Sure Cure for Matrimonial Ills Dorothy Dix Advocates Constant Applications of Patience

Patience Would do More Than Anything Else in the World to Make Marriage a Success, if Only the Husband and Wife Who Begin to be Disillusioned had the Patience to Use it

If I were a fairy godmother and had it in my power to bestow some magic talisman upon a bridal couple that would insure their future happiness and prosperity, I should give them PATIENCE

My children, this is a conjure that will do more than love, it will do more than practicing all of the standard domestic virtues, it will do more than anything else in the world to make your marriage a success...

Use it when you first begin to discover that you are united to just a plain, ordinary, faulty, human man or woman instead of being married to a little tin god.

Thus shall you be saved from the divorce court that yawns for the newlyweds. For it is in the early years of marriage that so many young couples either stumble into it, or else there begins that estrangement that can separate two persons who live under the same roof...

So begin by applying some patience to marriage itself. Don't get discouraged and throw up your hands and quit because it isn't all that your fondest fancy painted it, and because it is not the glorious success that you thought it was going to be.

If you went into business, you would expect to struggle along for years building up your grocery trade, or your brokerage. You would know that you had to have the courage to carry on through hard times, and the grit to meet disappointments, and the wit to triumph over your rivals...

Believe me, children, if men and women would use half as much patience in trying to make marriage a success as they do in trying to make a success of a business or a profession, there would be mighty little matrimonial bankruptcy.

And let a woman discover that her husband is just an unsentimental soul who says it with beefsteaks instead of violets, or let him have a little flirtation with some other woman, and she packs her clothes and goes back to mother, and another home is broken up.

Yet it is no exaggeration to say that nine out of ten of these marriages that go on the rocks could be saved if either the husband or wife exercised a little patience.

Some of the happiest middle-aged couples that I know were on the verge of divorce a dozen times in the first year of their marriage, but somehow they kept on going until they found the Promised Land.

Furthermore, children, have patience with each other's faults. How could two persons of different heredity, brought up in a different environment, of different sexes expect to have the same tastes and habits and ways of doing things?

Don't expect miracles to happen, and don't expect that the marriage ceremony will turn a gay, fun-loving girl into a staid, middle-aged wife who prefers a kitchen to a ballroom.

It takes time to turn a bachelor into a husband, or a flapper into a wife, and you can't hurry up the process by nagging and complaining.

It is patience that does it.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 21.—Louis Brodsky was jobless and unable to support his aged parents so he brought suit in superior court to compel his brother, Harry, to do it. Harry, according to Louis's complaint, is well-off.

Quick, Mother!

First aid must be applied at once to avoid danger

THE most important thing about first aid is to be quick about it. That's why you should have "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly always on hand for instant use.

Think of the child who is burned or cut. You don't want him to suffer a minute; you don't want to invite infections which often come from neglected skin abrasions.

"Vaseline" Jelly will help you. Apply at once. And apply a light bandage. Be prepared. Lay in a supply at once. For sale everywhere, in tubes and jars.

And remember when you buy that the trade-mark Vaseline on the label is your assurance that you are getting the genuine product of the Chesebrough Manufacturing Company, Cons'd, 5520 Chabot Ave., Montreal, Canada.

Etiquette

By Roberts Lee

Q. What is the proper position for a man to take when walking with two women?

A. On the curb side, never between them.

Q. If a woman is ill, may she request that a man give his seat to her in a car?

A. Yes, but never under any other conditions.

Q. Are ices eaten with a spoon or a fork?

A. With a fork.

For The Cook

BAKED FISH-AND-POTATO

Quickly mash four boiled potatoes with two pounds of fresh-boiled codfish or haddock, seasoning with three teaspoons of salt and one of pepper; add one-half cup of butter and cream enough to make the consistency of a rather thick batter.

Every Human Being Hates Castor Oil

Such a rotten taste — and how it sticks. The modern laxative is far better, and of course is easy to take. What could be simpler than to swallow one or two tiny sugar-coated pills just before you retire.

Pasty Faces To Replace Rosy Cheeks Of Last Year

PARIS, Feb. 21.—Pasty-faced young women are to come back into fashion during 1931. This is the decree of the powder factories of the Rue La Paix, which have ordained the doom of the rosy cheeks that bloomed last year.

Women have tired of looking too robust, with real or artificial tanner skins. That, marked the age of realism; now a swing back to the Romantic period is predicted by the purveyors of beauty who themselves protest they do not originally make the fashion but only follow the lead of the ultra-smart younger set in Paris.

So this year is to be a pale year; listlessness will be carefully studied by young women of fashion, who will crave to look cadaverous as anxiously as they tried last year to appear as passable imitations of "he-men."

Caring For Your Jewelry

In damp weather jewelled trinkets are apt to lose some of their brilliance. It is, therefore, a good plan to look them over, now and again, and to give them a little "beauty treatment."

Plain gold jewellery should be washed in farm, soap water, and polished with chamois. Diamonds should be washed in the same way. Dry them on flannel and polish them with a little Eau de Cologne.

"Opals can be washed very quickly in soap and water. They must not, on any account, be allowed to remain in water," an expert said today.

"Diamonds, rubies and emeralds can be rinsed in Eau de Cologne. The greatest care should be used, when cleaning gems, in seeing that they are thoroughly dry. This can best be done by obtaining a small amount of boxwood dust. Immerse the trinkets in this, and carefully dust them afterwards."

"Artificial trinkets must never be washed at all. They should simply be rubbed up with dry tissue paper to restore their beauty."

HAIRDRESSER SUEB

PARIS, Feb. 21.—(U. P.)—A young Frenchwoman, Mlle. Renier, has brought an action against her hairdresser, claiming damages because a "permanent" wave had lasted only a week.

What the Fashionable are Wearing

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

By Annabelle Worthington

Feminine daintiness expresses this new model of printed crepe silk. And what a fascinating affair it is to make and wear.

A peplum frill encircles the hips—but is cleverly placed so as not to interfere with its slenderness.

A frill also finishes the fitted cape collar that chooses the becoming V-shape at the front and bow trim.

Plain flat crepe, sheer crepe woolsens, lace and many rayon novelties are all lovely materials for this model.

Style No. 3006 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

The pattern provides for long cuffed sleeves as seen in small illustration.

The bindings are in plain colored crepe in the deepest tone of the print, while the collar uses the palest shade.

You will see one attractive style after another as you turn over the pages of our new Spring Fashion Book.

Styles for children or the miss, the matron, the stout—and a series of dressmaking articles. It is a book that will save you money.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Price of book 10 cents. Price of pattern 15 cents.

Paris Letter

BY MARY KNIGHT United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Feb. 21.—No more wondering what to do while waiting first on one foot and then on the other for that fashionable young girl who is never on time for an engagement—take out a Parisian wood cigaret case and work the little puzzle that is made right into the cover.

These new cigaret puzzles are terribly popular things. There is a small round or square glass surface on the top of the case under which are several tiny round indentations with gold numbers beneath them. There are also about five or six tiny steel "bits" destined, one for each hole. The object of the game is to develop patience and poise in a crisis—such as is needed after waiting half an hour on a lady friend who is making you miss the first act of a good show.

And with regard to the general color scheme of a smart evening audience—it is beginning to have a bluish cast to it that is spreading rather thickly over the previous black and white cast. There are still many spots of black and white but navy blue lace, satin, chiffon and crepe de Chine are regarded with great favor.

TOM CAT ENDS LIFE OF FAMED WAR PIGEON

TWICKENHAM, England, Feb. 21.—The pigeon colony of Twickenham today mourned the death of "Dupert," one of the most famous of Britain's war-birds.

A strong winged carrier pigeon, Rupert flew through shell-fire on the Ypres front many times, but it was a slacker tomcat which brought him to his end.

Rupert was born in 1917 and before he was many months old had proved himself a reliable message carrier from the front line to his base. He was owned by Sergeant S. G. Passey of Twickenham.

The death of Rupert leaves only half a dozen genuine war-birds in Britain. The best known are "Old Bill," now living in retirement at Brighton, and "Lightning," who is pensioned at Clapton.

A Morning Smile

The wealthy man had brought a large cheque, a donation to the church fund, to the minister's home. "I suppose you brought this to save your soul?" said the minister.

"My soul? Oh, dear, no!" replied the wealthy one, "I brought it to save postage!"

Sea Sounding

(British United Press)

LONDON, February 21.—A new type of fathometer, an apparatus for measuring the exact depth of water under a ship, has been successfully tested during a fortnight's fishing voyage by a Firstwood trawler belonging to the Boston Deep Sea Fishing and Ice Co. Depths up to 400 fathoms (nearly half a mile) were accurately gauged.

The installation consists of an enormous "hazamer," over 100 lbs. in weight, fixed on the bottom of the ship, inside the "skin," which creates a terrific din when a switch is turned on by the navigator. The sound produced is re-echoed by the bed of the sea, and the instrument in the skipper's wheelhouse measures the time it takes the vibration to travel through the water. As sound is known to travel as fast as 4800 feet a second, the amount of water in fathoms is registered immediately.

In 400 fathoms the lead method would occupy at least a quarter of an hour, and the ship would have to be stopped for a correct measurement to be taken, but the instrument

New Discovery In Paralysis Was Praised

LONDON, Feb. 21.—A discovery hailed by prominent physicians here as one of the most important contributions in years toward the battle with infantile paralysis, is one of the romances of the medical world.

Nine years ago Edward Weston Hurst was an obscure student in one of the large hospitals here. He spent long hours preparing himself to compete for a scholarship in the Lister Institute of Preventative Medicine and won it.

There he devoted himself to research work in hopes of discovering the serum to prevent infantile paralysis, a task that had baffled medical men for years. He was aided by Dr. James Collier, one of the foremost authorities in the world on this disease.

In less than a year, Dr. Hurst, now in his early thirties, submitted results which Collier claims have "conclusively proved by experiments with a horse and monkeys that the horse's blood invariably provides protection against the disease."

Collier said the young doctor first inoculated monkeys giving them the disease and then took from a horse into which he had injected the virus two quarts of blood.

the infected monkeys, drove away the disease," he said. It is estimated that a healthy horse could give two quarts of blood a fortnight without any suffering.

BILL COLLECTION CARS RULED OFF STREETS

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 21.—The "bad bill car"—a brilliant yellow automobile so inscribed—has been ruled off this city's streets.

The collection agency operating the machines would warn delinquent creditors and then, if the payment were not forthcoming, call at the house in the "bad bill car."
