They consist of silver wings with an open parachute on a red cloth background. The badges are those of the United States Army but these will be replaced by similar Canadian badges later.

OTTAWA, Sept. 14 (CP)—Charles Vinz, head of the Wartime Information board, told a press conference here today the board plans to establish a modest office in Washington and another in New York.

The offices will not produce "handouts," general releases of publicity material. They will confine their efforts to replying as adequately as possible to questions asked them by persons in the United States who are writing about Canada.

18th Anniversary Presbyterian Church In Summerside

There was commemorated in the Summerside Presbyterian Church last Sunday with special services the eighteenth anniversary of the founding of the Presbyterian Church in the town of Summerside. The Rev. C. J. St. Clair Jeans, formerly for seven years a minister of the Summerside Church, was the anniversary preacher. In the morning he took as his text Jeremiah 47:6 "O thou sword of the Lord, how long ere thou be quiet? How can it be quiet seeing the Lord hath given thee charge? The Word of God ought to be heard above the Babel of voices in the world clamoring to be heard today. In the evening he spoke from Exodus 16:1, "And all the congregation of Israel came unto the wilderness of Zin . . . and in the morning the word of the Lord." Large congregations attended the services. The Church Choir rendered appropriate songs in the morning while the men's trio consisting of Messrs. Bud Mountain, Maurice Mill, and Earle Schurman sang two beautiful numbers in the evening. The singing was "Come Home," and "Wayside Cross."

A brief sketch of the history of the church was read by the minister. The history of the church is as follows:

The roots of Presbyterianism in the town of Summerside, date back to the 18th century of the 18th C. when Dr. James Drummond MacGregor paid visits to the Island in 1790 and 1794. In the following half century a good many flourishing congregations were established on the Island and Summerside was not one of them. Summerside cannot boast antiquity.

The first Presbyterian congregation was in existence in Princeton, New London, Beauce, and good one in Richmond Bay and St. John's, before any of the beginnings were made in Summerside. Spiritual work among Presbyterians began in Summerside about 1835, when Rev. Robert S. Patterson, a Methodist, brother of the R.C.A.F.'s famed Wing Cmdr. Johnny Paquet; Lieut. T. W. Brier of St. Johns, Que., and Lieut. Cole of Montreal.

Announce List Of Dieppe Casualties

OTTAWA, Sept. 15 (CP)—With the publication of a long list of names of missing soldiers today the battle of Dieppe passed into history as Canada's most costly war operation of the Second World War.

Defense Minister Ralston announced the losses suffered when Canadian troops stormed ashore on the German-occupied French coast Aug. 19 totalled 3,350, of whom 170 were killed, 683 wounded and 2,547 missing.

Most of the men killed and wounded were believed to have died in the bloody land-fighting of the first great Canadian newspaper-printed column in the column of casualties.

As was to be expected in an operation which involved a temporary occupation of a heavily-defended piece of enemy territory, the missing list numbered in the hundreds. These are dead, some are safe but prisoners, some are wounded in prison and, possibly, some at large, but the bulk of the missing were held up for security reasons until today.

The list issued tonight contained 2,547 names of all men reported missing, although some had been previously so reported and a few were changed from killed or wounded to missing.

The Central Ontario Regiment, the territorial designation for the group of infantry units which includes the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and the Royal Regiment of Toronto, both of which fought at Dieppe, had the highest number of names on the list, 36 officers and 717 other ranks.

After the Central Ontario Regiment, the Western Ontario Regiment, represented at Dieppe by the Essex Scottish, with 24 officers and 457 reported missing and two men; the Regiment of Quebec represented by the Fusiliers Mont-Royal had in today's list 23 missing officers and 415 missing other ranks.

Smaller, but still heavy, losses were suffered by the Manitoba Regiment—the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg—with 13 officers and 198 men missing; the Saskatchewan Regiment—South Saskatchewan Regiment at Dieppe—with five officers and 117 men missing; the Armored Corps—representing the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders with 15 officers and 149 men missing; and the Royal Canadian Engineers, four officers and 149 men.

One man from the Essex Scottish was reported missing, four from the Western Ontario Regiment and seven from the Central Ontario Regiment, previously reported wounded now are missing, while a Central Ontario Regiment man previously reported missing is now reported as missing.

Four Lieutenant-Colonels commanding battalions were in today's missing list. They are John G. Andrews of Barrie, Ont., commanding the Calgary Tank Battalion, Charles C. I. Merritt of Belleville, Ont. of the South Saskatchewan Regiment, whose gallantry in leading assaults was described in press reports on the battle; Fred K. Jaspersen of Windsor, commander of the Essex Scottish (Col. Jaspersen is reported believed killed) and D. E. Catto of Toronto, O.C. of the Royal Regiment.

In previous lists Brig. William Southam of Toronto was reported a prisoner of war and Lt.-Col. A. C. Gosling of Toronto, O.C. of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, and Lt.-Col. Gordon H. McTavish of Toronto, with the Engineers, were reported killed, while Lt.-Col. R. LeBlanc of Hamilton, O., officer commanding the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, was reported missing.

The unofficial total of men reported killed and missing since the war began now stands at 3,519, subject to some margin of error. Duplication of names in succeeding lists. Some but not all of the 120 odd men reported missing in casualty lists issued immediately after the battle of Dieppe were named in today's list of missing.
