ARTHUR W. WEEKS, Prov. Manager in this Province

The Crown Life Insurance Company is now ready to transact business and asks for public patronage and support in the special effort it will make to cheapen the cost of life insurance.

The successful management of a Life Insurance Company depends almost entirely on the discrimination used by its medical department in the selection of risks, on the care with which policy-holders' funds are invested, and on the affairs of the company being conducted at the least possible expense to policy-holders. The proper management of each of these departments will receive the greatest care at the hands of the Directors of the Company.

Insurers are reminded that not a single advantage of any kind whatsoever can be obtained by giving preference to foreign companies. On the contrary, Canadian policy-holders in foreign companies, among other disadvantages, lose the benefit of the lower rate of mortality prevailing in Canada and the most moderate expenses of management of Canadian companies. Furthermore, a direct loss is sustained by the country, which is much greater than generally appreciated, through the placing of such enormous sums of money for long periods of time in the hands of the directors of foreign companies for investment.

Nor should persons be guided in their preference of a company on account of its large size or old age. In no case has a policy-holder any interest whatever in the reserves or profits of a company which have been accumulated prior to the time of his entry, while it is most likely that he will, in many instances, have to assume his share of losses resulting from any poor investments that have been made by the company before the issuing of his policy, or in making good the increased reserves that the Government of Canada now requires to be made on the policies of the older members.

Note Particularly

The Crown Life issues policies on all approved plans of Insurance and has adopted some new features which will be much appreciated. The policies are worded in a simple manner with few conditions and are very liberal as to guarantees.

Lower Premiums than Other Companies.

The cost of Crown Life will average cheaper than other companies doing business on Prince Edward Island. A specimen policy and a comparison of premium rates with those of other companies will be sent on request.

Local Agents Wanted in Every District.

Applications to represent the Company on the Island should at once be made to
