—O'MALLEY - McQUAID — A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's Convent Chapel Summerside, at eight o'clock Wednesday morning, Oct. 28th, when Monseigneur J.G. MacLellan, V.G., united in marriage, Mary Inez, daughter of Mrs. and the late J.J. McQuaid, Kensington, to Arthur O'Leary, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.H. O'Malley, Alberton. The bride was dressed in a pale blue dress with accessories to match. Her corsage was talisman roses. Her attendant was Miss Mae O'Malley, sister of the groom. The groom was attended by Signalman J.G. McQuaid, Sydney, N.S., brother of the bride. After the Nuptial Mass the bridal party returned to the home of Mrs. E.J. Harrington, Summerside, aunt of the bride, where the wedding breakfast was served after which the bride and groom left for Kensington where they enjoyed a very delicious dinner at the home of the bride. The couple then motored to parts of the Maritimes. The bride is a former C.N.R. employee while the groom previously served in the R.C.A.F.

LIMIT TAXIS

Departmental announcement, sought public co-operation to enable most efficient use to be made of the curtailed service. He made these four suggestions:—

"1. Don't call a cab unless your need is urgent.

"2. Don't use taxis in order to save your own gasoline and rubber.

"3. Don't be surprised if the cab operator informs you he has no taxi available, and that you should travel by street car.

"4. If you must use a cab, plan your trip ahead of time, and place your order as early as possible. Let the operator know your destination, the number of persons who will be with you, and the latest time when the cab should call."

More Curtailment

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Nov. 6—(CP)—Pleasure cars are in for more curtailment, which will come under the direction of the Federal Oil Controller, said G.S. Cray, Fredericton Controller, in an interview previous to his departure for Ottawa following a visit to the province.

Supplies at present have been adequate with regard to rubber, he said, but the situation is somewhat better as the Transit Commissioner

'Texas' Is Cavalcade Of Action

Breathtaking action, spectacular stampedes and awesome gun fights, a superb cast and a stirringly written story all combine to provide sensational entertainment at the Capitol Theatre, where Columbia's "Texas" opened yesterday. The film was directed by George Marshall and co-stars William Holden, Claire Trevor and Glenn Ford, with a splendid supporting cast which includes George Bancroft, Edgar Buchanan, Don Beddoe and Willard Robertson.

A story of the old West, when Texas cattlemen were struggling to bring their herds through bandit-ridden country at Abilene, Kansas, railhead and shipping point to the markets of the East and the North, "Texas" packs more swift action, more tense adventure and more edge-of-the-seat excitement than any three such pictures in recent years. And that goes even for director George Marshall's redoubtable "When the Daltons Rode" and "Destry Rides Again!"

Holden is seen as a member of the renegade band which attempts to prevent the ranchers from going through; Ford is the leader of an immense cattle drive, which provides a major highlight in a film filled with major highlights. Friends and former Civil War buddies, the two are rivals for the affection of Miss Trevor, who appears as a fighting vixen.

Conservative Meeting At O'Leary

Resolutions strongly indorsing the leadership of Hon. W.J.P. MacMillan and Hon. R.B. Hanson, and paying tribute to the late Hon. G. S. Sharp, James E. Birch and Dr. J.A. Stewart were passed at a Conservative meeting held yesterday at O'Leary.

Mr. Augustus Peters presided at the meeting at which addresses were given by Messrs. H.B. Heustis, George Mathews, Sanford Phillips, J.F. Arnett, H.F. MacPhee, M.L.A., Austin Ramsay, and Hon. Dr. W.J.P. MacMillan, provincial leader.

Due to a misunderstanding the meeting had been advertised as a joint convention for the 1st and 2nd Districts of Prince for nomination of candidates in the provincial field. It was deemed advisable to hold two separate conventions for this purpose, one in each district. The meeting adjourned after agreeing upon the following convention dates: For the 1st District, at Portage on Nov. 24; for the 2nd District, at Alberton, Nov. 26.

Resolutions

Following is the text of the resolutions adopted yesterday:

"RESOLVED that this Convention place on record its unbounded confidence in Hon. W.J.P. MacMillan as Provincial Leader of our party.

"We commend him not only for his untiring efforts in behalf of the Conservative party but also for the time, talent and money he has devoted to the promotion of the social services of the Province, particularly of the Red Cross and Children's Aid Societies.

"We confidently look forward to the day when he will be called upon to resume the reins of power in this Province.

"Resolved that this Convention express its confidence in the leadership of Hon. R.B. Hanson, acting House Leader of the Conservative party in the Commons. We admire his loyal and capable efforts to promote the interests of Canada at all times.

"RESOLVED that we the delegates of the First and Second District of Prince County in Convention assembled place on record our sense of the deep loss this Province in general and the Conservative party in particular has sustained by the death of Hon. G.S. Sharp.

To his widow and members of his family this Convention extends its sincerest sympathy."

"RESOLVED that this Convention place on record the loss this Province and the Conservative party has sustained by the death of Mr. James E. Birch, a former representative in the Legislature and a charter member of this Association.

"To the bereaved relatives and friends this convention extends deepest sympathy."

"RESOLVED that this Convention place on record its genuine sympathy with the relatives and friends of Dr. J.A. Stewart of Tyne Valley in the great loss which they have sustained by his death.

be the youngest second-in-command ever to proceed overseas, put his thoughts in the words, "just think, no more patrolling beach s'."

Lieuts. Doug and Gordon Gould, Halifax brothers, the latter a well-known newspaperman and tennis player, were with this unit. Among the NCO's from Halifax were RSM. John Campbell, Sgt. Lawson Mosher, Sgt. Bill Taylor, Sgt. Doug Maltz and CSM. D. P. Gammon.

Company Commander with the P.L.F. was Maj. R.B. Odlum of Vancouver, a son of Maj.-Gen. Victor Odlum, Canada's newly-appointed first Canadian Minister to China.

From East Royalty

With them was a combatant Minister, Lieut. Gordon Darragh of East Royalty, P.E.I., who, though a graduate in Theology, enlisted as a private and won his commission just prior to sailing.

Luckiest man aboard, and a member of the P.L.F. was Fus. Evatt Mathers of Halifax. A nephew of Nova Scotia's Lieutenant-Governor, F.F. Mathers, he had his uncle come down to see him off.

With the Lieutenant-Governor on his visit, strictly unofficial, were Rear Admiral L.W. Murray, naval officer commanding the Atlantic Coast and Maj.-Gen. W.H.P. Elkins, officer commanding the Atlantic region. While the Lieutenant-Governor visited his nephew, they inspected the ship.

Also going over was the only non-Scottish unit to wear the kilt, the Irish Regiment of Canada.

A Scotsman, even to the burr in his speech, in the outfit was Pte. Donald John MacDonald of Port Arthur, Ont., who said he joined because "I like the pipes."

Explanations that this unit had Irish pipes didn't jar his Scotch stubbornness a bit. "There's actually little difference," he said, "the Scotch ones have three drones and the Irish two."

Married 115

Most important man in the unit, according to statistics, was the Padre, Capt. D.P. Rowland of Toronto. Since the unit was mobilized he has married 115 of the men and blessed 135 of the resulting newarrivals.

The Padre was also a star Soccer member of the University of Toronto team and instrumental in getting sports organized in his unit. Helping him with this was Maj. G. H. Puchard, formerly of the Toronto Argonaut Rowing Club.

Heading the Sherbrooke Regiment was Maj. J.C. Cave of White Rock and Barrie, Ont., He might write a Horatio Alger story about how to get ahead in the army, as three years ago he was a sergeant-major in the outfit he led to war.

Another Major with a history — But one that is known to every sport fan in Canada — was Conny Smythe, former manager of Toronto Maple Leafs in the N.H.L.

The trim, moustached little scrapper from the ice lanes could not be interviewed prior to sailing as he was starting his active service ahead of schedule. Men were needed to man the anti-aircraft batteries on the ship, and the major and his company had volunteered for the job.

ness gave him an order for potatoes. The last he saw of him he was going out the gangway. As far as he could see Gallant was sober. Gallant had delivered a horse out the McIntyre Highway and was paid one hundred and thirty-five dollars he thought. He paid some bills, giving witness ten dollars and his (Gallant's) father ninety dollars for some cows.

He (Gallant) used to take a drink but not to excess, witness said. There were no marks nor cuts nor blood when he saw the deceased at three o'clock. When he next saw him after five he was dead and there was dry blood on his face.

Mrs. Lottie Logan

Mrs. Lottie Logan testified that her home was in Fort Augustus but she was visiting her sister, Mrs. Peterson. She had been in town a week. She saw Mr. Gallant there at dinner time and had talked with him. He was sober, "quite sober." He was talking about a payment on a horse and counted out $55 in presence of witness. Then he left with his horse to have him shod.

Witness saw him when he returned two or three hours later. He came in the house and was sober then. Witness spoke to him and he was calm and quiet and had not been in any "row." That was the last she saw him until she heard the "row" was on. She went out into the yard to bring him in. She heard the loud talk. He was talking to an Indian. There were two Indians in the yard—one was in uniform and the other in civilian clothes. Gallant was in an argument with the one in civilian clothes whom witness identified as Knockwood.

Before she got to Gallant the Indian in civilian clothes knocked him down by hitting him then he "kicked him twice." Mr. Gallant fell and didn't move," witness did not see Gallant hitting blows nor did she know what the argument was about.

Witness said there were "a few others" in the yard but she did not know them by name. She went back into the house and someone came in and asked if they could bring Gallant in. He looked to be dead and was covered with blood when brought in. Witness felt his pulse and told those present to get a doctor. She had not seen the deceased drinking.

In answer to a juror she said she saw the Indian going out the gangway.

Mrs. Helen Dunn

Mrs. Helen Dunn, 34 Valley Street, testified that the deceased was her uncle. She worked at 107 Richmond Street and had seen deceased there. He had dinner at the house. Witness said he showed no evidence of drinking. She saw him before the "fracas" occurred. It could be around three. She was talking to him and he seemed sober enough. She did not see the fight but Amos Gallant and the Indian Knockwood, were arguing in the house. She did not know what they were arguing about in the kitchen. She would not swear Knockwood was drunk. They went out [illegible] and told Art Ramsay to phone for the police. She [illegible] did not arrive before the fight was over.

A fellow by the name of Ford came and asked if they could bring Gallant in. When he was taken in he was covered with blood and she phoned for a doctor. The police came and said he was still alive. When Dr. Giddings got there he said he was dead.

Knockwood had come into the house after dinner. Amos Gallant said "come on out into the yard" when they were arguing. They were taking their coats off going into the yard.

There was just one Indian in the house during the argument.

She did not see them drinking in the house. Asked if she made a statement to police that she saw them drinking she repeated she had not seen them drinking.

Arthur Ramsay

Arthur Ramsay, 48 Grafton Street, testified he ran a store at 109 Richmond Street. He was 20 years of age. The store was in the same building as the Richmond House.

He heard someone say there was an argument in the house. By that time it was in the yard and witness stood at back door and watched Amos Gallant and an Indian in civilian clothes were arguing. Then they started to fight. They were both fighting. The Indian knocked Mr. Gallant down "with a blow of his fist." As Gallant went to get up the Indian kicked him "somewhere about the face". He went in and called the police again. He had called about seven or eight minutes before. A few minutes later the police drove past the Richmond House and stopped half way down the block. They did not get out but drove around the block and stopped in front of the house.

Witness told them the fight was over but he was not sure what the police did then. He did not know the man was dead. He worked awhile, about three or four minutes, then the police were going in. Sgt. McInnis was one and "I think it was Gordon Poole", the other. Police tried to get a doctor then.

He saw the Indian leave but did not know if he had a coat on. He saw the Indian before. He had been around quite a bit.

Witness said the Indian had given Gallant "a vicious hard kick. The other Indian brother interfered and tried to pull his brother away. Mr. Gallant's father and Mr. Ford were in the yard. Witness thought they were trying to stop the fight. The Indian left the yard in a hurry—walking fast.

Patrick J. Gallant

Patrick J. Gallant testified that he lived in the city. He was a blacksmith on Kent Street. He was a first cousin of the deceased.

The deceased had taken his horse in about 11.30 a.m. It was a 7-year-old horse. Witness could not do the horse in the forenoon. Gallant said he would come back but left his horse. At 1.30 deceased came back and he was "absolutely sober." Witness finished shoeing the horse about three o'clock. Amos Gallant then left the forge with the horse. He said he was in a hurry to get home.

Daniel Gallant

Daniel Gallant, father of the deceased, testified that he lived at Spring Park. He was 82. He saw the deceased who gave him $75. for some cows. That was about ten o'clock and he was quite sober. Witness saw him again at Peterson's. He was alive then. It was in the afternoon and he was sober but "he had a little, but he was smart on his feet." Witness saw the fight and tried to stop it. When they came out "the two of them didn't seem to have too much liquor." He tried to stop the fight but "that man" fighting with Amos would hit me.

He told of "the man" hitting Amos and putting "the boots" to him. Another man with a uniform was there and the two of them were around Amos. They left him dead. They "kicked him in the head." Witness broke down at this point and began sobbing.

David Knockwood testified that he lived at Lennox Island. He was a painter and joined the Artillery February 17. He was stationed at Petawawa and is home on furlough. His time is up Monday.

Witness was in the City yesterday (Thursday) with his brother and was with him most all day. He was not drinking nor did he see his brother take a drink. He walked into the Richmond House shortly before four o'clock as he thought his brother would be there. His brother was in the kitchen—just starting out with Gallant. The latter hit his brother as they were going out. He did not see his brother hit Gallant before that. Witness described his brother as a young, husky fellow. Gallant was older.

Witness said some ladies had blocked his way for a minute. Then he went out and stopped his brother. Mr. Gallant was swinging at him again. His brother stopped and said "come with me." He did not see his brother strike or kick him. Gallant was still standing up when he took his brother away witness stated.

He was standing against the truck wagon wheel, he reiterated. Under repeated questioning by the Coroner, witness stuck to this story.

Richard Quinn

Richard Quinn, Richmond Street, testified that he was in the kitchen at the Richmond House when the fight was on. He didn't see anything in the house. He could see them in the yard. The Indian Knockwood and Amos Gallant were fighting. "They were both fighting," he said. He did not see Gallant falling nor did he see the Indian kick him. He saw the Indian take his coat off the truck wagon and leave the yard.

Sgt. A. J. McInnis

Sgt. Alan J. McInnis testified that about 3.45 he received a call to Richmond Street. There was a fight going on. He took the police car picked up Officer Poole and went to Richmond Street. There was a bit of traffic on the Street and there were three or four cars in front of the Richmond House. Opposite the gangway there was a horse and wagon which was all they could see. Farther down the Street they saw people and thinking that was where the trouble was went down. They went around the block and back to the Store. The young man there said the fight was over and the Indians were gone. They circled the place about four times then went back to the station. Before witness went off duty at four o'clock, there was a call saying that there was a man dead as a result of a fight and four police were sent down then.

Witness told of finding the coat of the deceased across a wagon in the yard. He had not searched the man's pockets there. The Indian was located by three officers in the country.

Constable Sterns Webster Testified that he had received a call about two minutes to four. The woman who was talking on the phone was "drunk."

Accompanied by Const. G. Poole, witness went to the Richmond House and saw the deceased lying on a couch in the dining room. He described efforts to get a doctor which were finally rewarded.

When the doctor pronounced the man dead, witness sent for Const. R. Dalziel and Const. Peter Walsh.

Dalziel, Poole and witness then left in search of Frank and David Knockwood. They went to the Union Cafe then to another place where they heard the Indians had been. Then they went to the bus stop and heard one Indian bougnt a ticket but was gone. Then the police went to Checker Taxi where they learned two Indians, a soldier and civilian, had been there and went away in a taxi. After half an hour the taxi returned.

Make Arrest

The driver said he had been to Scotchfort and after hearing a description, police were satisfied that it was the hunted men he had driven. They went to Scotchfort and caught Frank Knockwood who was going along the railway. Two Mounties came along and took Frank Knockwood. Later they arrested David Knockwood at a nearby house.

They took the two Indians back to the police station. Frank Knockwood's shirt contained blood around the collar. This was shown to the Jury. Knockwood had been drinking but was not much under the influence. His brother seemed alright but might possibly have had a drink.

Constable W. G. Poole corroborated the evidence given by Sgt. Alan McInnis and Const. Sterns Webster.

Constable Robert Dalziel corroborated the evidence given by the other policemen. He also identified an overcoat, great coat, and suit coat which he had taken back from Scotchfort.

Constable Peter Walsh also corroborated the evidence of the other officers. He added that Knockwood's sweater, cap and flashlight was found on a wheelbarrow while he was at Peterson's Mr. Peterson said it was Knockwood's.

MacLean-Marchbank Nuptials

A very pretty and interesting wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Percy Marchbank, New Annan on the afternoon of November 4th, when their youngest daughter Mary Beatrice, became the bride of Kenneth MacGregor MacLean, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. MacLean, Central Lot 16.

To the strains of Lohengrins Bridal Chorus played by Mrs. Wyman Cairns, the graceful and lovely bride entered the living room on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She was dressed in her mother's wedding gown of ivory net over silk, with a veil in cap effect caught at the sides with rosebuds and falling in a short train. Her shower bouquet was of dream roses and she wore a pearl necklace. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D.F. Hodinott under a large wedding bell with ferns and potted plants making a delightful setting and witnessed by the families and close friends of the contracting couple. During the signing of the register Mrs. Cairns played "Sabbath Chimes."

The bride's small nieces, Misses Birdie and Mary Cairns acted as flower girls and made very charming attendants. Birdie wearing pink silk and carrying a nosegay of sweet peas, while Mary wore blue and carried a nosegay of deep pink geraniums and fern.

Mrs. Marchbank, mother of the bride, wore a gown of black crepe and velvet with a corsage of Happy Day roses. Following the ceremony the guests partook of a sumptuous wedding supper. The dining room was tastefully decorated with yellow and white streamers and running spruce, while the large wedding cake, lighted tapers and yellow crysanthemums made a very attractive table. Later in the evening a happy crowd of serenaders arrived and made things lively for a while. Mr. and Mrs. MacLean are spending a short honeymoon in Kingston, N.S. For travelling the bride wore a mass-green wool dress with hat to match and a brown plaid coat. The groom's gift to his bride was an engraved gold locket. S.

Kensington and Vicinity

Mrs. Elizabeth Mann of Burlington is visiting in York with her daughter, Mrs. Roscoe Macdonald and Mr. Macdonald.

Miss Ruth Toombs, Summerside, spent the weekend in Kensington with her friend, Miss Shirley Monkley.

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 3rd in the Town Hall the Girl Guides held a Hallowe'en party when they had as their guests, the Boy Scouts and other lads from Grade 7-10 of Kensington School. Several games were played, contests enjoyed, a hearty sing-song participated in and last but not least a much enjoyed delicious lunch was served.

Mrs. Keith Waite spent a couple of days in Charlottetown with relatives and friends.

A nicely arranged miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moase, New Annan, on Tuesday evening, when relatives, friends and neighbours gathered in honor of their eldest daughter, Miss Phyllis Moase, who is soon to be the leading lady in a happy event, to present her with their gifts and best wishes. About nine-thirty in the evening when all had gathered and to the strains of "Here Comes the Bride" played by Mrs. Albert Moase, the bride-to-be was escorted to the seat of honor which was decorated with pink and white ornaments and placed under a very pretty arch of ferns, running spruce and roses of every hue and color by Miss June Dalziel. The room, like the seat of honor, was also nicely decorated with the pink and white color scheme, with running spruce and ferns arranged with it in a charming manner. The many numerous and beautiful gifts were carried in by the Misses Gladys Moase and Louise Dalziel and opened by Miss Doris Pickering and Mrs. Louis Moase, while the accompanying verses and best wishes were read by Miss Jean Campbell and Mrs. Wright. After being admired by the bride-to-be they were placed on the table by the Misses Glenn MacKay and Wanda Mann. In her usual charming manner "Phyllis" thanked one and all for the gifts and best wishes and extended a hearty invitation to visit her in her new home after which all joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." A dainty lunch was served by a number of the ladies present and the remainder of the evening was spent in social intercourse, music and a hearty sing-song. Mrs. George Ramsay and Mrs. Harold Moase delighted the guests with several piano duets which were received with loud and long hand-clapping. Among the gifts received was a kitchen rocking chair and address from the New Annan Women's Institute. At a late hour all departed wishing Phyllis every happiness for the future.

Gunner David McNally spent a recent leave with his wife and family here.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowness, Norboro, on Monday evening when a large number of friends and neighbours gathered to bid farewell to their daughter, Miss Verne Bowness who left the following morning for Ottawa where she has accepted a position with the Civil Service Department. An address was read by Miss Elva Webster while Miss Helen Murphy presented Miss Bowness with a well filled purse on behalf of her friends in Norboro and surrounding districts. Miss Bowness in her usual pleasant manner, responded to this address and gift and in a few well chosen words, thanking all for remembering her in this way and hoping to be back among them soon again after which all joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." After lunch had been served by the ladies present the remainder of the evening was pleasantly whiled away in social chatter, playing cards and dancing to lively music played by the "Andrew Sisters." At a late hour all wended their way homeward after wishing Verne the best of luck in her new position and surroundings.

Sgt. Bruce Clark left to rejoin his unit with the P.E.I. Highlanders recently after a pleasant furlough spent with his wife and parents.

Pte. Daniel Dunning returned to his duties with the P.E.I. Highlanders after a most enjoyable leave with his wife and small son, Donnie, in Kensington.

Miss Ruth Mill spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mill in Clermont.

This town and surrounding districts were saddened and shocked to learn of the sudden death of Mrs. Stirling Hunter, which occurred on Oct. 29th at the Prince County Hospital after an illness of only a day. The funeral services were held on Sunday, Nov. 1st from the Kensington United Church thence to the United Church at Dunstaffnage cemetery. The Rev. A. D. Stirling conducted the service at Kensington and spoke very highly of the deceased. The hymns sung were "Safe in the Arms of Jesus", "Peace Perfect Peace" and "Abide With Me." At the close of Mr. Stirling's sermon Mr. Elmer Farnell sang very feelingly "Sometime We'll Understand." The pall-bearers at Kensington were the Messrs. Gerald MacKenzie, Lloyd Howard, Leslie Mann, Heath Durant, Oliver Proffitt and Ervin Champion. The service at Dunstaffnage church and at the graveside wese conducted by the Rev. J. A. Nicholson. The hymns sung were "Breathe On Me Breath of God," "The Sands of Time are Sinking" and "Lead Kindly Light." There are left to mourn Mrs. Hunter's passing her husband, two daughters, Miss Lily Hunter; Margaret, Mrs. Keith Evans and two sons, Stewart and Percy. Also three sisters and three brothers. Deepest sympathy is extended to those who are left in their bereavement.—H.

At Spring Park School Mr. L.W. Goodwin spoke to the pupils on the meaning of Armistice Day and its symbol, the poppy.

Famous Schooner Bluenose Sold

HALIFAX, Nov. 6—(CP)— The schooner Bluenose, queen of the Atlantic fishing fleet, has been sold to the West Indies Trading Company Limited of Halifax, it was stated here today by Donald McInnes member of a law firm which handled the sale.

The Bluenose now is sailing with freight cargoes between Cuba the Bahamas and United States ports, Mr. McInnes said.

Built in Lunenburg in 1921, the Bluenose sailed in five international fishermen's schooner race series against Gloucester schooners and won them all, although the Gertrude L. Thebaud defeated her in an exhibition series in 1930.

The sale was made several months ago, Mr. McInnes said. With the sale the Bluenose passed out of the hands of Capt. Angus Walters, doughty Lunenburg fishing skipper who commanded the schooner throughout her racing career and took her to England and to Toronto on exhibition tours.
