In Memoriam

MRS. JOHN M. McDONALD

On the sixth day of April nineteen hundred and twenty nine there passed peacefully into rest at Dundee, Lot 50, Queen's County, a respected lady in the person of Mrs. John M. McDonald.

She was a member of Orwell Head Church for many years and it can be truly said of her that she lived up to her profession and walked humbly before God.

She was a great home maker as well as a home lover, she looked well to the ways of her household and eschewed the bread of idleness. She retained her faculties until her eyes closed in death and died trusting in the merits of her Redeemer.

Her funeral was very largely attended and was conducted by her pastor, Rev. D. M. Sinclair, interment at Orwell Head Cemetery.

The pall bearers were: M. A. McDonald, M. E. McDonald, A. H. McDonald and Martin W. McDonald.

JOHN J. McLEOD

On April 17, 1929, there passed peacefully away at his home, Dundee, Lot 50, John J. McLeod aged 76 years. He was a highly respected citizen a true friend to everybody and willing to lend a helping hand to any one in time of need.

That he had many relatives and friends was clearly shown by the large number of carriages and pedestrians who paid their last respects to the departed when they followed his remains to Orwell Head Cemetery and gathered around the grave for the final services. He leaves to mourn besides a sorrowing widow five daughters and three sons, viz. Mrs. Harry Haines, Mrs. Samuel Lewis, McLeod, Mass., Mrs. M. Cummings, Quincy, Mass., Mrs. Warren Penny, Somerville, Mass., Stella at home, John N. New York; M. D. Quincy Mass., Alexander at home, one Montie J., was killed during the Great War also two brothers, Angus and Murdoch in U. S. A. and one sister, Mrs. Annie Gillis, Flat River, P. E. I.

The funeral services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. D. M. Sinclair in a very impressive manner.

The pall-bearers were: S. D. Campbell, James N. Gillis, M. E. McDonald and R. C. McLeod.

We cannot say but will not say that he is dead, he is just away; With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand

PRESENTATION

On the evening of May 29th Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Robertson, North River, entertained a number of their friends, in honour of Miss Rebecca Sixsmith who leaves shortly for Montreal to enter the profession of nursing. After the arrival of the guests Miss Helen MacKinlay on behalf of the friends, read an appropriate address, and Mr. Colin Mac-

Phall presented Miss Sixsmith with a valuable club bag. Miss Sixsmith although taken by surprise made a fitting reply. Then all joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." Lunch was served very daintily by the hostess and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, games and other amusements.

Following is the address: Miss Rebecca Sixsmith:

It is with sincere regret we learn of your intended departure from our midst. During the brief period you have been with us you have endeared yourself to us by your amiable character, your pleasant manner and your jovial spirit. As you go hence to the battle of life, what success you may have, what victories you may win, the future alone can tell. But we feel, knowing you as we do, that with the strong hope and abiding faith you possess, you will perform your duties, faithfully, cheerfully and efficiently.

And now with a deep sense of your many benefactions we ask you to accept this gift as a token of our mutual and increasing admiration and esteem of yourself. In all sincerity and earnestness, as your friends, we hope for your prosperity in all the relations of life. Trusting that in the early future we may have the pleasure of again meeting you and renewing our bonds of friendship, we are,

Sincerely Your Friends of North River

SHREDDED WHEAT

With all the bran of the whole wheat

A welcome relief to a stomach that has been struggling with heavy foods. Crisp, flavory shreds of whole wheat. Delicious with milk and fruits—wholesome and satisfying.

Save the paper inserts for the youngsters.

A Serviceable Tool Rack A very serviceable tool rack for the garage, to hold screwdrivers, files, chisels, and similar tools, can be made by boring a series of holes into a strip of board to accommodate ordinary clothes pins. Drive the clothes pins into these holes until the legs are through. The pins are then secured in place by nailing down through them with wire brads. A tool rack such as this can be made to any length, or a combination of several racks, one above the other.

Beautifying Farm Homes

In order to encourage the beautifying of Farm Homes in the Province His Honor Lieutenant Governor Hartz has donated three silver cups one for each county, to be awarded to the person showing the greatest improvement in the appearance of the home

In awarding the cup, the judges will consider improvement in painting, whitewashing, fencing, planting of trees and flowers, care of front grounds and entrance driveways

Any person wishing to enter the competition may do so by making application to this office not later than June 30th in order that the initial examination may be made as early as possible. The final examination will be made in September. If possible arrange to have photos of grounds before and after improvements are made

NEWSY FARM NOTES

By Agricola

PLANT IDENTIFIED

H. M. Charlottetown—The plant sent in is very interesting and is entitled to rank as a "discovery," seeing that it is not included in the local lists by F. Bain and J. MacSwain. It is the Buckbean—properly Bogbean—Menyanthes, trifoliata, L. This species is widely distributed in the North Temperate regions, but is evidently rare on the Island. The thick trifoliate leaves, strongly resembling those of the Broad bean, and its sub-aquatic habit sufficiently account for its popular name. The individual flowers are dainty, white, five-parted, with the whole upper surface "white bearded"; they are disposed on a raceme which may be a foot in height. Like all the members of the Gentianaceae, this plant in a simpler day was used as a tonic and febrifuge.

I shall be glad to have any specimens of Island plants you may encounter on your journeys.

THE WARBLE FLY

A popular magazine gives a lucid account of the manner in which the Warble Fly attacks cattle. It is a matter of considerable speculation as to why cattle are afraid of the adult fly seeing that it neither bites nor perforates the skin of the animal. The terror is unreasoning but instinctive, for the eggs of the fly deposited on the hair, hatch out, the grub enters the skin, and ultimately finds its way to the back where it produces the characteristic "warble." Its interior migrations are minutely described in the article in question. It is a commentary on man's carelessness that such a troublesome insect, and one so completely at his mercy, should have been allowed to exist up to this year of grace. If all farmers co-operated for two years to destroy the grubs, the Warble-fly would be as extinct as the Dodo! The remedy, as given, is a wash of one part lime water mixed with four parts of tobacco powder this destroys the grubs in their holes. They can then be readily squeezed out.

CATTLE ON THE ROADS

A great change has taken place in public opinion as to allowing cattle at large on the highway, but there are still localities where this practice is to some extent winked at. The decision of an Ontario Judge who tried a case in which a cow was struck by a car while "pasturing" on the road, may be taken as a warning by those careless in this matter. The car was damaged, and the owner sued for compensation. The judge gave a decision against the township, holding that it was liable for the damages, since it allowed the presence of something which endangered the lives of travellers "on the King's highway." The presence of cattle on the public roads is due to want of thought; rather than "want of heart," but that does not excuse it in the eye of the law.

A BIRD SANCTUARY

It is not generally known that the Prince of Wales is the patron of Abbey Dawn Sanctuary just east of Kingston, Ont. Abbey Dawn is the home of a Canadian poet, Wallace Havelock Robb, and is surrounded by three hundred acres which is in great part run as a farm; but a considerable tract is set apart as a sanctuary for the beautiful birds of Canada. The Prince who was first attracted by Mr. Robb's photographs of bird life, became a patron in 1925. Mr. Robb also attracted the notice of the famous Canadian artist, Allan Brooks, fifty-four of whose bird pictures from the Sanctuary adorn the walls of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology.

A bird sanctuary, or two, is needed in this province if we are to retain many of our fast disappearing species; but it (or they) would require vigilant guarding from the various birds, beasts and humans that would molest the inmates.

BOOK FOR PLANT STUDY

T. R.—The book which is likely to prove most valuable to you is "Gray's Manual of Botany," seventh edition. Its further title, which aptly describes it, is "a handbook of the flowering plants and ferns—of the northeastern United States and adjacent Canada." It contains a complete description of all plants found in the area which it covers, including of course this Island. The price is around three dollars. It is illustrated.

Game Depletion

Finest Animal Life of Large Tracts of Africa Fast Disappearing says English Naturalist.

Denouncing the activities of big-game hunters, who he says make an insane massacre of wild life to satisfy their craving for "sport," Mr. Cherry Kearton, the English naturalist, predicts that in twenty years there will be no big game left in Central Africa. Mr. Kearton has spent much of his time there.

In an interview with a representative of Pearson's Weekly, he said: "In the course of my last travels in Africa, I trekked into districts where I once encountered thousands of head of game; where I could be certain of finding lion, zebra, giraffe, wildebeest, and almost every kind of big game. "In the Congo and Tanganyika, as well as further north, the countryside is strewn with expeditions. The trail of destructiveness they leave is in many cases an outrage.

"Some of these expeditions are working for famous museums, and in their zeal for killing specimens they are not content with single beasts but insist upon family groups.

"In the massacre of gorillas, for example, expeditions try to kill not only the father gorilla, but the mother, and children. The scientific desire for groups is desolating large tracts of Africa of its finest animal life.

"Moreover, the people who live in the towns and little settlements take advantage of the week-end to journey into the wilds by motor-car and shoot everything they see, in senseless fashion.

"When I am in the bush, and one day is so like another, I am apt to forget the day of the week. But nowadays in Africa I always know when it is Monday. It is on this day that I see hordes of vultures in the sky. They have found the carcasses of beasts shot by people during the week-end!

"Much of this big-game hunting nowadays is done by motor car. The motor car is everywhere in Africa. Even in native villages it is possible to discover an Indian store where petrol is sold.

"Beasts have become so used to a motor car that they no longer run away. It is possible to motor into the big game areas and find plenty of beasts within easy reach. A man with an express rifle has only to stop the car and shoot.

"There are still game laws in Africa, but everywhere they are being disregarded, and it is, indeed, very difficult to enforce them. I know of a man who actually shot 112 rhinos and was fined only a few shillings for this wholesale murder.

"In certain parts of Africa where lions were regarded as a pest a license was given enabling the holder to shoot 100 lions. That license is still issued, but so scarce are lions nowadays that any man who bags a dozen is considered to have done extraordinary well.

"The lion, in fact, is in danger of becoming extinct. The effect of the wholesale slaughter has been to make him a silent animal. No longer do you hear his challenging roar; the king of beasts is learning that silence is its only protection. Also, he has abandoned the open plain for the forest, an unnatural surrounding for this beast. Elephants and rhinos are doing the same. Everywhere big game is lurking and hiding from the murderer with the express rifle.

"So wholesale has been this
