MOB FOLLOWED A TEMPERANCE WORKER

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—The last time that John H. Roberts, the Secretary of the Dominion Temperance Alliance visited St. Hyacinthe to prefer a charge against a hotel keeper of that town he was beaten by a mob of young men and chased to the door of his car. Today Mr. Roberts went back to St. Hyacinthe to press the same charge, and while he was not actually beaten, he was followed by a mob to the station and embarked on his train amidst cries of "Donnez Leur Un Coup de Pied" and "Assommez Le!" (kick him and put him to sleep).
Applying to the judge for protection against the judgment had been rendered against him, Mr. Roberts was told that if he had been ill-treated last time he took good care of himself and that he deserved no sympathy. Moreover the judge is said to have advised the temperance worker to curtail his visits to St. Hyacinthe as he was the cause of much trouble.

BABY GIRL IN COILS OF SNAKE

SAN GREGORIO, Cal., Nov. 21.—Trapped in the coils of a huge gopher snake, which stole upon her as she lay asleep in a hay field in Wild Goose canyon, five-year-old Charlotte Newman, daughter of a farmer who resides near Davenport, was held captive by the reptile for half an hour, while frantic children who had discovered her plight, summoned help from a distant farmhouse.
The little girl, who is visiting relatives in the canyon, fell asleep while at play with her juvenile companions in the new mown hay. She was not missed until her cries of terror were heard by the boys and girls. When they ran to her the snake had wrapped itself about her ankles and she was powerless to escape.
Frightened at the snake, which seemed to be enraged at the struggles of the child, the children hastened to the farmhouse, half a mile distant, to obtain help from their elders. When men armed with pitchforks came to the assistance of the girl the snake still held her fast. The reptile was soon killed and when measured was more than six feet in length.

GETS TRUNKS LOST FOR ONE YEAR.

HALIFAX, Nov. 23.—The recovery of two trunks belonging to E. A. Munro, a former Dalhousie Rhodes scholar, and now of the high school staff of Vancouver, which has been lost for a year, was effected yesterday by a remarkable chance.
Mr. Munro sailed from England a year ago, when the dockmen's strike was on. On account of that labor disturbance he was unable to get his trunks on the steamer, so he ordered them to be sent by a following boat. He could obtain no trace of them in the year that past, in spite of all that he could do. The trunks contained many things valuable to Mr. Munro, among them trophies won by him while he was a member of the Canadian football team that went to Switzerland and other parts of Europe.
A couple of days ago John Sutherland, of the appraisers' department, was directed to examine some unclaimed baggage prior to its sale at auction by the customs department. Mr. Sutherland opened one of the trunks and found a photograph. It was a picture of Mr. Munro, with whom he was personally acquainted. He found books and letters of Mr. Munro's. He knew of the missing trunks and saw that he had been the means of finding them.
The trunks had been in the warehouse of a steamship company in Halifax all the time, and the inquiries had been made they were not to be found. This is all the more remarkable as the trunks were marked E. A. Munro, Halifax, and were called for. The sum of $23 was paid for the year's storage on the trunks. Mr. Munro valued his trunks very highly and was glad to get them even at the cost of the year's storage.

TO COOK EGGS.

Eggs should not be boiled, but put in cold water and allowed to heat gradually, or else dropped into boiling water and then removed from the fire. An easy way is to put them into a bowl of boiling water, allowing a couple for each egg and one for the bowl. Let them stand for at least five minutes. Cooked in this manner they closely resemble poached eggs.

The Best Cough Syrup is Easily Made at Home

This recipe makes 16 ounces of cough syrup, and saves you about $2.00 as compared with ordinary cough remedies. It stops obstinate coughs—even whooping cough—in a hurry, and is splendid for sore lungs, asthma, croup, hoarseness and other throat troubles.
Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for two minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two, or three hours.
Tastes good.
This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It stimulates the appetite, and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.
Pinex, as perhaps you know, is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, rich in gualacal and the other natural healing pine elements.
No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this recipe, although strained honey can be used instead of the sugar syrup, if desired.
Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe. This plan has often been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been duplicated. Its low cost and quick results have made it immensely popular.
A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

RELIC OF TRAFALGAR SAVED BY BRITAIN

The 107th anniversary of Trafalgar which occurred recently saw the only existing ship of the enemy of all that fought against Nelson—one of the British prizes after the battle—the old wooden two-decker Implacable, saved from the ship-breaker through the patriotism of a private gentleman (G. Wheatly Cobb).
Mr. Cobb moored the historic vessel in Painsouth Harbor, hoping to restore her to the appearance the veteran man-of-war had at Trafalgar.
Few ships in the world have had a more stirring history. Originally built as the Duguay Trouin, a French 74-gun ship of the time of the old French Monarchy, she was burned to the water's edge by the British at Toulon in 1793, saved by the French, and carried round to Rochefort to be made a new ship of the line. In 1803, in company with the 40-gun frigate Guerriere, the Duguay Trouin was making her way from the West Indies back to Europe when she was attacked very pluckily by the British frigate Boadicea. The Boadicea could not, however, deal with such odds, and had to haul off. The Duguay Trouin then met a British 74, the Chuldon, but got into Corunna after a running fight.
The Duguay Trouin at Trafalgar was one of the French van squadron. In the closing stage of the battle she exchanged broadsides with the Victory, the Fighting Temeraire, and Collingwood's temporary flagship, the Euryalus. She made her escape with three other French vessels, under the command of Admiral Dumanoir, but on November 5th was brought to action off Cape Finisterre, with the result that all four ships were captured. In spite of what they had experienced at Trafalgar, the plucky Frenchmen fought to the last. The four ships, before they surrendered, had lost 730 men in killed and wounded, of whom 150 fell on board the Duguay Trouin. The prize, on capture, was carried to England, and added to the British Navy under the name of Implacable. Duguay Trouin, perhaps was too big a mouthful for our "Jacks" to manage.
In 1809, in the war that resulted from the Russian alliance with Napoleon at Tilsit, the Implacable formed one of a fleet sent to the Baltic against the Russians. With the Conqueror she had a smart engagement with the Russian fleet, and took the first Russian man-of-war ever captured by England; and after that, in the same waters, she captured a Russian flotilla of gunboats and ammunition ships. After serving in the Mediterranean in the forties of the last century, the Implacable from 1855 to 1860, did duty as a training ship at Devonport. The Admiralty, some eight years ago proposed to sell her to be broken up, but the piece of vandalism was stopped by a telegram on the morning of the auction, through it is said, the late King Edward's personal interposition. Last spring the Admiralty proposed again to sell the ship, and this time Mr. Cobb saved her by buying her for the nation.

INDIAN SUMMER AT LENNOX.

Indian Summer was ushered in this year on Lennox Island, by the holding of the annual Social and parish reunion. A splendid program of music and song was well rendered by the choir. John J. Sark, Joseph Abram and James Sark, led the singing with John M. Francis presiding at the organ. The latter also performed very creditably on the slackwire, Michael P. Francis who presided with his usual ability also took part in a comedy sketch. The scene from the cotton pickers was quite realistic and Joseph Gallant's ventriloquism created lots of fun. Rev. John A. McDonald with the ladies of his household were there besides very many from the surrounding country. James Tuplin with Mr. Williams drove from the Black Banks and entered into the spirit of the evening. They were much in evidence at the sale of baskets. Mr. Tuplin, in his generosity refusing to stop short of the $20. mark. It was a costly banquet to which they sat down in Fr. John's cosy wigwam. Mr. Tuplin presiding at the table. A saloon had been provided by the committee for the occasion but the fox rancher put it out of commission in less than an hour. Between the various parts of the program were selections on the giant gramophone. Then dancing commenced which was continued for some hours all enjoying themselves to their heart's content and proclaiming it the best ever. After some complimentary addresses by Father John M. Tuplin, James P. Gillis and the singing of the National Anthem all repaired to their homes.
KEEP YEM AWAKE.
A preacher, raising his eyes from the pulpit in the midst of his sermon, was paralyzed with amazement to see his small son in the gallery petting the hearers below in the pews with horse chest-nuts. Whilst the good but enraged man was preparing a frown of reproof the young hopeful cried out—"You tend to your preaching, daddy, I'll keep 'em awake!"

THE NEW BIRTH.

Birth is the beginning of life. The beginning of the new life is the new birth. The Christian religion is a life; every true disciple has experienced the new birth, through which gateway he has been introduced into the new life.
But what is the new birth? It is the beginning of the new life. What is the new life? It is a life of one who recognizes the lordship of Jesus Christ, who calls him Lord, seeks to know and to do his will, to follow his example and to enjoy his favour. This is the life of faith.
The man who thus lives believes in Christ. He understands his trustworthiness and trusts him. If he did not confide in Christ he could not and would not undertake to live this life of obedient loyalty to him. This faith is not emotion, not sentiment, nor it an opinion, a speculation, a theorizing. It is a trusting, a confiding. Whosoever so confides in Christ that he wills to follow him in his disciple and leads a new life.
As Jesus passed by, he saw a man named Matthew sitting at the receipt of custom, and said to him, "Follow me. And he arose, and followed him." From that moment he accepted Jesus as his Lord, called himself one of his disciples, and was ready to go wherever and to do whatever Jesus directed. The old life was abandoned; he led a new creature. He lived unto Jesus Christ and for him. He experienced the new birth.

AN AUTOMATIC WAITER.

An Australian has invented an electric waiter for hotels and restaurants operated by the customer seated at his table. A wooden frame holding the menu card is fitted with push buttons opposite each item, and pressing the button rings a bell in the kitchen and displays the order and the table number.
The kitchen apparatus also prints a check, the original of which comes to the customer, with a duplicate on an endless tape. This device has been in successful use in New Zealand.

THE MIGRATORY INSTINCT.

Bishop Wilberforce gives, in one of his books for the young, a sort of vision of the differences noticeable in men. Some are quite ready to stay where they are, but others are always on the move as if they could never find their home here. He saw a beautiful country, with every delight, and the people contentedly enjoying themselves to the full. But he saw also a little company that never settled; they were always going on. And away in the distance shone the battlements of a city which was their attraction. On, on, they were ever going, from the home here to the home over there.
Is it because seeds have failed in the south that birds begin to flock north? Is it because summer has ceased to warm the fields there that they are flying hither? Near the time appointed of God for their migration the birds begin with their peculiar instincts to yearn and long, and they abstain from their wonted food till, by any-by, at a given signal they lift themselves up, and move in throngs through the air toward the land where there is a new summer.
Now God breathes a spiritual migratory instinct into the hearts of men. Not because they are not well off here, not because they would be unclad; but because beyond and above them there is something better and nobler than this life! They long for perfection.

DANISH WEST INDIES.

We have from an official source that the population of the Danish West Indies is decreasing year by year, and by figures it is shown that in the course of fifty years the islands will be entirely depopulated. The Government physician says that the climate is not bad, but the sanitary conditions on the island are serious.
This accounts for the fact that during the past few years the population of the Danish West Indies is decreasing year by year, and by figures it is shown that in the course of fifty years the islands will be entirely depopulated. The Government physician says that the climate is not bad, but the sanitary conditions on the island are serious.
