FOR AND AGAINST VACCINATION.

The Venerable Sir Richard Scott of Ottawa, now well on in the eighties, writes the Ottawa Citizen in opposition to vaccination as a preventive of smallpox. As is well known, an anti-vaccination crusade has been conducted in England for years past with so much effect that the government was induced to repeal the penal clauses of the vaccination act, in other words to make vaccination no longer compulsory. Sir Richard Scott has apparently become converted to oppose vaccination by the plentiful literature of the anti-vaccinationists, some extracts from which he quotes in his letter.

The contention of these would be reformers is that vaccination has been the fruitful means of the dissemination of tuberculosis and even worse diseases; that is by no means a sure preventive of smallpox, no matter how many times it may be repeated; that it was first introduced before modern sanitary science was developed, and that in these days there are other better and less harmful means of prevention and eradication of smallpox epidemics, and finally that in these days of advanced medical science it is absurd to give a healthy person one disease to prevent him contracting another.

Sir Richard gives an interesting account of his own experience in having the disease many years ago notwithstanding he had been vaccinated and goes on to tell that notwithstanding supposed compulsory vaccination the Ottawa valley has been continuously infected with smallpox during the past six years. Some of the citations from the experiences of English cities may interest those who are curious in these matters. In the past 20 years there were in the Kingdom 12,000 deaths from smallpox of which but 3,000 had not been vaccinated. In the Metropolitan district 70 per cent of the cases were those of vaccinated persons, the death rate being 17 per cent.

The medical officer of Leicester says it is today an absolutely unvaccinated city, and yet when a smallpox epidemic came they fared better than other cities where vaccination had been enforced, Leicester having but 250 cases and 15 deaths. There is an unvaccinated child population of 80,000 to 100,000 in this city of 2 50,000 people. It is facts like these, says Sir Richard, that induced the British Cabinet, supported by the two Houses of Parliament, "to turn back the hand of assumed reform on the dial of the national health and release parents from the compulsory vaccination of their children."

So argues the venerable author of the famous Scott Act. What next? The latest and best medical authorities still favor vaccination.

The London Times in a two column article no longer ago than March 5, 1911, urged general vaccination in the strongest terms. Dr P. H. Bryce in a letter to the Ottawa Citizen, following that of Sir Richard Scott, tells of some smallpox epidemics in Canada from which letter we make the following extract:

In 1885, the city of Montreal had through the preaching of one French physician and one English physician been wholly neglecting vaccination. The outbreak had been gathering force from April till July when Sir Francis Hincks took the disease, it was supposed on a street car, and died of it. And the alarm became general. The Ontario board of health placed inspectors in every train coming out of Montreal for three months and examined for vaccination or performed it on some 250,000 passengers. After the city had lost millions of dollars of her fall trade because of the genral alarm and the Ontario board refusing to allow the entry of goods into Ontario until certificates of vaccination were obtained from every manufacturer as to the vaccination of his employes, the epidemic subsided only after some 10,000 cases and over 3,000 deaths had occurred, and when the whole population had been vaccinated. The provincial board of health of Quebec, established in 1886, has never forgotten the lesson and in Montreal and throughout the province today regular general vaccination is maintained with most gratifying results. Ontario warned in time, prevented a general outbreak in 1885 by having some 600 local medical officers and probably 500,000 people were vaccinated, and the year ended with only 18 deaths from the disease.

A STICKFUL OF PRAYER.

As all good citizens know, the Legislature of this Province is opened daily with a prayer of considerable length which is impressively read by Mr Speaker Agnew. The House of Representatives at Washington is also opened daily with prayer, offered extemporaneously by the chaplain, who is blind. He is Rev Dr Couden, and is the only official or employee of the House it is said, who was retained in office from the former House, which was controlled by the Republicans.

The Democrats have not only retained the former chaplain, but the other day rendered him special honor. A member, Mr Ashbrook of Ohio, rose in his place and said:

"Mr Speaker among the most valuable utterances which are delivered in this House are the daily prayers which are said by the chaplain at the beginning of each day's session. They do not appear in the record of our proceedings. I move that hereafter the prayer shall be printed each day in the Congressional Record. These prayers are quite short and will not fill more than a stick of space."

Thereupon Speaker Champ Clark gave orders that the prayers should be printed daily hereafter. Most of the members did not know what "a stickful" meant, but the mover of the motion, who had been an editor, did and explained. It is a measure of type, equal to about one tenth of an average newspaper column. Chaplain Couden's prayers are said to be original and varied and their delivery rarely occupies more than a minute of time.

OPINIONS DIFFER.

The Toronto Globe the other day expressed its strong conviction that the Washington Congress will sanction the reciprocity agreement at an early day. The Toronto World is of the contrary opinion. It says the United States Senate will kill reciprocity and will also kill the proposed tariff reductions. They did it in the last Congress and they will do it in this one.

In the meantime, after the long debate at Ottawa the reciprocity question is still in the resolution stage, the discussion being upon the resolution. The bill to give effect to the agreement has yet to be introduced. It is said the Government will call off its speakers, leaving it to the Opposition to wear themselves out in unanswered discussion, with the hope that in this way the agreement may be got through earlier than it otherwise could be. The World intimates that the Opposition have decided upon a fight to a finish and will prolong the debate indefinitely. The Toronto News hints that the Opposition would be pleased to have the agreement held over till next session. The Globe insists that it must be adopted in the present session.

The reciprocity agreement passed the House of Representatives the other day by a vote of 265 to 89 without amendment. Nearly all the Democrats in the House and a goodly number of Republicans voted in the majority. It now remains to be seen what the Senate will do with the the question. The trusts and interests that are opposed to reciprocity are much more strongly represented in the Senate than in the House.

On Saturday morning a deputation representing the Provincial Temperance Alliance waited upon Premier Haszard in regard to the amendments to the Prohibitory Law which have been proposed. The Premier received the deputation cordially. It is understood that after a frank discussion of the proposed amendments, and in view of the fact that there is a general desire to close the session within a few days, the Premier did not think it desirable to take the matter up at the present date although he would have been willing to do so had time permitted.

In regard to the vacant judgeship in this Province, the Montreal Gazette remarks upon the Legislature having passed a resolution on the subject which action the Gazette characterises as "an unusual one, rendered necessary by unusual conditions." The appointment was promised "very shortly" more than three months ago. Then the Easter adjournment was fixed as the date when this matter and that of the vacant Senatorship would receive attention. Easter has come and gone and no appointments are forth coming. So we must fall back on The Patriot's announcement made some weeks ago that these matters will be attended to "when the Government gets good and ready." Surely this is very cavalier treatment.

Could Not Rest at Night.

Back Was So Weak.

Weak, lame and aching backs are the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning from the kidneys that everything is not right with them.

Heed the warning—cure the weak, lame, aching back and dispose of any chances of further trouble.

If you don't do this, serious complications are very apt to arise and the first thing you know you will be troubled with Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of Kidney Trouble.

On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of the trouble and strengthen the kidneys, thereby strengthening the back.

Mrs. John Puigh, Parkdale, Man., writes:—"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and find nothing to beat them. I could not rest at night my back was so weak. I tried everything, but could not get anything to do me any good until I was told by a friend to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I tried them and I am not the same weak woman I was before. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

"ALL MY VOICE NEEDS IS REST," SAYS CARUSO

NEW YORK, April 19— 'I like everything in New York except its colds and grip, Enrico Caruso said yesterday as he departed for Europe on board the Kaiser Wilhelm II. of the North German Lloyd line. "I think I can boast, however, that I have had the most expensive case of grip on record. It has cost me $100,000."

The great tenor seemed happy, however, and said he already was looking forward to coming back to the Metropolitan next November for the season. He will make a brief stay in London and then go to his villa, near Florence, where he will spend the summer giving his voice a complete rest.

"My voice needs nothing more than a rest in the soft air of its native country," Mr. Caruso said. "It needs no physicians and no surgeons. It has been singing since I was ten years old, which is twenty-eight years ago. It is good for many years to come."

When Mr. Caruso was taken ill, ten weeks ago, he had sang in only thirty-six of the eighty performances for which he was announced, here. The illness also made it necessary for him to cancel his engagement to sing in Rome in May.

"Late in September I shall begin singing again," Mr. Caruso continued. "I shall sing in Vienna, Munich, Frankfort, Hamburg and Berlin, and then I shall come back to this city. The public says I am a great singer. I should be a greater man if I were a scientist who could drive grip out of the country. See if you can't drive it out of New York before I come back."
