HOME ON VACATION — Miss Evelyn Sheidow, R. N., Night Super- visor of the Milton Hospital, Mass., arrived in Charlottetown Wednesday evening en route to her home in Milview to spend a vaca- tion with her mother, Mrs. and Mrs. Norman Sheidow. Accompanying her were Mr. and Mrs. William Ridaway and Mrs. Elizabeth Vick- erson of Milton, Mass., who will spend the summer months with her brother, Mr. Emmerson Sheidow, also of Milview.

PROMINENT PIANIST — Miss Laura Walker, pianiste, of Mont- real, a guest at Stanhope Beach Inn, studied with Leopold Godow- sky, famous pianist teacher of Ber- lin, Vienna and Belgium, and gave concerts in Montreal, Ottawa. In the latter city she played at Rideau Hall, Government House. While teaching in Montreal she had five assistant teachers. Miss Walker is enjoying her stay at Stanhope, and is much enthused about the Island.

At present about fifty-two Scouts of all denominations are under canvas. Who is their Camp Chief? Don't you know him? He is Irish by name, O'Driscoll, and Gypsy by trade. I were in his place, I'd not waste my time feeding hops and marking eggs, I'd be a model for bathing suits, and a walking advertisement of the lobster in- dustry, for when garbed in a red bathing suit and halfway in the water, one would think he was a live lobster, already cooked in sand and water.

LADES WHITE shoes only $1.79 at our clearance sale, Purdie & Fergusons. L-1040.

When I first saw the camping ground it resembled a depot. Cubs going and Scouts coming; luggage, lunches and hats galore. It took a full day to rectify the tents and surroundings.

SHIP'S COMPANY DANCE—Ship's Company of H. M. S. Dun- die staged a delightful dance at the Casino last night with over 100 couples in attendance. A special feature of the dance was two de- lightful solos by Stoker H. Rem- stein. He was encored on each ap- pearance. Music was supplied by A. Blanchard and his orchestra.

At first I thought it a long way from Paradise and equally as long from Tipperary. Then I thought of Land's End, Forest Home, Blue Rocks and Hardscrabble. Behold it is none of these!

ENJOYING VISIT — Mr. Finlay Campbell of Montreal, outstanding bass-baritone singer, with Mrs. Campbell and their daughter, Mar- garet, are spending their holiday at Stanhope Beach Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell are so enthused with Stanhope and Prince Edward Island that they are formulating plans to make their home in Char- lottetown. Mr. Campbell has de- lighted the Inn guests with solo and concert, and will sing in Zion Presbyterian Church Sunday morn- ing, and in the Baptist Church Sunday evening.

I took a walk up the road; on one side was a sheep pasture and on the other a hay field. I asked the neighbours their names, and what names! Murchison, McRae, Nicholson, Gillis, and Morrison. To crown all, a school house, named Mt. Buchanan. Said I to myself, "right at home", all Scotch like myself!

PROMINENT EDUCATIONAL- IST—Dr. Carleton and Mrs. Stan- ley, on their way to enjoying a holiday at Stanhope Beach Inn. Dr. Carleton Stanley, M. A. princi- pal and vice-chancellor of Dal- housie University for past six years graduated from the University of Toronto with honors in classes and later from Oxford University. Im- mediately following graduation he was in business in Toronto and then in Montreal. Left business to become professor of classics at Mc- Gill University and later assistant principal under the late Sir Arthur Currie. He was chairman of the Protestant Board of school com- missioners for the town of Royal, Montreal, before removing to Halifax.

We have been now ten days here and by the combined efforts of each individual we have spent a happy vacation and the camp is the equal of last year's. I can't say it is better for that would be an impossibility.

PERSONALS

The headquarter's staff were very efficient in their duties. Es- pecially Mr. Burnett, the assistant Camp Chief, who diligently work- ed to make the Council Fire the pleasing feature of the day. By the diligence and intelligence of the staff officers, the camp was a success, even though their leader was a lobster.

PERSONALS

We had many visitors bringing treats to the camp. Our thanks are due Rev. H. I. Fleming and Rev. Wilfred McCordle for a generous treat of fruit. Also to Father McCordle our thanks for saying Mass on four consecutive morn- ings, sacrificing his holidays for us. Is he not a good Boy Scout?

PERSONALS

I wish to thank you one and all for your kindness to myself and mascot, Leonard, and I bid you farewell and good luck. I ask of you this favor, on every night, before you lay your head to rest, ask yourself this question: "Have I earned another tomorrow by my good deeds I have done today?" Wouldn't you know who wrote that? Yes, sounds just like her. Scotch Euphemia. Etie M. A. Driscoll.

Score Police For Attack On Strikers

WASHINGTON, July 22—(AP)—A strongly-worded United States Senate report accused Chicago police today of a virtually "un- provoked" attack on a crowd of strikers last Memorial Day near the Republic Steel Company's plant.

The La Follette Civil Liberties Committee laid before the Senate a summary of its investigation, which asserted that "the conse- quences of the Memorial Day en- counter were clearly avoidable by the police."

Defends Policy Re Drought Areas

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, July 21—Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture today came to the defence of irrigation projects in Saskatche- wan and criticized two types of sour stories coming out of the drought-stricken west — "propa- ganda" leading to the belief all the drought area should be depopulat- ed and stories leading to the im- pression rehabilitation expendi- tures are not producing results.

(His statement followed the Saskatchewan convention of the Co-Operative Commonwealth Fed- eration at Saskatoon Saturday. The meeting passed a resolution criticizing Mr. Gardiner for state- ments credited to him respecting the Val Marie irrigation district in southern Saskatchewan.)

Irrigation projects tried out this year had shown the advantage of such undertakings the Minister said, and he referred particularly to the projects at Constal and Eastend in southern Saskatchewan. He ex- pressed the hope that on irrigated farms of 80 acres each, families from sections which are subject to frequent drought could be taken to nearby lands where irrigation was feasible.

CAMP ORWELL

The Boy Scout Camp! When was it? In the middle of July at Point Prim, near the Pinette River. Were you there? Sure I was there, with the Big Chief. I was born forty years too soon—missed a lot of fun—joined the Scouts two years ago—my good turns number as many as my white hairs in my head—good deeds you didn't do says you!

Where is Point Prim? It is a stretch of farm land, bordering on Northumberland Street, about four miles from Pinette, about six miles north from Eldon. At this place an abandoned farm has been pur- chased for a regular Scouters' camp.

At present about fifty-two Scouts of all denominations are under canvas. Who is their Camp Chief? Don't you know him? He is Irish by name, O'Driscoll, and Gypsy by trade. I were in his place, I'd not waste my time feeding hops and marking eggs, I'd be a model for bathing suits, and a walking advertisement of the lobster in- dustry, for when garbed in a red bathing suit and halfway in the water, one would think he was a live lobster, already cooked in sand and water.

She is resigning to become the head of Hull House, the late Jane Ad- dams' pioneer social work organ- ization in Chicago.

With a background of many years of welfare work in New York and Pennsylvania, Miss Carr joined the E. R. B. in 1935, be- coming assistant director of the home relief division. In the same year the Works Progress Admin- istration took over work relief, the bureau's work being confined to home relief and Miss Carr, being made its chief.

Before joining the E. R. B. Miss Carr had served the state as as- sistant director of the Bureau of Women in Industry.

STRATEGIC HILL

carved in the insurgent siege lines by "do or die" Government thrusts, was still the centre of the war stage in the shell-pitted tri- angle formed by Brunette, Villan- ueva De La Canada, and Villa- franca Del Castillo.

Last reports from the front lines said the hill had been turned into a corpse-littered "no man's land". Although forced to aban- don it after twice sweeping the enemy from its heights, the Gov- ernment troops had been able to prevent the insurgents from again gaining full possession.

There were indications that the strength of the insurgent drive was cracking under the Govern- ment's back-to-the-wall resistance. The fury of the fighting which has swept the sector for the last five days will leave its marks for years to come, however, regardless of the fortunes of war.

Maritime Life Holds Meeting

Secretary-Treasurer Bernard Lockwood reported assets of the company increased for the six months by 6 per cent, premium income increased "very substan- tially", and death claims were slightly lower, compared with the same period of 1936.

In Memoriam

MRS. J. A. ROBERTSON

The death occurred in the Prince Edward Island Hospital Wednesday July 21st, after an illness of seven or eight weeks of Mrs. Robertson, aged 68, widow of the late J. A. Robertson. This death is of unusual sadness owing to the fact that her husband passed away scarcely three weeks ago.

Mrs. Robertson, nee Georgia Cameron Morrison, was a daughter of the late Adam Morrison, who was born at Tryon. Her brother, J. A. Morrison of Summerside is the only survivor of the family.

The late Mr. and Mrs. Robertson resided for a number of years at Bonshaw, where he formerly car- ried on a general business, later he removed to Charlottetown, and took over the boot and shoe busi- ness of Goff Bros, retiring several years ago.

Mrs. Robertson was a lady of many fine qualities, and her death will be deplored by many friends in this city and in other parts of the province where she was well known.
