—ENJOYED MOTOR TRIP.—Dr. B. L. Steeves, of Salem, Oregon, accompanied by Mrs. Steeves, motored to Southern California last month, and on their return spent a few days in San Francisco and Oakland, where they have many friends. Dr. Steeves is easily classed as one of the most successful specialists on the coast—a physician and surgeon of high standing—popular and respected by all classes. He was educated in Summerville, P. E. I., and before coming West taught school in his home town. Few Islanders have attained the high standing that Dr. Steeves occupies today among his fellow citizens in professional, educational and business circles.

—MR AND MRS. E. J. BAKER, residents of Yarmouth, N. S., for a number of years, have sold their home in that city and removed to Southern California, says the Oakland Maple Leaf. Before coming west they spent a few pleasant weeks in Mr. Baker's old home town, Summerville, P. E. I. "Ras" must have noticed many changes for the better in Prince County's Capital, as compared with the place he knew while serving his time as bookbinder in the Journal office under "Billie" Dougan, the foreman over forty year ago. "Ras" was considered quite an athlete in those days, was a noted baseball (and rock) pitcher, and at high kicking could easily surpass "kickers" like George Huestis and "Billie" Renouf.

—FOXES—The season appears to be a very successful year with foxes. Mr. McNeill, manager of the Greenwick ranch has had wonderful success this year, 44 foxes from 11 litters, saved and grown all individually in splendid condition. Few ranches have made such a success as this. Numbers don't count, it's the individuality that counts. There are now 72 foxes in the ranch. Mr. McNeill certainly knows how to breed and grow the black fox.

IN MEMORIAM

MR. JAMES MCKINNON

There died at his summer home, Narragansett Terrace, Providence R. I., James McKinnon, in his 59th year. The late Mr. McKinnon was President of the McKinnon Construction Co. and widely known as a builder of bridge foundations. He was identified with large enterprises throughout the Eastern States. Born at Chepstow, near Souris, P. E. I., he removed to the States at an early age and through perseverance, thrift and industry worked up the business which is today a monument to his industrial and financial ability. A good Christian, kind and charitable, he will be missed not only by his host of friends but by all with whom he came into contact. There are left to survive a sorrowing wife, (nee Catherine McLean) formerly of Springhill, N. S., two sisters, Mrs. Kelly and Miss Belle McKinnon of Somerville, Mass., and one brother, Charles, on the old homestead at Chepstow.

MRS. JOSEPH MORESIDE.

On Sept. 26th, 1926, a gloom was cast over Cornwall and North River, when the news spread that Mary Anne Walsh, beloved wife of Joseph Moorside had given up the trials of this life and had passed to her heavenly reward.

The late Mrs. Moorside was a daughter of the late Capt Thomas and Mrs. Walsh, and was born at Souris in 1843. In her girlhood she attended Prince of Wales College and Normal School, where she became qualified as a school teacher, which profession she followed for a number of years. She was united in marriage with Joseph Moorside in 1872, and out of that union were born eight children, of whom three predeceased her some years ago. There are left to mourn besides a sorrowing husband, four daughters: Mrs. S. E. Berrigan, Duncedin; Miss Della, Brookline, Mass.; Miss Mae, formerly of Alliston, Mass., and Miss Eva, at home; one son, John L., of North River. She also leaves one brother, M. A. Walsh, of Redcliffe, Colorado.

The late Mrs. Moorside was an hospitable lady. She was ever ready to show charity to the needy and sick, and was endeared by all who knew her.

During her illness she was tenderly nursed by her daughters, Misses Mae and Eva, who did their utmost to share her suffering. She was visited frequently by her pastor, Rev. P. Walsh, who administered to her the last rites of the Holy Catholic church, and who reconciled
