The Council took under consideration the unfortunate controversies that arose in London and finally decided that it was wiser to introduce an international system of judging rather than leave this to the sole control of the country where the games take place. The Swedish representative accepted this view. The Council did not act in criticism of anything that had happened in England; its opinion was that contests could be conducted with greater good will if plans under international control.

ITS TOTAL VALUE IS THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS

The Guardian's third big contest is the chief subject for conversation in city, town, village and country. Everybody wonders at the immensity of this paper's undertakings, but although there is no profit in subscriptions, in fact an actual loss, larger circulation means increased advertising. Ladies are already signifying their intention of entering the contest for the Piano, Organ, Phonograph, etc. Eight Mammoth Canadian Tours, and several very valuable consolation prizes and it is open to any single or married lady of at least seventeen years of age. The Four Big Trips in 1893 to the great World's Fair at Chicago were regarded as stupendous, and the Eight Big Free Trips to New York City and return and the seventeen consolation prizes at considered unprecedented, but they all will be eclipsed by the new contest aggregating thousands of dollars in value. Why are the Niagara Falls visited annually by thousands upon thousands of people go there many times a year? Because there is always something new to see. Because there is nothing like them elsewhere in the whole world.

Because the roar of the rushing foaming waters has a fascination peculiar to itself. Because the eye never tires looking at the downpour of millions upon millions of gallons of water. But the Eight Mammoth Canadian Tours will be of much greater magnitude and far more luxurious than anything ever attempted in this line in Eastern Canada. Even the "special" prize list in connection therewith will be hundreds of dollars in value. It will include a $350 Mendelssohn Piano, in Mahogany case of Louis XIV design, from the Music Store of Miller Bros of this city, a $150 Pipe Tone Bell Organ, in quartered oak case, from the Music Store of C. P. Fletcher of this city, an Edison Phonograph and two dozen records in case, almost $100 in value, from the Music Store of A. E. Tombs of this city. The Piano and Organ, which are being specially made for the Guardian, will be of special finish and tone, and the Phonograph will be the best of its kind that the manufacturers produce. A member of the Guardian staff and his wife will accompany the ladies as escorts and guides. But watch future issues for full particulars of the hundreds of places which will be visited, as well as of the entire prize list. (Continued on page 3.)

conditions will be carried out as from time to time published. In fairness to all concerned no changes can be made, for any variation for one candidate would warrant something similar for all others, and thus, were the Guardian to do so, it would break faith with all of the 114 contestants, including those who retired and those who did not, and with the tens of thousands who worked and voted as per published conditions. Miss Linda Smith, Pownal, wishes to thank her many friends for their generous support in the recent "Guardian" contest. Miss Mamie McDonald, Georgetown, thanks her many friends all over the Province for giving her so much help with their votes and otherwise. The Tour Editor Dear Sir—Permit me through the columns of your valuable paper to extend my sincere thanks to my many friends for their generous support in electing me for the Free Trip, and also to yourself and The Guardian staff for the fair and courteous manner in which the contest was conducted. Again thanking you I remain, Yours sincerely, JENNIE E. WALSH. Summerside, June 1st, 1909. THANKS To my friends and everyone who so kindly interested themselves in my behalf in the "Big Free Trip" contest I am exceedingly grateful. Many even unsolicited, sent in their subscriptions to help me win. The kindness shown me from every where I appreciate very much. I have never realized until now that I had so many real first-class friends. Again thanking you very sincerely for your kindness, I remain, Yours respectfully, JANIE RAMSAY. Port Hill, June 1, 1909.
