5,000 Attend War Goods Sale At Mount Pleasant

An estimated five thousand people journeyed to Mount Pleasant yesterday to be present at the auction sale of R.C.A.F. equipment conducted by the War Assets Corporation. Probably less than half of those attending purchased any articles.

The sale opened at ten o'clock in the morning and was still in progress at nine o'clock last evening with prospects of it continuing for more than another hour. The crowd in attendance had dwindled considerably by supper time.

The sale was conducted in a large hangar with the auctioneers on a large stage where, through a loud speaker, they offered the articles to the bidders. When any item was knocked down to a bidder all similar articles were sold at that price. Persons who made a purchase in this manner were then given a slip indicating that they had purchased a certain article. This slip was taken to an office where payment was made and the purchaser was given a receipt which he took to another section of the hangar where his goods were delivered to him. When an article was bid in, if the auctioneer believed the price to be too cheap, he was at liberty not to sell any more at that price except the one bid.

The runways at Mount Pleasant are lined with different kinds of aircraft there for storage. The Kinsmen Club of Summerside operated a canteen in the hangar and did a rushing business. The station located at Mt. Pleasant was No. 10 Bombing and Gunnery School and was closed last March after being in operation two years.

Hundreds, probably, went to the sale prepared to buy blankets but none were offered. It was learned that both blankets and mattresses were earmarked for veterans' hospitals. Any blankets not needed for hospitals would go to help in clothing relief work in overseas countries. S

Maritime Synod Is Meeting At New Glasgow

NEW GLASGOW, N.S. Oct. 3—(CP) — Meeting in annual session here today, the Maritime Synod of the Presbyterian Church discussed physical fitness and recreational programs for Maritime youth and other problems facing the church.

Committees were appointed and reports were presented, with the newly-elected moderator, Rev. Lloyd MacLennan presiding. Rev. Dr. Samuel Davies of St. Andrew's, N.B., led the worship service.

A recommendation that the synod endorse the Federal Government's physical fitness program and assist in recreational programs was given considerable attention and the matter was referred for consideration by an appointed committee consisting of Rev. Dr. George Mitchell, Pictou, N.S. Rev. D.A. McKinnon, Springhill, N.S., and Rev Perry Rockwood, Truro, N.S.

Rev. Dr. William Mulligan of Westmount, Montreal, spoke on the need for a new educational readjustment to meet the needs of congregations in the Maritimes and Western Canada while Dr. H.L. Stewart of Dalhousie University, Halifax, stressed the value of refresher courses for Ministers.

S. S. Convention At Murray River

The M.R.E.C. Sunday School convention for southeast Kings, P.E.I., was held in the Murray River Baptist Church on Friday, Sept. 28, 1945. Mrs. William McLeod, vice-president, presided over both afternoon and evening sessions. Rev. T. A. A. Duke, Wood Islands, led the opening worship for the afternoon meeting. Miss Lois Tupper, the Girls' Work Secretary for the M.R.E.C., was heartily welcomed. Miss Tupper introduced a number of new hymns for Sunday School worship and spoke of ways in which the worship service might be made more effective. The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Milton White called the roll of schools, which was answered by the questionnaire. These reports showed a keen interest in the work of Christian education and all problems relating to the work were frankly acknowledged. Miss Tupper then spoke of the need of leadership training courses for the teachers and need of the teachers and officers meeting monthly to plan the work of the school. Rev. Roy E. Vessey closed this session with prayer and the benediction.

The evening session was opened by a worship service led by Mrs. Ernest MacKinnon.

The Murray River boys and girls were heard in a delightful musical number. The report of the nominating committee was as follows: President, Mrs. Percy Sharam, Murray River; vice-president, Mrs. J. J. MacKay, Guernsey Cove; sec'y.-treas. Mrs. Milton White, Murray Harbor. The report of the resolutions committee was also received. Miss Tupper then spoke of the "Five Musts of Christian Education."

Boys and girls must have a joyful and helpful religious experience; they must be taught how to pray; they must make a definite, clear-cut decision for Christ; they must be given a definite work to do in church and school; they must have a vision of the need of missionary work.

The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer in unison.

B. I. S. To Resume Annual Parade

Charlottetown will have its St. Patrick's Day parade next March 17, it was decided at the regular monthly meeting last night of the Benevolent Irish Society. Also the customary St. Patrick's play.

Several years have elapsed since the last St. Patrick's Day parade in the City but with the return from overseas of the younger members of the Society, the handicap of insufficient numbers for such a parade has been removed.

J.W. Hogan presided at last night's meeting at which several applications for membership were received.

The chairman of the Hall Committee, T. Flynn, read his report. The committees reports on property and charities were presented by C. Corrigan and P. Doyle respectively. The quarterly financial report was read by the secretary, J. Callaghan.

The members unanimously agreed to assist in the National Clothing Campaign by acting as canvassers.

The meeting concluded with an entertainment, one of the highlights of which was an impersonation by Hugh Trainor of Al Jolson singing Sunny Boy. Other specialties included a solo by Hugh Doyle, violin selections by Joseph Costello, step-dancing by Joseph Malone and J.E Coady, guitar selections by Dennis Dowling, and a reading by P.A. Lafferty.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

K. Of C. Annual Banquet Held Last Night

Featured by an address by His Honour, Lieutenant Governor J.A. Bernard, the sixth annual banquet of the Charlottetown Council of the Knights of Columbus was held yesterday evening in the main dining room of The Charlottetown.

After congratulating the Council on the large attendance at the banquet, Lieutenant Governor Bernard welcomed back the service men present and urged their participation in all of the Council's activities. Through personal experience of the work of the Knights of Columbus Huts both at home and overseas, they had had, he said, a particularly good opportunity to see the ideals of the Order put into practice. They had seen the opportunities for wholesome recreation and the practice of their religion offered to men far from home; they had seen the benefits of the Knights of Columbus Huts spread among all service men, regardless of religious affiliation; they had, then, in a very special way, a reason for entering wholeheartedly into the continued application of the ideals of the Knights of Columbus in the days of peace. Those ideals, Lieutenant Governor Bernard concluded, were now as always, loyalty and unselfish service to God, to country, and to community.

The banquet itself was preceded by the singing of O Canada and by saying of grace and the offering of a prayer for the Pope by the Reverend Edward Baldwin,, C.Ss.R., pastor of the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer It was followed by the proposal of the toast to the King by the toastmaster, R.A. MacDonald, Grand Knight of the Charlottetown Council.

Responding to the next toast, that to the Church, Father Baldwin pointed out the necessity at the present time for the apostolic zeal of the early Church This zeal, Father Baldwin said, should be expressed in the form of Catholic Action, the participation of the laity in the apostolic mission of the hierarchy. It is the duty of every layman to be an apostle, to share in the Church's mission of bringing souls to salvation This every Catholic laymen must do by applying Christian principles in his daily occupation, by living the Catholic life every hour of every day, by influencing for good every person with whom he comes into contact An example of further work in the field of Catholic Action open to all, Father Baldwin cited the opportunities offered by parish organizations, especially those fostering the training of the youth. These organizations, he emphasized, must develop character through physical, mental, social and religious training. To succeed, they need the cooperative effort of the laymen of the parish, the modern apostles

The toast to Our Country was responded to by Lieutenant J. Arthur McGuigan To know Canada, Lieutenant McGuigan said, was to love her and to love her was to work for her. After a rapid review of the history of our country, with special reference to the part she played in both world wars, Lieutenant McGuigan reminded those present that their country's future rested in the hands of themselves and their contemporaries, and ended with an appeal for the kind of devotion from her citizens that will make Canada an even greater nation than she is today.

Mr George Clow of the Summerside Council, responded to the toast to Our Order. In outlining some of the Order's claims to greatness, Mr Clow laid particular emphasis on the fact that it required of its members practical Catholicity, and, as a necessary consequence good citizenship and loyalty to country. These qualities were made particularly evident, he said, in the record of enlistment by the members of the Order and in the service rendered by the Knights of Columbus Huts for service men. But those claims to greatness, Mr. Clow concluded, justified as they were by past achievements, could continue to be made only if the record of the past were equalled or even surpassed by that of the future.

During the course of the evening, the guests were entertained by musical selections offered by Albert Blanchard and Alfred McKearney, a sing-song led by D.E. Noonan, a solo sung by Chester Donovan, and a recitation from Drummond by Cornelius Gaudet. A vote of thanks to the speakers was moved by Leonard Macdonald, Lecturer of the Council, seconded by Louis Butler, Council Advocate, and presented by the toastmaster, R.A. MacDonald. The banquet concluded with the singing of God Save the King.

SUMMERSIDE

That was more than the total of $667,000,000 raised from personal income taxes in the fiscal year, 1944-45.

If such a commitment was undertaken the Government could not carry out its undertaking to the Provinces to provide them with sufficient money from income taxes to carry on their services. Moreover, the people were looking for a reduction in taxes rather than increases. A reduction could be made while at the same time providing a social security system second to none.

"We cannot do that," he said, "if we put a burden of tax on our people which crushes all enterprise and initiative and prevents business from being carried on at a profit."

Canada also would have to carry on trade and meet world prices. That could not be done under excessive taxation.

Mr. MacInnis' estimate of the cost of his proposal was $780,000,000 a year but he said the cost should be computed in money only. All that was involved was the question of whether goods and services could be provided for people more than 60. The production of these people, if put to work, would make possible the necessary goods and services.

Says System Outmoded

Lt.-Col. David Croll (L-Toronto Spadina) in his maiden speech recalled his experience administering the old age pension act while a member of the Ontario Government. He was against the means test as opposed to the feature of the Dominion proposals to the Provinces which contemplated a means test on pensions at ages between 65 and 69. While a provincial minister he would have thrown the means test "out the window" had he had the power.

The present system was "unworthy of a country such as Canada and unworthy of this Government." The world now was on the fringe of the "rocket and atomic power age" and Canada's old age pension system fitted the "horse and buggy age."

"We should permit the young men to work and create and permit the old men to enjoy," he said.

The Government's proposals to the Provinces were "not only a step in the right direction, they are a hop, skip and jump." They represented part of a considered system and until they were dealt with other peacemeal solutions would be unwise.

"If we are going to deal with this and related problems in this Parliament we have to have the complete and exclusive right to income, corporation and inheritance taxes," said Mr. Croll. "Until such time as the Provinces free our hands in this respect we cannot write cheques for social security . . . We have to have the right to tax before we can have the right to spend."

Norman Lockhart (PC-Lincoln) said the Federal Government had found a way to pay family allowances without consulting the Provinces. He did not see why it could not do the same with old age pensions. If the means test was not abolished altogether it should be substantially modified and there should also be a material increase in the pension.

F. D. Shaw (SC-Red Deer) said the system needed a complete overhauling. There were thousands of worthy people who would not apply for pensions because they would not undergo the inquisition of the means test.

Speaking on his motion which called for the changes, Mr. MacInnis said Canada was the only important country where the eligible age for old age pensions was 70. In New Zealand and Australia the eligible age was 60.

In heavy industry most men could not continue to work beyond 60. In most businesses the retirement age was 65. Among Government employees there was a move afoot to have the retirement age reduced to 60.

He estimated there were 1,200,000 persons 60 and over in Canada now. To pay these a pension would cost about $720,000,000. This was a huge sum and it would have taken a brave man to suggest such expenditure prior to the war.

However, the country had shown during the war what it could do in the way of goods and services.

T.L. Church (PC-Toronto Broadview) said it was up to Parliament to look after the health, welfare and prosperity of the people.

Something should be done immediately for the aged people in the country.

He favored abolition of the means test. The present system was "nothing but charity" and "it was a disgrace" to a country which had spent so much on the war.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of
JOHN D. MACLEOD
who passed away October 4, 1944.

In a lonely churchyard sleeping
As the flowers gently wave.
Lies our Daddy we loved so dearly
In a cold and silent grave.

Oft and oft, our thoughts do wander
To that grave not far away
Where they laid our dearest Daddy
Just one year ago to-day.

No pen can write, no ink can tell
Our sad and bitter loss,
But Thou, oh God has helped us,
To bear our heavy Cross.

Sadly Missed but Lovingly Remembered by Wife and Daughter, Louise.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of
JOHN D. MACLEOD
who passed away October 4, 1944

If all the world were ours to give
We'd give it, yes and more
To clasp the hand of Father
And hear him speak once more.

If you have a Father
Treasure him with care
For you never know his value
Till you see his vacant chair.

Sadly Missed by His Daughter, Rowena.
