Damaged Plane Flown Back From Magdalens

A Beechcraft plane, loaned to the Maritime Central Airways by the U.S. Army last December was flown from the Magdalen Islands to a repair depot near Moncton yesterday. The plane was at the gulf islands since December 22 when it broke through the ice after landing on an emergency flight from here.

Gordon Gray, pilot of the machine when the accident happened, was at the controls again yesterday.

Only minor damage was caused when the twin-engined plane went through the ice into shallow water. But before repairs could be made salt water caused further damage to equipment and then bad weather interfered with the work of repair crews, working on the ice without shelter.

The plane was loaned to Maritime Central Airways to replace a machine Jimmy Wade took on a rescue expedition to a remote northern region.

gression, China has borne Japan's sadistic fury unaided and alone."

It was here that tumultuous applause stifled the tiny figure again, an ovation not only to "Missimo" as she is known to her people, but to China itself.

She smiled acknowledgment to the seae of faces below her and to the jam-packed galleries above. Like a great actress, sensing the opportune moment, she pushed home an old Chinese proverb: "It takes little effort to watch the other fellow carry the load."

To say that Mme. Chiang captivated congress would be putting it mildly. She came to Washington, a guest of the White House, as one of the most distinguished women of this generation, a moulder of contemporary history. Her appearance before congress fulfilled all expectations and her visit may exert a profound effect on wartime relations between the United States and China, particularly in the distribution of military supplies and the comparative emphasis to be placed on the European and Asiatic battle zones.

Father and Son Banquet Enjoyed

A record crowd of more than 200 enjoyed the Father and Son Banquet sponsored by the Y's Men's Club last night.

Rev. I. J. Levy was the guest speaker and Mr. T. Roy Cudmore capably acted as Toastmaster.

During the banquet a hearty sing-song led by Mr. Hubert Morris with Prof. John Inch at the piano was enjoyed by the boys and their dads.

Toasts to the King, the "Y" and the "Dads" were honored. The toast to the Y was proposed by Mr. Burton Howatt and responded to by Mr. James Haslam.

Arthur Avard, the youngest speaker of the evening showed promising talent as an orator in proposing the toast to the Dads, while Mr. W. G. Hogg responded in a thought-provoking speech which emphasized the importance of giving the boys a good start in life and of really getting to know one's sons by spending time with them.

Rev. Mr. Levy in his address appealed to the fathers to set an example of clean, honest living so that the sons would have a working pattern to follow.

Interspersed with the speeches was a varied and pleasing program consisting of magic by "Raffles", (Corporal Butler, R.A.F.), tap dance by Miss Edith Whitlock, female impersonations and songs by "Connie" LeClerc accompanied by Mr. Albert Blanchard; cowboy songs by Charlie Chamberlain accompanied by Jackie Doyle; club and baton swinging by Mr. W. E. Scantlebury.

Of special interest were the moving pictures of the Y's Mens Club Summer Camp for boys shown by Messrs. Harry Cudmore, Neil MacLean and Hubert Morris.

Mr. Scantlebury, the newly appointed physical director of the Y.M.C.A., in a brief address, outlined to the boys the attractive program he has arranged for the remainder of the season, stating there would be classes for boys of all ages.

The chairman, Mr. Cudmore, fittingly thanked the Ladies' Auxiliary and others who had helped to make the banquet such an outstanding success.

Tempers Cool After Debate In British House

By Foster Barclay
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 18 —(CP Cable)—The possibility that Britain's wartime political unity might be broken by a walkout of labor ministers from the coalition government of Prime Minister Churchill was lessened tonight as tempers which boiled during a three-day debate on the Beveridge plan began to cool.

The labor party mustered the largest vote ever cast in the House of Commons against Mr. Churchill's government when the House voted 335 to 119 to support the cabinet's qualified endorsement of Sir William Beveridge's social security plan. This domestic issue threatened seriously to bring about a revolt by labor.

Immediately after the House rose, the 22 labor ministers met to consider whether they should leave the government on the grounds that the House vote by the labor members placed them in the position of being members of a cabinet of which their party had voiced disapproval.

Among the 22 were labor's three members of the war cabinet — Herbert Morrison, Home Security; Clement Attlee, Deputy Prime Minister, and Ernest Bevin, Labor. In addressing the House, Morrison had opposed his own party in appealing to members not to "vilify" the government for being cautious about the Beveridge plan and asking them not "to precipitate serious political difficulties."

There was no immediate indication what decision was reached by the labor ministers, but political observers felt it was unlikely any would resign. There were reports, however, that Labor Minister Bevin was not entirely in accord with the general desire to stay with the government.

Credit for the government's victory today was given largely to Morrison who told the House the members must "face the issue like men."

35,000 Ration Books For Charlottetown

The distribution of more than 100,000 new ration books gets underway in Prince Edward Island today with the work being done by voluntary workers under the supervision of the five Local Ration Boards. In Charlottetown alone about 35,000 books will have been issued to citizens before the campaign ends on March 1.

Charlottetown Local Ration Board has arranged to have a daytime distributing centre and another centre for the night. From 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. citizens will be able to call for their books at the Sporting Club on Grafton Street. Commencing at 7 p.m. and lasting until 9 p.m. the distribution of books will be made at the Bus Terminal on Queen Street.

There are more than a dozen distributing centres scattered throughout Queen's County and in all about 50 have already been established in the province. Local Ration Boards at Summerside, Alberton, Souris and Montague are all set for the campaign.

It is important for householders to remember that householders must bring their No. 1 Ration Book with them when applying for the new one. The application cards in the present books must also be properly filled out before being detached at the distributing centre. If these cards have already been detached by mistake from the books they must be brought along in order to get the new ration book.

Householders are reminded that it is contrary to law for any person to have more than one ration book. Books belonging to persons who have joined the armed forces or died must be turned in.

Says Britain Can Feed Own People

LONDON, Feb. 18 —(CP Cable) —Asking that Britain's markets be left for British producers, Lord Beaverbrook told the House of Lords today that the country could produce sufficient food to feed her population.

"Already we are producing two thirds or more of the foodstuffs that [illegible] people" he said during a debate on Britain's agricultural policy. "With the additional acreage under cultivation and with airfields brought back to cultivation and with developing methods, we could produce more than that."

Urges Immediate

all members of the armed forces will be available for service anywhere in the world."

Capt. White was one of five speakers in the continued Throne Speech debate this afternoon, the others being K. A. Blanchette (Lib. Compton), Anthony Hlynka (N. D. Vegreville), A. R. Adamson (Prog. Con. York West) and George Cruikshank (Lib. Fraser Valley.)

Some members said at the dinner adjournment that they hoped a vote on the address in reply to the Throne Speech would be reached tonight, leaving the way open for consideration of war financing measures. Nearly 80 members have participated in the debate so far.

At the opening of today's session, Prime Minister Mackenzie King warned the House there is a danger of members and the public generally thinking that the war will be won this year and paying too much attention to post-war problems.

The Prime Minister said all the efforts of all the Allied powers will be needed to win the war "in the course of a very considerable time."

Capt. White's Suggestions

Besides his proposal that men in the forces be made liable for service anywhere, Capt. White made these suggestions:—

1. Appointment of a minister to deal solely with soldiers' problems.
2. Production for parliament of the complete report of the Duff Commission which investigated the Canadian Hong Kong expedition.
3. A "proper adjustment" in farm prices.
4. Provision of adequate labor for farmers, and wood and lumber dealers.
5. Arrangement of a secret session at which the Prime Minister would give a full report on the recent Casablanca conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill and a report on the political situation in North Africa; at which defence Minister Ralston might give a complete statement on the forces overseas and the reinforcements needed for them, and a statement on the Dieppe operations; and at which private members would have opportunity to ask the Defence Ministers questions relating to the forces.
6. Granting of commissions to all aircrew overseas.
7. Legislation along the lines of the Sparkman or similar legislation in the United States to protect men in the forces against eviction of their families, foreclosures on mortgages, seizure or foreclosure of property for taxes, forfeiture of instalment contracts, protection of life insurance policies against cancellation for non-payment of taxes; and protection against judgment or other legal proceedings for debts incurred before enlistment or call to service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Elmer Davis, director of the office of war information, today warned the American people against swallowing Axis propaganda designed to slip a wedge between Russia and her Allies.

Davis told reporters that there is underground talk in Germany and Italy of the possibility of getting Britain and the United States out of the war so that all could turn then on Russia.
