givin' any ter Hungary—I wuz seifish o, me so it wuz. But a fellar can't starve in this country, still I reckon a few of us a'uz. So's when I reached where de goos' lay I tucked it up under me arm. An' made for de bank of a stream—dat flows 't'other side o' de farm. I got past de woodshed in safety an' sat down by de side of de stream. An' I started to pitch in quite lively—(oh! how sweet to me taste he did seem!) De ole plank broke fair in de centre, an' I was plunged into de foam, 'Tuz de first time me body teched water since I was a wee kid at home. From dis yer kin form some idear of de state of me feelin's jest den, Me power of description is feeble an' I can't tell it right wid a pen; But you may reckon I felt horror-stricken an' near chilled ter death wid de cold. As I wuz washed down in de rapids an' over an' over wuz rolled.

took one last big bite of de goose. An' wid many regretful misgivin's I t'rowed it down inter de sluicew. Wid jest a faint hope dat 'praps may be de current would carry dat fowl to a shaller spot down a bit furder where dogs never bark, growl er howl. But e'en de best hopes of us mortals to disappointment are oft times 'loomed; But I ain't got no time fer soliquy 'cuz de aspect' had just den assumed A terrible shape. A big bull dorg wuz comin' fer me at a gait wuz jest simply orful ter think of, so I hadn't no time fer to wait; But I made fer a spot by der river where dere's a big slope in de bank. An' I figured it out if I'd reach it I could cross by an old hemlock plank. So I hoofed it for all dat wuz in me—a distance of twelve yards or more—

I wasn't in trainin' fer sprintin', an' de sweat poured from every pore. But wid a hard effort I reached it an' I started de ole plank ter cross; I'd no more den about reach'd de middle, when I received a most terrible toos; De ole plank broke fair in de centre, an' I was plunged into de foam, 'Tuz de first time me body teched water since I was a wee kid at home. From dis yer kin form some idear of de state of me feelin's jest den, Me power of description is feeble an' I can't tell it right wid a pen; But you may reckon I felt horror-stricken an' near chilled ter death wid de cold. Have a Good Complexion! The Flower of Good Health

The true secret of complexion lies in the blood. Keep it rich, pure, nutritious, and above all, keep the system regular. No aid to complexion compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They tone and enrich the blood, clear the system of waste products, promote good digestion, and, in short, establish 'cuz de aspect' had just den assumed A terrible shape. A big bull dorg wuz comin' fer me at a gait wuz jest simply orful ter think of, so I hadn't no time fer to wait; But I made fer a spot by der river where dere's a big slope in de bank. An' I figured it out if I'd reach it I could cross by an old hemlock plank. So I hoofed it for all dat wuz in me—a distance of twelve yards or more—

I forgot all about de fierce canine wid de first shock of gettin' 'er dip; But I soon got a gentle reminder when I felt me ole trousers go r-r-rip! Den I felt he wuz takin' a fresh grip—wuz it brotherly love? Nay, I ween, Fer although we wuz 'tached to each other I disliked dem front teeth, dey wuz keen. Dat dorg seemed ter grasp de idear dat I wanted teriget ter dry land. So in spite of me powerful resistance he proceeded ter take me in hand, (Er in mouth ter speak more kerectly) an' drag me ashore by der neck, Like de bloomin' ole sailors we hear of what git saved in a storm from a wreck.

So, I found 'twan much good me res-istin', dat bull dorg had made up his mind; "Take things as dey comes," I reflected, "an' ter fate jest be calmly resigned." Now, as I wuz dragged 'cross dat streamlet dere suddenly rose ter me a view. A vision—so pleasant an' joyful it seemed almost too good to be true; For der, driftin' down in de waves, was all makin' a bee-line my way, Wuz all dat wuz mortal of goosy, de cause of my trouble dat day. I saw, too, dat Towser had spied it, an' I felt his tight grip then get loose. An' de joyfulest sight of me lifetime wuz ter see dat dorg jump fer dat goosie. An' git it, an' make fer de bank, sir, an' lie down wid dat goose 'tween his paws, No tongue can express me glad feel-ings as he crunched up dat goose wid his jaws. Now don't yer suppose fer a minute dat I stood dere watchin' dat beast; No! I just saw de fust act on his program an' left him enjoyin' his feast. I soon made meself scarce in dat region—I reckon I'll go dere no more—

I like goosie, but I hate dorgs an' water an' gettin' me garments all tore; But I reckon 'twuz all fer der best dat de water had injure'd me duds, Coz a kind-hearted bloke from de city next day gave me a collar an' studs. An' a claw-hammer coat, an' a waist-coat, wid de front of it all out away. An' some bicycle stockin's an' knick-ers, I reckon dey made me look gay; An' de swells from all over de cont'inent dey tink dat from Europe I come. An' I pose as der heir to Lord Raglan, wid a handle or two to me name; An' I don't never 't'le fer a livin'—me doc. sez it's bad fer me health—"Just take things as dey come," is me motto, an' "live on de good of yer wealth."

Well, it's time I let up on dis story—I'm rather short-winded yer know. An' it's ebb-tide wid de ink in de bottle which I find kinder hindes de flow. New I wish you good-bye fer de present dis writin' I find kinder fags, So I'll now jot you down me cognome, I'm jest plain ole TATTERSON RAGGS.
