British Columbia's Giant Timbers

British Columbia's unpeopled vastness can be understood only by those who have seen it. Only half-a-century back adventurers set out for British Columbia, to pan gold from its creeks.

The tremendous development and weather of British Columbia has been built up in its neighbors east of the Rockies timber is to that vast area lying from the mountains to the ocean where half of all Canada's hemlock, pine and spruce that hem the coast and clothe the mountains of British Columbia interior, supply an annual harvest vital to the prosperity of Canada and scarcely less important to other nations dependent upon lumber for building materials.

Western woods have become a kind of international medium of contact between Canada and the world at large. British Columbia's timber industry now reaches the four corners of the earth.

The 1927 Garden Style—VIII

The 100-foot lot gives room for division into definite units. This is necessary for the best effects. First of all we must, in this day of automobiles, consider the location of the garage and the turnaround. Usually this is an architectural feature that can be placed where we will need to be blocked off and also a suitable space allowed for a vegetable garden.

Nothing too intricate should be attempted because the more complicated the planting the less effective it usually is. A few good trees properly placed and groups of shrubbery as boundaries and screens and to furnish backgrounds for beds of annuals and perennials are most effective. Avoid too heavy borders of shrubbery. The thicker it is, the less opportunity have the shrubs in the middle to develop their full beauty or to be seen.

should be only wide enough to furnish definite outline and adequate concealment if it is desired to screen off a building or enclosure.

The flower garden is a separate design within the general design of a separate unit. The back yard as well as the front should display an attractive expanse of good lawn, with a frame of shrubbery and annuals and perennials in front of them to add a touch of color.

With the location of the unit spaces decided the planting is not a matter of difficulty. The vegetable garden becomes an important factor in a place of this size which it cannot well be on the 30 to 50-foot lot. Usually it is placed at the rear if conditions of light and soil permit. Otherwise a location at the side must be screened off for it by planting shrubs and tall perennials and annuals.

PETER PREACHING TO THE GENTILES (The Story)

The world was on the verge of a social revolution fraught with great consequences reaching to continents then undiscovered. The narrow prejudice of the Jews is not to be wondered at. The deep-rooted growth of fifteen centuries could not easily be loosened. The divine law appeared to be of ceaseless obligation. Its chief rite was to be perpetuated. The Jewish-Christian looked up the Church as an annex to the Temple, the way to the former being through the latter.

The error persisted in would have been a handicap to Christianity. Weighted in such fashion it could never have become a world religion. The hour to be rid of the incubus had struck. Peter was God's man for the hour and the deed. The "Apostle to the Circumcised" was above suspicion of disloyalty to Judaism.

Again the conspicuous candidate for immediate admission to the Christian Church without submission to the Hebrew rite was admirably chosen. He was of "good report" among all the nation of the Jews." So much a Jew and so much a Gentile as to form a connecting link between both people.

The place where this important scene was to be transacted was as fittingly chosen as the human instruments themselves. Caesarea, a Gentile city on Jewish soil. The time was apt also. Ten years of comparatively fruitless toil among the Gentiles convinced the Church that they would never accept the Gospel plus Judaism, circumcision and all the rest of it.

It only remained for the most influential mind of the Church to be instructed by a significant sign in which he should find a purely Gentile candidate and admit him to full connection without circumcision. Then the "middle-wall of partition" would fall.

UNDER THE STUDY LAMP.

Military life is not inimical to personal piety. Cornelius, Havelock, Gardner, Godwin, Howard and Foch prove it. Every doctrine and point of polity in the Church, has been evolved in the storm of debate. Asperity is regrettable, but even that is better than graveyard peace or a mush of concessions. The vision of Peter is one for today as well. By inference Providence can yet be seen bringing about conjunctions now as then. He does so without inflicting upon the individual will. Venerable rites like circumcision must be discarded when indicate that they should be. Cornelius may have commiserated the bad luck that cast his lot among the turbulent laws, but it was Providence not the Emperor who sent him to Judea. How great his gains. Peter needed a preparatory vision as well as Cornelius. The double vision of saint and soldier occurring simultaneously in time and in space far apart takes the incident out of the class where illusion or conniving might occur. The house of Cornelius was the scene of the "Pentecost of the Gentiles." A prepared message came to a prepared congregation. "Now therefore we are all here present before God to hear all things that are commanded thee of God." Text, might well be put above every pulpit. There are books enough telling preachers how to preach. One is needed telling congregations how to hear. Peter's changed habits are in evidence. Impulsive rashness is gone. He takes time and witnesses. Ceremonial law also is losing its grip upon him. He puts up with a tanner. Suppose Peter had been disobedient to his vision!

OUR CHRISTIAN DUTY TO MAINTAIN HEALTH.

(Consecration Meeting)

The human body is the chief material creation of God. Scripture refers to it under the similitude of the Temple of Solomon, beautiful, strong and serviceable. Intemperance in food, drink and lust of any kind is desecration of a holy shrine. It is to mar the supreme handiwork of the Creator. On the other hand intelligent and persistent conservation of physical health is a religious act, pleasing to God.

What are some causes of ill health? How avoid them? Why may a person not abuse his body? What is being done for the health of our community?

Dependable! ---Year-in and Year-out

Many McClary's Pandora ranges purchased fifteen, twenty, and even thirty years ago are today giving as splendid baking and cooking results as when they were first used.

Only extraordinary quality could account for such unusual records. Yet, the modern McClary's Pandora is even more efficient, more dependable than the models of four to ten years ago. Now, every Pandora has a splendid oven that radiates heat quickly and evenly. It is washable, rust resisting and exceptionally economical on fuel.

You'll be delighted with the beautiful, deeply carved body of cast iron. Every part is tested before leaving the factory—insuring life-long durability and satisfaction.

Your McClary's dealer will gladly demonstrate a Pandora for you.

INSIDIOUS EYE STRAIN

We use this adjective advisedly.

Sufferers from Eyestrain may have perfect vision and therefore do not suspect the presence of any eye defect.

The motive power of the entire human organism is Nerve Energy.

Normal eyes, it is computed utilize about 20% of this Nerve Energy, but when Eyestrain is present, a much larger proportion is required. Hence defective eyes, through their consumption of an excessive amount of Nerve Energy may seriously affect the functioning of other organs of the body and produce ill health.

is typically Canadian and the land is less heavily timbered and less rugged. Just east of the coast mountains are coal mines in the Nicola Valley and some cattle ranches. The well settled area is the fruit growing territory known as the Okanagan Valley. Actually the fruit country now extends from the United States boundary along a line of super lakes to the main line of railway—a rolling park-like country of fruit ranches which ship their products all over Canada and to Europe.

Mighty Rivers.

Between the Okanagan and the Rockies filling the southeast corner of the Province is the more rugged Kootenay country where lakes are fed between towering mountains and rivers are raging torrents. Valuable lumbering and mining industries are centred there.

The Kootenays are being developed in a large way now for the use of these mining industries. Emerging from the Kootenays into the very heart of the Rockies is the Crow's Nest Pass with its coal fields, one of the Dominion's chief fuel producing areas, in the centre of which is the town of Fernie with its coke ovens.

All the territory described is south of the main line of the C.P.R. North of this Division is an inland Empire practically uninhabited except for bear and big game. There is muskeg and rock in great profusion and broadly speaking the land would hardly suffice to feed a sparrow, but everywhere is heavy timber and no doubt when man is ready to exploit the hardpan sun-soil valuable minerals will be recovered. The patches of good arable land are like oases in a forest of timber. In the northeastern corner of this territory lies the Peace River Country, a prairie land beyond the Rockies unlike any other section of the Province. The Peace River country still is in the early stages of development and is certainly likely to become an important wheat-growing country, but this development is seriously retarded for want of adequate transportation. Time will no doubt remedy this difficulty as has been the case in other parts of the Dominion.
