W. M. S. SERVICE AT MARSHFIELD—A special Missionary service under the auspices of the W. M. S. was held in Marshfield United Church on Sunday evening last, when a large congregation which completely filled the church enjoyed a varied and interesting program. Mrs. (Rev.) F. E. Boothroyd very capably presided. The special speaker for the evening was Mrs. (Rev.) W. A. Thompson whose address was listened to with rapt attention. A Japanese drill by six little girls was an interesting feature of the program, also "The story of a mite box," by three older girls. A pageant entitled "Mothers of the Bible" by 10 girls was exceptionally well rendered and very favorably commented on by the large audience. Miss Jessie Jenkins very effectively sang the solo parts. The offering amounted to $18.00.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE—On Sunday evening, Sept. 26th, the annual Thank offering service of the W. M. S. of the United Church at New London was held. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Ayers and the address was given by Miss Louise Callbeck of Gedeque at present on furlough from Japan. Miss Callbeck's story of her work among the children in the Kindergarten at Nagaro was listened to with deep interest by a large congregation. An appropriate anthem was rendered by the choir also a solo sweetly sung by Mr. J. B. Lewis and a duet by Messrs J. B. Lewis and Brewer Auld added greatly to the musical part of the service. The members of the W. M. S. are very grateful to the Messrs Lewis and Auld of Freetown for their valuable assistance and to Miss Callbeck for her splendid missionary address.

THE WINTER FAIR—All entry records for the Maritime Winter Fair will be eclipsed this year, according to the statement made by F. L. Fuller, secretary of the Maritime Stock Breeders' Association. Mr. Fuller, who opened the winter fair offices in Amherst on Tuesday, declares that more beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep and swine would be shown in Amherst from Oct. 29 until Thursday, Nov. 4, than in any previous year in the lengthy history of this agricultural exhibition. Several hundred head of beef cattle, including entries from such large exhibitors as Thomas Elter, Amherst; Charles Trenholm, Fort Lawrence; Harold Elter, Aulac; Horne Brps., Winslow, P. E. I.; Sanders and Sanderson, Charlottetown, P. E. I.; F. R. Taylor, Rothesay, N. B. have been received. The dairy cattle will represent the best breeding in the Dominion and will eclipse the entries exhibited here in 1925. Thefts of rare books have occurred at such an alarming rate in Paris that police are keeping an international eye on old book shops and auction rooms.

Corns Stop Aching, Quickly Dissolve Away
 The misery of a sore corn comes to an end quickly when you apply Putnam's Corn Extractor. This statement means just what it says, and you can easily prove it in your own case. Full directions are given in the package for the hot water treatment, and for applying a few drops of Putnam's to the spot that is sore. You won't be disappointed. Putnam's is not an experiment; it is a tested preparation that painlessly removes warts, corns, callouses and thickened foot lumps. Sold for 25 cents.

LADIES' WILL WELCOME
 the large display of TOILET ARTICLES, PERFUMES, etc., which we are now showing. Included in the leading lines are YARDLEYS, HUDNUTS, JONTEEL, CAPPI, CARA NOME, COLGATES, ROGER & GALLETT, PIVER, ARMANDS, POMPEIAN, HOBIGANT.

CARA NOME COMPACTS are more popular than ever. The watch shaped case owing to its size and shape makes a special appeal to users of dainty toilet accessories.

Knew Aimee In Shop Of Beauty Operator
 TORONTO, OCT. 15.—A hair-dresser who formerly worked in Hollywood and served Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson is in Toronto now.
 The lady of the tongue followed the McPherson case closely because she was anxious to see just how clever Aimee really was.
 "Then you do not think that she was persecuted?" asked The Star.
 "Oh, no," laughed the marceller. "If you know how clever she is you would not either. Of course, I don't know exactly what is going on down there now."
 "Oh!"
 "Yes," laughed the beauty expert. "I think you would be surprised if you knew her. She used to come into our shop almost daily. Of course we were never supposed to know who she was and could not say anything down there because she was a good customer. Whenever this large, blonde matron came in, she would ask: 'Does this operator know me?'"
 "But the operator never knew her, and afterwards the desk supervisor would call: 'Operator 60,' and whisper, 'Do you know who you have, it's Aimee.'"
 "The evangelist never gave us any confidence except that she disliked England and Canada. Most of the time, however, we were kept busy working on her."
 "When she wished to appear in public as the faith healer of Angelus Temple, she wore a modest little Quaker costume. Night after night she preached to thousands in Angelus Temple. When I came home in the evening, I would tell the others of my distinguished customer and we would gather around the radio to listen to Mrs. McPherson. Often she would tell her congregation that it was sinful to throw away money in beauty parlors, and that one could be beautiful by prayer alone."
 "Faith was also a valuable asset in reducing, but evidently it was a slow process for the evangelist frequented the mineral baths and patronized a Swedish massage."
 "Hundreds of people come to Mrs. McPherson to be healed and in her sermon she tells of the cures which are brought about by faith. The evangelist is less popular since she has attacked smoking, dancing, drinking and such amusements. She even tried to close the cafes."
 "When the faith healer was leaving on a trip to Rome her followers gathered around the train and covered the engine with flowers. As the train moved away four white doves of peace were let fly from the engine."
 "Of her private life little is known to the public, except what the evangelist wants to have known. She lives in a large and well appointed house and seems to appreciate good living for herself."

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Queen Marie of Rumania has already chosen 50 costumes for her American tour. They are all models especially adapted for her big collections, notably those of Patou and Redfern. Winter models in tones of chestnut, copper, dark brown and petunia red have been created to suit the Queen's luxurious, but restrained, taste, and her graceful and mature dignity.
 These deep autumn colorings are often enriched with gold and silver embroideries in plain geometrical designs. Queen Marie's clothes are distinguished by the beauty of their material and cut.
 For morning wear the Queen has extremely simple one-piece gowns to be worn under a fur coat, youthful and slim in outline. For afternoon she has more elaborate costumes in velvet all with long sleeves. The sleeveless afternoon models of one house have all been changed to suit this desire of Queen Marie. For evening the Queen has gorgeous brocades, black velvet, studded with diamond nail heads, and a red velvet with jeweled hands.
 The Queen's coats are simply trimmed with fur, two with her favorite blue fox. Her skirts are always longer than the models with plenty of fullness to allow easy walking.
 With almost all her costumes the Queen wears flesh-colored stockings. With grey costumes, however, she naturally wears grey stockings. The shoes are especially made by a well-known boot-maker here, mostly in tones of reddish brown to match her street costumes. The costume which the Queen is expected to wear on ship-board on her arrival in New York has a beige broadcloth coat richly trimmed with brown castor, the fur forming a panel down the front and cut into two triangular pieces to form pockets. There is a narrow belt at the sides. With this coat go two dresses, one of beige crepe de chine and one of woollen material.
 These airplanes include American, English, French and German ships, arm trophies of aerial battles in France. Their war paint—battleship gray with red, white and blue markings superimposed, and the crazy-quit patterns of camouflage—is faded now, and the huge iron crosses painted on the German planes are dim.
 The engines have been removed from most of them and the parts saved.
 "Rubberneck" tours to department stores have been arranged that women might see Paris gowns and furs as they do the Phæton and Notre Dame, "all in half a day, with no frills."

Airplane For Sale Cheap—By The Pound
 DAYTON, O., Oct. 15.—When Uncle Sam moves the engineering division of the Army Air Corps now at McCook field, to the new Wright field, he is going to sell a lot of airplanes, cheap. But they will sell by the pound of wood or metal to the junkman.
 On the "dump" at the salvage depot there are upwards of 20 discarded ships, and the number probably will be swelled to 30

To You who haven't tried it—

- WE are so confident that Imperial Ethyl Gasoline will bring a noticeable operating improvement in any car, that we ask you to make three simple tests of this new and different "cold weather" gasoline.
- 1. Starting Test—Make your starting test difficult—preferably in the morning. Note the quicker start—even after a night in a cold garage.
 - 2. Power Test on Hills—Tackle the steepest hill you know. Go all the way up in high gear. Try to make your engine knock!
 - 3. Power Test in Traffic—Throttle down to a "crawl." Then feed the gas with a rush. Note the "pick-up" you get.

Compare the results of the above tests with the results you've had with any other gasoline. And keep in mind that the exceptional quick-starting ability and knockless power properties of Imperial Ethyl have been obtained without any sacrifice of mileage. This you can also prove by your own mileage check.
 There's only one way to find out how good this new gasoline is. Try a tank-full of Imperial Ethyl. It costs 4 cents a gallon more, but you'll say it's worth it.
