Educationist Drowned in Ottawa River

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP)—The body of Murdoch C. MacLean, 60, well-known educationist and member of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics education branch, was found today in the Ottawa River at Britannia, nine miles west of here.

Meanwhile, police continued search of the Rideau River at suburban Strathcona, looking for the body of a 21-year-old farm worker, believed to be Ubal Roy of Cyrville, Ont., missing since yesterday when he went swimming.

MacLean, a native of Inverness, N. S., had been on the Ottawa River when he and his family went on a picnic. Death was found from drowning and his body was found in two feet of water under a board walk at Britannia.

Educated at Halifax County Academy, Dalhousie University and at Harvard University, he had been with the Bureau's education branch since 1919 and earlier was associated with several schools in western Canada. He was principal of the Vegreville, Alta., school and later a teacher at Dauphin, Man., to Moose Jaw, Sask., Collegiate Institute and from 1914 until his appointment to the bureau was operator of a vocational school in Winnipeg.

Author of educational subjects, he wrote an "Annual Survey of Educational Statistics" and a monograph "Illiteracy and School Attendance in Canada." He also wrote articles on unemployment. He was a member of the Royal Statistical Society.

Besides his widow, survivors include a brother, A. C. MacLean of North Annapolis, N. S., and a sister, Mrs. J. Wambolt, of Kentville, N.S.

Solosons for recovery from wounds General McNaughton carried on at the front until October, 1918 when he became general officer commanding the Canadian Comps Heavy Artillery.

For this fight against Germany he helped to organize and train the 1st Division and took it overseas last winter, arriving in England during the Christmas holiday.

convoy off the southeast coast, one Saturday, one Sunday, while R.A.F. bombers unloaded tons of explosives over enemy territory.

About 40 German dive bombers as well as a number of scout planes were engaged in Sunday's series of thrilling dogfights off the southeast coast.

R.A.F. fighters swarmed up to the scene and shot down 15 of the enemy's fighters. The R.A.F. accounted for four enemy craft itself.

The R.A.F. in their counter-attack on Germany Saturday night paying off the German raid that day on British ports and ships, blasted 14 German airdromes and other enemy continental objectives.

An air ministry statement which named targets all over Germany and the Netherlands told of bombing the 14 airdromes, splintering the docks and harbor facilities, and pounding aircraft factories, oil refineries, supply factories and distribution centres.

The ministry said a survey showed that the R.A.F. had shot down one of British bombers, one of the German defence plane brought down, one of the German fighters shot down, the Nazi attacks Sunday, and three of the German fighters shot down on Saturday.

In addition to the six German planes downed Sunday, one was shot down attempting to stop raids into Germany and 12 Nazi raiders were wrecked and other German planes shot down Saturday.

The British announcement listed German aircraft factories at Bremen and Delshausen; docks at Hamburg, Bremen, Emden and Wilhelmshaven; oil refineries at Hamburg and Mosheim; supply factories at Grevenbroch, Gelsenkirchen and Hamburg; goods yards at Hamm, Osnabruck and Soest.

Fourteen airdromes in Germany and the Netherlands.

Separate squadrons bombed ammunition dumps at Harlingen on the Netherlands coast, and large concentrations of barges near Bruges, just inland from the Belgian coast.

British fliers have been on the lookout for such concentrations of barges which might be used to ferry German troops across the English Channel for invasion.

The Air Ministry said direct bomb attacks today continued in an effort to bring down the German ground crews tried to spot their attackers.

Many Explosions

The Air Ministry credited a Lockheed bomber with a bombing raid which caused an explosion at Harlingen.

One German attack on a British coastal town near Harlingen, the town of Harlingen, was reported by the coast watch on Friday.

Ten dive bombers screamed down at the ships today, and a searchlight through a screen of heavy anti-aircraft fire from warships of the coast.

British fighter planes were on the scene within a few minutes, engaging the big bombers in dogfights that drew them to the coast.

One bomber spiraled down into the water, and another with the pilot parachuting into the water.

All goes to show that the war will be long and hard. No one can tell where it will spread. One thing is certain: the peoples of Europe will fight the day long for the Nazi Gestapo and Hitler's world yield itself to Hitler's gospel of hatred, appetite and domination.

And now it has come to us. We must stand up to the breach, and face the worst that is to befall us. We must stand up to the breach, and face the worst that is to befall us. We must stand up to the breach, and face the worst that is to befall us.

he said, are a resolute people and a united, determined government that is "prepared to proceed to all extremities, to endure them and to enforce them."

"Should the invader come to Britain," the Prime Minister declared, "there will be no placid lying down of the people, no submission before us as we have seen, alas, in other countries."

Shall Defend Every Foot

"We shall defend every village, every town, every city. The vast mass of London, could easily be devoted to a last stand, and would rather see London laid in ashes and ruins than that it should be tamely and abjectly enslaved."

The Prime Minister, who spoke to the House of Commons on Saturday, Day, announced that as long as the remaining French warships made no attempt to return to ports controlled by Germany, Britain would not molest them.

Referring to relations with France he said: "So long as our pathway to victory is not impeded, we are ready to discharge such offices of goodwill towards the French government as may be possible."

Mr. Churchill declared that Britain will not fight the French fleet out of action because that fleet in Hitler's hands would be "endangered the security of Great Britain and the United States."

"We are fighting by ourselves alone but we are not fighting for ourselves alone," the Prime Minister said.

In drawing the teeth of the French navy, he said, "our painful task is to keep the French fleet in a Moroccan harbor and there are a number of French warships at all over the world, these are not in a condition, or of a character, to derange our preponderance of naval power."

Canada's Militia Due For Largest Expansion In History

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP)—Canada's militia organization is due for the largest expansion in its history. The task of training hundreds of thousands of men, women, draftees, has been entrusted to it.

This means that all the units of the non-permanent active militia, now authorized to recruit to full strength, even if they are not mobilized into the Canadian Active Service Force, will have a number of different battalions each.

Some units have already been authorized to recruit second battalions. Before the mobilization plan is in operation many months more active units will probably have third and fourth battalions as well as time goes on some may have many more.

Thus units which in peacetime consisted of a few hundred officers and men and whose war strength under 1,000 will grow to the proportions of a brigade and ultimately, perhaps, to the proportions of a division.

All across Canada the response to the appeal for men as volunteers sent out last week by Defence Minister Ralston and Air Minister Power has been generous.

40,000 Men Wanted

Immediate requirements, according to the two war ministers, are 40,000 men for the Canadian Active Service Force, full time soldiers ready to serve anywhere, and roughly 75,000 men for the militia, part-time soldiers, ready to undertake training while carrying on their civilian occupations and to serve anywhere in Canada in case of need.

But the government's military program contemplates teaching every able-bodied man and woman of the age of 18 and 45 the rudiments of soldiering, at least. Well over 2,000,000 men fall within those age limits. Many of course, are not physically fit and many of those who are fit are already in the army and working at some essential employment from which they cannot be spared.

Even if half of the 2,000,000 potential soldiers in that class are to get training, a big expansion in Canadian training facilities and military activity all across the country is involved.

The program for the present accordingly divides itself into the training and maintenance of the C.A.S.F. at home and overseas and the recruiting and training of the militia at home. The C.A.S.F. training involves advanced instruction for all types of units and in all types of arms and services.

The 40,000 men now being enrolled will bring that force up to about 150,000. Some of these will go into reinforcement depots to prepare to replace units on the front one reason or another including battle casualties, may be struck off the strength of the units now serving in the United Kingdom, at home and in the Canadian theatre.

Enlarged camp accommodation is being arranged for the first of August and the intention is to keep the accommodation filled with militia men and keep the training staffs assigned to the camps busy until the snow flies.

Will Extend Recognition To Czech Committee

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP)—Aug. 14 has been fixed as the date when the organization for the Czechoslovak National Registration will be completed. Mr. Justice T. C. Davis, joint deputy to Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of National Defence, announced tonight. Exact day on which the four-day registration will begin will not be decided until the organization is completed.

Nominations of registrars and deputy registrars for all but 30 of the 243 constituencies in Canada had been received from members of Parliament when the offices closed Saturday.

"We expect to be in a position to announce the names of the registrars and assistant registrars for Canada early this week," Mr. Justice Davis said. "We are delighted with the type of men the members have selected to be registrars. The entire country is responding magnificently to the call."

The registrar and assistant in each riding as soon as appointed will select a deputy registrar and assistant for each polling sub-division. There are more than 35,000 such sub-divisions in Canada. It is hoped all these will be named and the offices where registration offices will be located will be decided upon by August 1st.

Volunteers will be asked to see that every man and woman above 18 years of age is registered and is informed of the registration and that it is compulsory and the penalties for failing to register. They will also provide a list of persons who for one cause or another need help to get to the registration office.

Exact form of the 18 questions which each person will be asked still is under consideration, but likely will be tabled in the House of Commons next week. The organization will be under the immediate supervision of Jules Castonguay as chief registrar, who for some years has been in charge of the conduct of dominion elections.

Three committees are working with the officials of the chief electoral office to second many of the statisticians from the Bureau of Statistics and a third of justice department officials fixing the legal procedures for the registration. Mr. Gardiner conferred Saturday with Miss Margaret Hyndman and Senator Power, the heads of the National Committee for Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women.

Through these women the organization tented its services in connection with the voluntary registration and the minister accepted the offer. He asked this organization to render every assistance to the registrars and deputy registrars throughout Canada.

The organization through a registration which it has already taken a voluntary registration could be an infinite amount of valuable information with respect to women who are prepared to volunteer their services in aid of the nation.

Mr. Gardiner stated that he considered it would be most helpful if the voluntary registration could be completed for those parts of Canada not yet covered. The organization agreed to proceed with their organization throughout Canada. Meanwhile the voluntary registration of Canadian women will go on in the hope that the additional valuable information which their cards provide will be available should the necessities of war require it.

TOUGH WORK

PERTH, Australia—(CP)—Music is a job for men, Prof. George Schnevoigt, Finnish conductor visiting here told reporters. He holds to the idea that a "woman's place is in the home."

Mr. Churchill, by inference, denounced anyone who would spread talk of defeatism or disunion.

pronounced the man dead. A Jury was sworn in and the hearing adjourned until this evening at 8 o'clock in Frank Hennessey's Funeral Home.

Police said they were unable to question Mrs. Doucette because of her length because of her condition. She told them, they said, that her husband and Isidore Doucette came home together about 4 o'clock. Her husband began to abuse her and Isidore interfered. Jeremiah then struck him on the breast with something.

She ran from the house and her husband followed her, catching her across the street. He struck her several times, she said.

Sgt. Higgins and Constable Dowling arrested Jeremiah Doucette at 5.45 a. m. He was at the home of his grandmother in Gaysway on the outskirts of the city.

Police said that despite a careful search they had been unable to find any weapon which might have inflicted the wounds on the man and woman.

Mrs. Doucette had three wounds in her back and one on her arm, they said.

Members of the coroner's jury include: Messrs. Elwood Burdick, foreman, John McEure, Percy McInnis, Sutherland Henderson, W. Under, Peter Small and Gordon Morris.

The jury was sworn in and viewed the body before it was moved from the gangway where it was lying.

Police said they had been informed by hospital authorities that Mrs. Doucette had a good chance of recovery.

The deceased, Mr. Isidore Doucette, was caretaker at the Eastern Trust Company for the past several years and was regarded by his employers as a highly efficient and satisfactory worker. During the past three summers he worked as foreman painter for the McEure Brothers, and in the winter months looked after a group of houses for Mr. C. N. Bisset, Lt. Colonel Paul, Dr. MacKenzie and Judge Palmer. He leaves a wife and two children, Jeremiah Doucette is the father of three children.

N. B. Pilot Killed in Action

SPRINGFIELD, N.S., July 14—(CP)—Dr. and Mrs. B. J. Heston were informed by the British Air Ministry Saturday that their son, Pilot Officer Dundas Alexander Hewitt, of the Royal Air Force, had been killed in action.

Only last Monday the parents received a letter from their son, saying he was "getting along fine in my job." On his first flight in France, about two months ago, he shot down a German bomber and helped to wreck another. He and other members of the same squadron bagged ten planes on that occasion. Once Hewitt had "baited out," but his parachute brought him safely to ground.

Born at Toronto in 1919, Hewitt capt. of Saint John a boy when his father became superintendent of the Saint John General Hospital. He graduated from Rotneau Collegiate school in 1937, and in the fall of that year went to London to study at the College of Aeronautical Engineering. At the outbreak of war he was called for service with the R.A.F.

Macdonald Gets Down To Work

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP)—Naval Minister Macdonald lost little time in getting down to work.

The former premier of Nova Scotia, who was sworn in as Minister for Naval Affairs shortly after his arrival here Friday night, was in his office all day yesterday and part of the evening.

He conferred at length with Rear Admiral P. W. Nelles, chief of the naval staff.

Mr. Macdonald, interviewed by newspapermen yesterday, said he was resolved "to do the best job I can" in his new department, created by legislation at the current parliamentary session.
