Growing Tourist Trade to South

MONTREAL, Que., 10—The largest quota of cruise passengers ever to sail on a "Lady" liner from Montreal will leave port tonight with the departure of the Lady Rodney Canadian National Steamships. On this voyage she will carry 60 per cent of her passengers on a round trip cruise to Jamaica, via Bermuda and the Bahama Islands among whom will be a party of teachers organized and conducted by Principal Muir of the Lansdowne School, under the auspices of W. H. Henry Limited, Tourist Agents. So great was the demand for accommodation on this sailing on the "Lady Rodney" that many travellers have had to await the sailing of her sister ship the "Lady Somers" departing from here July 24th, or the following sailing on August 7th, for a trip to the Caribbean Sea. The "Lady Rodney" will also carry a good cargo of various Canadian commodities and manufactured goods to the southern ports.

Lamb Eating To Be Increased

As a result of drought conditions in the United States there is now a real shortage of beef and pork. The rapid diminution of supplies of cattle and hogs at all leading United States stock yards indicates that our good neighbours in the south will be forced to readjust their meat eating to include a larger proportion of lamb.

In Canada the situation is likely to follow along somewhat similar lines. Already as a result of the rapid rise in the price of beef across Canada and the firm condition of the hog market due to heavy exports of bacon to Great Britain and lower hog delireries as compared with a year ago, the position in regard to the consumption of lamb is becoming increasingly favourable.

Lamb in both Canada and the United States is, at the moment, a bargain counter meat. In the United States sheep flocks have with stood drought conditions much better than other live stock while in Canada, as a result of a definite and constructive sheep policy, lamb in Canada has been greatly improved and is available the year round as early spring lamb, as grass-fat lamb or as finished feedlot lamb.

ARMY HEAD COMES ATHLETIC FOR 69

TORONTO, July 11 — General Evangeline Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, who is expected in Canada in October, will be 70 years old next Christmas.

Miss Booth, a daughter of the founder of the Army, has just completed a world tour during which she travelled 30,500 miles and addressed 185,000 people. Once, during her journey, there were 1,000 letters awaiting her reply, and it was her custom to sign documents by the hundred before breakfast in the course of her exacting campaign.

Horseback riding and swimming are this remarkable woman's favorite recreations. When she is at home she enjoys a morning gallop. She is an expert swimmer and indulges in high diving. In the summer of 1933 she almost lost her life in diving. Some coils of fence wire had been borne by currents to where she was swimming, and in taking a dive she became entangled in the wire. Her secretary rescued her, bearing her unconscious to the shore.

ROBERTA SEMPLE SAYS "HILL-BILLY STORY IS RUBBISH"

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 11—Wavering between carrying out her planned stay among Arkansas mountain folk and an asserted inclination to "call the whole thing off," Roberta Semple sighed today for the obscurity enjoyed by less-publicized families.

The youthful blond daughter of Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson said advance reports that she would head into Ozark fastnesses astride a horse and "go hill-billy" in a big way were "rubbish."

Smartly dressed, Miss Semple described her program as calling for a quiet merging into some mountain community "to obtain an accurate picture of the fine wholesomeness of the lives, with their joys and sorrows, of the people of the Ozarks."

She said she wanted the matter for sketches about mountain folk, which she planned to write.

LADY POWELL AND THE LOCAL GUIDERS

Miss Mona Wilson, Provincial Commissioner, Has Received the Following Letter From Lady Baden-Powell.

Miss Mona Wilson, Provincial Commissioner of Girl Guides, has received the following letter from Lady Baden-Powell:

Lincoln (Near Boston)
Mass, U.S.A.
July 7, 1935.

Dear Miss Wilson:

I must write, without delay, to offer to you, and through you to all Guides, Guiders and Guide workers in your Province, my very sincere thanks for the kindly welcome that you have all given to me in your midst.

I want you all to know how very truly I have enjoyed being with you for this delightful little visit and I have been much touched by your generous reception of me.

I was very pleased to find so many who are "playing the Guide game" now in Prince Edward Island, and the results of all your efforts were apparent at the Rally.

May I offer to you, and to all specially concerned with the Rally arrangements, my warm congratulations on the success of this, your first big gathering. It was unfortunate in some ways that the sun was so hot just that afternoon, so that it made the Guides flag somewhat, and it must have been trying for those in charge to have the "heat problem" to contend with. On the other hand, the sunshine made the whole scene very delightful to look at, and the day will be remembered as a sunny day in more ways than one! I hope that by coming together in their numbers in that way all those Guides will have gained a new interest in their work, they will have caught a fresh wave of enthusiasm in realizing that they are all part of a big thing, and they will also, through having seen those displays, gained new ideas and interest which should help them on to work harder and to take up more and yet more activities as time goes on.

I would like very specially to congratulate those Guides who carried out the displays so well. And when I say "Guides" of course I mean the Brownies as well. The Marching was extremely well done, and spoke volumes for the care of the trainer and the energy, discipline, and alert attention of those who took part. I have sometimes heard the question asked by "outside people" as to why Guides should ever do any marching about. Though marching is not altogether an outstanding item in the programme of Guide training it has a very big value in giving alertness, good carriage, a sense of rhythm, balance, poise, and a feeling of self confidence as well as it being a good thing for team work, where each "plays in her place" for the good effect of the whole show. I was glad therefore that your Guides carried out their well done spectacular show so successfully. Then, over and above the display, the others were good in their own way. It is difficult of course to make a bed in spectacular fashion for interesting on-lookers! At an indoor function this is easier, and can be done effectively and attractively and it is most useful in showing that the Guides are thus learning practical home-craft. So though that item in last Friday's programme may not have got the applause it deserved I am very glad that it was included. The Union Jack display has its own value too, and is a very convenient one for Rallies, and it was a good thing having that done. As regards the Rope Knotting display. This again roused considerable interest, and I had never before seen a knotted rope being used as a "tug of war" rope! I am afraid it was not quite made clear to the audience what all the different knots were meant for and the value of the display may have missed attracting the attention it merited. But it is a good thing that your Guides are taking up the hobby of knot-tying as it has its special uses like ALL our activities. It does need careful practise, all of which engenders the care and accuracy which is such a valuable asset in the make up of a child or person! When you can explain to your Guides that by tying a knot in the right way they be the means of saving (or LOSING) a person's life (if by chance they are mixed up in any accident in the water), it makes them realize that attention to detail and utmost skill and care is wanted in this handicraft JUST AS MUCH AS IN ANY OTHERS, and so that in this direction your knotting training in your Companies is of value in its own way.

It was very nice to find that your Guides are keen and are enjoying all their activities, and I hope that they will progress happily and go from strength and strength in quality and quantity.

May I, through you, thank your Committee for their friendly welcome, and say also how much I hope the Movement may grow now in Prince Edward Island.

I shall watch your progress with such special interest now that we have all met one another, and I offer my cordial congratulations on what has already been done, coupled with my wishes also for all success in the future.

Yours very sincerely,
(Signed) Olave Baden-Powell,
Chief Guide.

Evangelistic Lecture At The Forum

"The End of the World from the Standpoint of Reason" was the subject of the address delivered by Evangelist F. W. Johnston of the Prophetic Conference now being held in the Forum. He raised the question whether it is reasonable or not to expect the end of the world in the present generation? Mr. Johnston thought it was reasonable and in a very logical manner traced out the history in brief of other nations mentioned in prophecy with whom the Almighty dealt with in the past because of their wickedness. He referred to the Antedeluvian period when God through Noah warned the world of the oncoming flood should they not repent, and sent it when they persisted in iniquity. He also spoke of the period when Sodom and Gomorrah were destroyed because of the prevailing wickedness of those cities. Now said Mr. Johnston if the Lord destroyed the people of those times because of certain wickedness of which they would not repent, does not reason, he said, demand that the world be destroyed in these latter days in order for God to be just to Sodom and Gomorrah and the people before the flood? The logic is irresistable so the evangelist said.

Furthermore Mr. Johnston said that even in modern times the Almighty has been visiting his judgments upon certain localities because of certan iniquitous practices. He referred to the time when Martinique in 1902 was buried beneath the burning lava of Mount Pelee, he read how that on the Good Friday immediately preceding the disaster the people crucified a masqueraded pig in ridicule of the Saviour's crucifixion. There seems to have been good reason for describing this city and Island as the wickedest spot in all the West Indies. He also spoke of the disaster that befell Messina and Reggio only a few hours after they had dated the Almighty to make himself known by an earthquake. the earthquake came. This daring challenge to God was issued he said by the journal "Il Telefono" printed in Messina and published in its Christmas Number in the form of an abominable parody on the Almighty. No wonder the earthquake came he said. He referred to the earthquake that devasted San Francisco some years ago as being preceded by wickedness of the worst character when the supposedly best class of society had given themselves over to all kinds of lust and vice. Mr. Johnston referred to other nations of the past upon whom certain judgments had fallen and so he was of the opinion that the many calamities of the twentieth century were not accidental but providential. According to scripture he said reading from Isaiah 26:9 "When God's judgments are in the earth the people of the world will learn righteousness" The local calamities are but foretastes he said of the universal cataclysm that is about to envelop the whole world.

He closed by saying that the scripture also stated that Christ would come in this age to put an end of the present reign of sin and to usher in the reign of righteousness. He urged his audience to accept of Christ as the only remedy for all the ills of Christendom.

JOHN S. NELSON PAID LAST RITES

(Nelson Daily News, June 30)

Final tribute was tendered John S. Nelson, 85, who passed away at the Trail-Tadanac hospital, Trail, B.C., Thursday evening, by a host of friends and acquaintances Saturday afternoon when the funeral services were conducted.

Mr. Nelson was the father of O. H. Nelson, master carpenter for the C.M. and S. company, Tadanac, and a splendid representation of the carpenter and paint shops was in attendance as well as a number of officials of the general offices. A long line of cars conveyed the many attendants to the graveside and floral tributes were profuse.

Pallbearers were: Daves Longmuir, H. L. Smith, James Young, John Currie, Donald MacDonald and L. G. Johns.

Rev. Dr. M. W. Lees officiated at the church service and at the graveside.

Mr. Nelson had resided with his son on Government road, Tadanac, since his retirement from active farming in his native province of Prince Edward Island 12 years ago.

Born at Hampton, P.E.I., August 20, 1850, he was educated there and entered upon his career as a farmer early in life. He remained in his native province until well past maturity but, finally seized with the lure of the west, came to Saskatchewan where he carried on farming operations for some years. He returned, however, to Prince Edward Island, to continue his life work until his retirement 12 years ago when he came to Trail to make his home with his son, O. H. Nelson.

Mr. Nelson was married in Charlottetown, P.E.I., in 1885, to Catherine Nicholson of Commercial Cross, P.E.I., but was predeceased by his wife in 1895. He is survived by two sons, Elmer Nelson of Vancouver B.C., O. H. Nelson of Trail; and three grandchildren, Catherine, Ruby and James, in Trail, as well as by five sisters who are residents of Prince Edward Island. He was predeceased by a daughter, Esther, who died in 1906 and by three brothers and a sister.

Mr. Nelson retained his good health until last month when he was taken down by illness. He made a fair recovery from that illness and was only seriously stricken a few days ago. His condition necessitated his removal to the Trail-Tadanac hospital on Wednesday.

UNEMPLOYED IN BATTLE WITH POLICE

2,000 Marchers Converge On Place Viger Square, But Are Dispersed By Police After Struggle.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

MONTREAL, July 10—Montreal Police charged a crowd of 2,000 unemployed gathered on Place Viger Square here yesterday to discuss plans for a march on Ottawa, wielded batons and fists freely and broke up the meeting after arresting the speaker. A short time later two other men were arrested in the vicinity.

Joseph Orius Bedard, 26, who police claimed was addressing the crowd from a Park bench, was arrested and charged with damaging park property and holding a public meeting in a city park. The other men arrested gave their names as Tony Komariski, 37, and Albert Picard, 24 both of Montreal. No one was seriously hurt.

A loaded .32-calibre revolver was found in the home of Komariski with 125 rounds of cartridges. Police said he had entered Canada illegally five years ago and they will ask his deportation. Picard was arrested for allegedly selling tags in aid of the hunger marchers.

Every available city policeman was pressed into duty by Director Fernand Dufresne in expectation of trouble and large squads of Provincial police and Royal Canadian Mounted Police were ready to cooperate. Police from the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway and from various surburban municipalities were asked to give aid if needed but their help was not required.

Word was received prior to the meeting that the men intended visiting City Hall to interview Mayor Camillien Houde and officers were placed to duty outside the building to check any such attempts.

The original meeting was scheduled for Champs De Mars but the men apparently changed plans at the last moment to Place Viger Square, where only a handful of police was stationed.

Word that about 2,000 marchers were converging on the Square sent a squad of 300 constables rushing from headquarters on police cars and motorcycles.

Traffic along Craig Street and St. Denis Street and St. Lawrence Boulevard was paralyzed for 20 minutes as police cars parked in the street. The police formed cordons anid closed in on the 2,000 demonstrators.

Surrounded, the men turned and rushed the police, who swung their batons when efforts to disperse the crowd peacefully failed. Sticks and stones were hurled by the men and a number of policemen received bruises. Order was quickly restored and the crowd dispersed. A detachment of 100 policemen was left on duty on the Square.

Police said they were searching for four women believed to have been leaders in the trouble. According to present plans, several thousand unemployed will leave Montreal near the end of the week for the march to Ottawa.

PROFESSOR PERFECTS PLAN TO GET GOLD FROM SEA WATER

NEW YORK, July 11—Prof. Colin G. Fink of Columbia University announced today that he has perfected a means of obtaining gold from sea water and believes it will tap the 10,000,000 tons of gold in solution in the seven seas.

At present the operation costs more than the amount of gold obtained is worth, but Fink said his researches convinced him the day will soon come when powerful recovery plants located where power is cheap will solve his last problem.

"I told that to several hundred scientists at a convention recently," he said, "and no one said I was crazy."

The method Fink developed makes use of electrolysis, which in other suggested methods failed. Fink's discovery was that an alkaline film prevented gold particles from adhering to a cathode. Now he whirls the cathode rapidly and achieves success.

DANES BANQUET IN HOME STYLE

LONDON, July 11—Sixteen hundred Danish people sat down to a supper of 200 Danish hors d'oeuvres given by a Danish millionaire recently. Einar Dessau was host at the supper of the Anglo-Danish Society at Grosvenor House.

Danish food was brought from Denmark by airplane, guarded by two famous chefs from the most famous restaurant in Copenhagen. In Denmark the list of hors d'oeuvres in any first-class restaurant is nearly two yards long. So the colors of the rainbow appeared before the guests. Grey fish with tails in their mouths, white fish laid flat; red strips of salted meat, sprinkled with pepper; green ovals of stuffed olives, piles of green salad, with a blue mist of Danish dressing all appeared.

"Laddie" At Prince Edward Under Tennis Club Auspices

So exquisite is the romance in "Laddie," so realistic its swift drama that it becomes a tense, yet wholesomely beautiful photoplay which opened yesterday at the Prince Edward Theatre, under the auspices of the Charlottetown Tennis Club.

Alternately tender and taut, with deft humor interwoven, "Laddie" is said to be a magnificent reproduction of the spirit of its original, the Gene Stratton-Porter novel, which is said to have 40,000,000 readers in the world today.

The story is simple, and yet complex. It centres its teeming drama of social conflict about a youth of the Indiana farming country, into whose life has ocme the "Princess," the most beautiful woman of the territory, who dresses in the latest London fashions, and with the background of age-old traditions of blood and aristocracy. With her is her father, fleeing his native land, a nobleman in disgrace.

It's a gallant struggle of the youth that ensues his falling in love. He finds his love is returned; the sweethearts have their trysts in the woods. Out of the secret rendezvous meetings evolves the stir of bitter opposition, until the world seems to whirl about these young people and it seems to be a case of their love against this world about them. They crash through to victory, but not until an astoundingly glorious drama has been enacted upon the screen.

John Beal, the most talked of young star of Hollywood, steps into new brilliance with his performance in this film. He is the hero of the romance, and the battle that turns defeat into the conqueror's victory at the finish. Gloria Stuart is the heroine,and her characterization is acclaimed as her best ever on the screen.

Faith is Basis Of Family Life Mrs. Lyons Says

TORONTO, July 11—Mother of 11 children in their teens or younger and one time labor candidate for parliamentary election, Mrs. Enid Burnell Lyons is taking time off in a busy home life, to visit the United Kingdom and Canada with her husband, Prime Minister J. A. Lyons of Australia.

Arriving in New York July 6 Mr. and Mrs. Lyons were due in Ottawa July 10 and in Toronto July 12. After a day or two at Niagara Falls they will leave for the west, being booked to sail from Vanrouver for Australia on the liner Niagara July 17.

Born in Tasmania, the island state of the Australian Commonwealth, Mrs. Lyons early in life showed zeal for public service. In the election of 1925 she was Labor candidate in her home city of Hobart and missed the seat by 60 votes. In elections generally she is declared to be Mr. Lyons' "right hand."

One of Mrs. Lyons' attainments is music. When the family lived in the Tasmanian capital she was organist and choir leader in the Roman Catholic church of Newtown. "I wonder," she said to an interviewer in London recently, "how anyone can bring up a family without religion. If faith is not the basis of family life, there is no ultimate authority to which to appeal."

Mrs. Lyons spoke of her first impression of London as "the marvellous blend of age and progress." In the English Sussex and Surrey the soft gentle awakening of Spring thrilled her. "But," she said, "I think it a pity that the lovely countryside should be spoiled by the many new houses being built, exactly the same, like peas in a pod. Why not build individual homes and thus relieve the monotony?"

Regarding dress Mrs. Lyons admits she loves pretty clothes. "I would not, however, recommend myself as a model," she went on. "My other interests are so numerous I cannot give much thought to dress and perforce must put myself in the dresemaker's hands. As a relaxation though, I am fond of sewing."

Described as a bright and convincing speaker with a sense of humor, Mrs. Lyons is much in demand on the committees of organizations with which she is connected, especially those dealing with the welfare of the child.

QUEBEC ACTIVE WITH HOMESPUN

MURRAY BAY, Que., July 11 — Spinning wheels and hand looms in this district are kept busy as the housewives try to fill demands of the fashionable world for homespun fabrics.

For years Murray Bay has been famous as the home of homespun. Its fine, soft blankets and candlewick spreads have been carried away by tourists to far parts of Canada, the United States and Europe. This year there are still the blankets, spreads and hooked rugs, but the rage is for homespun fabrics, from which suits and skirts, sport jackets and coats are being made.

Much of the charm of the new fabrics is in their natural coloring and weave. Colors are from natural vegetable dyes, the habitant women making the fabrics from beginning to end.

Though women are doing most of the buying of habitant homespuns, men also are using them for sports wear.

RECALLS YOUTH OF TWEEDSMUIR

WINNIPEG, July 11—Robert Stewart Brown, who lives in the bush country, 160 miles north of this city is a young Scotsman who is a second cousin of Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General designate of Canada. They used to meet nearly 30 years ago at Mr. Brown's grandmother's house.

In those days, not even the doting grandmother ever dreamed that one day John Buchan would be created a baron and sent to Canada as the representative of His Majesty.

"Everybody called him Johnnie and he used to overawe all of us younger relatives with his city manners and display of learning," said Mr. Brown to a Free Press interviewer. "Even in those days he was wise beyond his years. He moved in an entirely different sphere from the rest of us country cousins and was looked up to because of his fine ways and superior education.

"Johnnie always was a good steady lad, and being a baron won't spoil him in the least. He was always a democratic type of man, and after all, a handle doesn't mean much in Canada. He'll get on all right out here," predicted Mr. Brown.

Although only a recent arrival to the Bayton district, Mr. Brown is well known through the district. Apparently no one but his wife ever calls him anything else but "Scotty" for the Governor-General's younger relative is as typical a Scot as ever joined with two of his countrymen in a strange country to form a St. Andrew's society.

Edmund Lowe In "Mr. Dynamite" At Capitol

One of the most thrilling murder mystery stories of the year opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre, with the showing of Universal's "Mr. Dynamite," starring Edmund Lowe.

The story, by Dashiell Hammett, who will be remembered for his "Thin Man," offers a most neatly constructed plot, involving no less than three murders, and at no time is there a lapse in audience interest.

Lowe plays the role of "Dynamite," a reckless, black sheep detective who is given a police escort out of every town he enters. He is called in by private interests to solve the mysterious murder of a young boy who is shot down as he is leaving the grounds of the Casino, gambling resort.

While Lowe endeavors to pick up the threads of a clue around this murder, two more murders take place, to which police refuse to give him access. How Lowe eventually gets around these difficulties and solves all three mysteries, makes one of the most absorbing pictures seen in a long, long time.

Lowe is excellent in a role made to order for him, while Jean Dixon, as his wise-cracking secretary, does nobly by herself and the part. Miss Dixon is a product of the stage who bids fair to increase her popularity on the screen. Others who distinguish themselves in the cast are Verna Hillie, a little blonde newcomer who shows plenty of talent and personality; Victor Varconi, Esther Ralston and Robert Gleckler.
