A Dramatic Thunder Bolt that Hits
Straight to the Heart
The Picture Beautiful

"Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?"—the picture that made Broadway cry, that made Broadway laugh, that brought tears to the most calloused theatrical crowd in the whole world—the photo-drama packed with human heart throbs, smiles, laughter, pathos and melodrama.

See "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" and see how boys go wrong—see the glitter and tinsel sham and futility of life. Live with Garry Beecher thru his adventures, trials and griefs and triumph—see and love the patient little mother whose sacrifices will strike a responsive chord in millions of hearts.

Bring the whole family to this high, fine, clean, ennobling, inspiring photo-drama filmed from the age-old song that millions know and that millions love. The picture you'll never forget—the picture beautiful.

This Girl Had A Legal Mind

(By Dominion News Service)
LONDON, Oct. 6.—A case in which a girl summoned her aunt for assault, and cleverly conducted her own case, was before the Rochdale magistrates.
She stated her own facts, examined the witness she called, and cross-examined her aunt.
The aunt said the girl checked her, and she boxed her ears.
It was stated that the girl's mother approved the prosecution and the aunt was bound over and ordered to pay costs.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE. A Picton, dispatch of Oct. 4 says—A Milne Fraser, the well known dealer for the Remington Typewriter Co., on returning with Mrs. Fraser from a motor trip to Prince Edward Island, was maneuvering to place his car directly beside the platform of the railway station at Cape Tormentine when a shunting engine backed down, badly wrecking the forward part of the car, but fortunately Mr. Fraser escaped without injury. Mr. and Mrs. Fraser arrived in Picton last night being delayed enroute by the storm of Monday, which forced him to detour nine times from Pugwash to Picton. At River Phillips the car stalled in two feet of water, which had overflowed the roadway leading to the bridge. Had the car not been stalled both Mr. and Mrs. Fraser might have been drowned, as when the tide went down it was found that the roadway had broken away in several places.

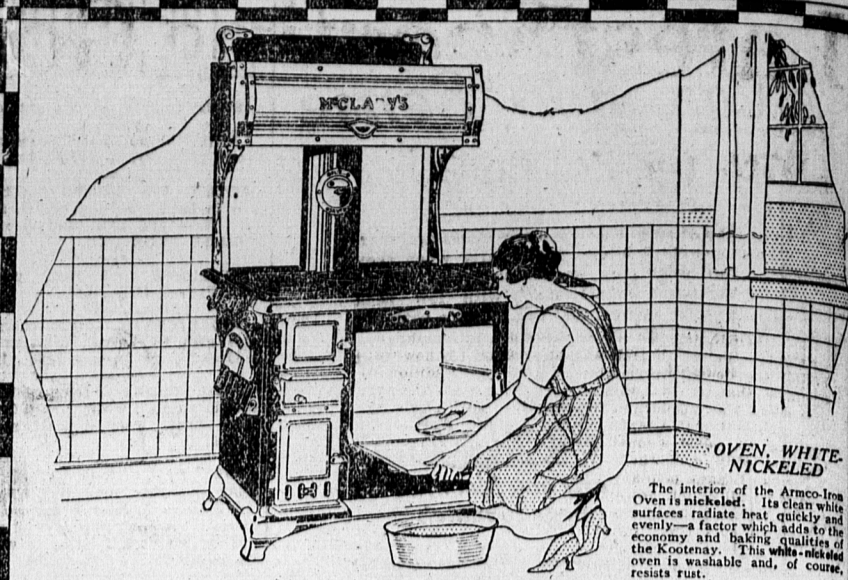

WEDDING BELLS.—Moncton event took place at the home of Mr. Paul Lea, Union Street, at 6.15 Wednesday evening when his youngest daughter, Elizabeth Eleanor, became the bride of Mr. Karl Osler Elderkin, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. Elderkin, of Weymouth, N. S. Rev. E. Val Tilton, pastor of the Central Methodist Church was the officiating clergyman, and only immediate friends of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony. Miss Lea entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus played by her niece, Miss Margaret Lea. She looked very charming in her beautiful gown of white crepe lace, satin with conventional veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of opheia roses and sweet peas. Following the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served after which the bridal party left by motor for Nova Scotia. For travelling the bride wore a suit of navy blue with gray squirrel trimmings and French hat. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts testifying to the esteem in which she is held. On their return from Nova Scotia Mr. and Mrs. Elderkin will spend a day or two in Moncton and then proceed to Kenogami, Quebec, where they will reside. The out-of-town guests at the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. E. Elderkin, Weymouth; Miss Carrie Cahill, Sackville; Miss Rae Cahill, Amherst and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Lea, of Summerside P. E. I.

Hospitals Find New Scheme Pays

(By Dominion News Service)
LONDON, Oct. 6.—An experiment, made at King's College Hospital, Denmark-hill, of throwing open certain wards to paying patients, has proved successful. The charge is five guineas weekly, and the patient is expected to pay his particular member of the medical staff for his services. But there is no hard and fast rule, the amount being arranged at the time of admission.
"The arrangement has been warmly welcomed," said R. J. Coles, the appeal secretary of the hospital. "We are placed in the midst of a population whose incomes range from $1,500 to $2,000 a year."
"It may be that the head of a family is stricken with sudden and serious illness, calling for skilled medical attention, and possibly an operation."
"These can be obtained at the hospital, our staff including some of the best physicians and surgeons in the country."
"We have also started an hospital savings association through which, by paying a subscription of 1d. weekly, members are entitled to treatment at the hospital, either as in or out patients."
"This is confined to incomes of $20 a week or less for the unmarried, $25 a week married but no children, and $30.00 a week for married with families. The condition is that the patient is in need of treatment which he cannot obtain from his own medical man."
"The hospital is still in need of funds. There are more than a thousand patients waiting for admission," said Dr. Nacamura, M. P., "and some of them will die before they can be admitted. Those that are admitted receive treatment which a king's ransom could not have procured 50 years ago."

Postman As Author

(By Dominion News Service)
LONDON, Oct. 6.—A rural postman who regularly does a daily round of 25 miles, has nevertheless found time to write a volume on "The Flora and Folklore of Shakespeare."
Frederick George Savage, of Stratford-on-Avon, is a devoted field botanist known to many leading advocates of nature study. Born 54 years ago, he left school at the age of 13; but took up the evening classes of a local cleric, and soon was a corresponding inquirer with the authorities at Kew Gardens.
Later Mr. Savage acquired a large garden plot and commenced his practical working-out of Shakespeare flora.
He collected and classified practically the whole of Shakespearean plant life, except the common field and the wayside examples, and the exotics, found only in glass-houses.
He also gathered a library of 700 specialised books, and compiled notes which have resulted in the recently issued volume.
For the greater part of his life Mr. Savage has had to work hard, on poor wages and Spartan fare, his work consisting (till the middle of the war) of seven days, with an occasional Sunday off.
His daily round still covers a distance of some 25 miles.
Mr. Savage also exhibited at the local library specimens of all the flowers and plants named by the poet, in their season, each with descriptive text.
From that labour of love developed a series of articles which amplified and revised, resulted in a book, which is the most exhaustive work on the subject ever done and a credit to Shakespearean literature.
The hammer was one of the earliest inventions of man, which would indicate that envy is not the product of recent centuries.
Superstition is religion dissociated from morality.—Gore.
