Tuba Player Leaves Home And Won't Pay

(Canadian Press) NEW YORK, April 17—Whether a cricket is a plague or a household pet, is up to Justice Nicholas M. Pette of the Flushing municipal court to decide.

Farnham Fox, a tuba player, moved out of an apartment three months before his lease was up, refusing to pay the rent for these months because, he said, he was driven from his home by insects.

The Benhar Holding Company, going to collect three months' rent, submitted in evidence the following letter sent to Fox:

"You mentioned in your letter the existence of a plague of insects," which had become unbearable. The insects you complained of are crickets and no doubt are found in most of the homes and apartments of Bayside. They are harmless, and many people enjoy their chirping; in fact, there was a poem dedicated to 'The Cricket on the Hearth,' and in China they put them in cages to hear them sing.

The little creatures enter the house through the doors as people enter, so if they are unwelcome they are removed by the tenant, who also removes the dust tracked in on one's feet. However, as you know, we have an exterminator who attends to our apartments, and as a result he found three dead crickets, so we thought that ended the matter.

"If it is your desire to give up the apartment on some other account, you should not blame it on the crickets or call them a plague of insects."

Justice Pette interrupted the reading of the letter once to say that "The Cricket on the Hearth" was not a poem but a story by Charles Dickens. He agreed, however, to take judicial notice of the fact that the cricket had been recognized in literature. He reserved decision.

Dirigibles May Be Moored By Electric-Magnets

(Canadian Press) MONTREAL, April 17—A scheme whereby dirigibles might be moored by large electric-magnets to 100-foot-square steel plates has been patented by Frederick G. Raeth, president of the Canadian School of Electricity here.

Explaining his invention Mr. Raeth states: "One great advantage of my idea is the fact that the airships may land on any one of the commercial airports, which may easily be equipped with large steel plates for mooring the airships. The magnets would be lowered from the airship on the end of cables to make contact with the mooring plates."

G. W. Lewis, Director of Aeronautical Research in Washington, with whom Mr. Raeth has been in touch, has the idea under consideration.

Raeth wrote of his device to Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the United States Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, only a day or so before the latter met his death in the disaster which befell the U. S. dirigible Akron.

ADDRESSED OTTAWA GYROS

The following news item is from the Ottawa Citizen of April 13: "Canada does not realize and has not taken full advantage of the fact that she is the fur chest of the world. W. Chester McLure, M.P. for Queen's, P.E.I., told the Gyro Club last night. He pointed out that the fur trade was the sixth greatest industry of the world. In tracing the history of the fur trade, he asserted that if it had not been for the stimulus of Canada's fur resources it was quite possible that the Dominion would not now be part of the British Empire. At the present time, more than any other business in Canada it was the closest linked to London and continental Europe. Fur conservation, in which Prince Edward Island had done the pioneering, was becoming of increasing importance to the Dominion. The speaker was introduced by G. Harold Burland and thanked by J. Warren York."

Write Play On Important Men

(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, April 17—With the younger writers there seems a growing desire to find a theme for the stage among the lives of great men. Miss Winnifred Gunn, of York, has written "Scott of Abbotsford," which, after a few performances by amateurs in Edinburgh and Glasgow, is now presented at the Little Theatre in London.

Scott's career contained many elements of romance, but it takes more than a mere presentation of romantic incidents to furnish a really effective stage piece. Of Miss Gunn's sincerity and of her reverence for the memory of Sir Walter there is no question. Her dialogue, though, is often stilted, and William Heughan, who plays the name part, speaks in the account of Kirkcudbrightshire rather than in the cultured inflexion of the Edinburgh of a century ago.

As a singer he is most gifted, but even so it is not altogether an agreeable surprise to find the Laird of Abbotsford giving his audience so many selections from the Scottish Song Book. Something more theatrically impressive, too, might have been expected in the picture of Scott's desperate struggle with his fortunes, following the failure of the printing house with which he was associated.

Paper Company Announces Discount

(Canadian Press) NEW YORK, April 17—A discount of $5 per ton on all newsprint contracts, beginning with April shipments and continuing monthly until further notice, was announced today by the International Paper Company.

A statement forwarded to customers under the signature of A. R. Graustein, President, was as follows: "On all shipments of newsprint made under your contract with us during April, 1933, and continuing monthly thereafter until further notice, we will allow a discount of $5 per ton. Our price schedule remains unchanged."

The reduction had been made necessary, Mr. Graustein said in an accompanying statement, "by open price cuts and secret concessions, even though made for the most part by insolvent mills."

Excursionists To Upper Canada On Return

(Special to the Guardian)

MONTCTON, N. B., April 17—Today witnessed the return of the majority of the excursionists from Upper Canadian points, principally Montreal and Toronto, who took advantage of the low fare coach excursion operated by the Canadian National Railways to the Gaspé Peninsula and the Maritime Provinces over the Easter holidays. Some returned on the Ocean Limited yesterday (Sunday). These low fare coach excursions are enjoying a wonderful popularity providing as they do an economical means of visiting relatives and friends. They are fast becoming an established railway practice and many who otherwise could not find it convenient to travel, particularly from a financial standpoint, discover that the low fares are well within reach of the most modest pocketbook and as a result there is an increasing interchange of visits between the provinces of Quebec and Ontario and the Maritimes, as well as between the principal cities.

A coach excursion is being operated by the Canadian National from stations in the Maritime Provinces to Montcton, New Brunswick on Friday, April 21st, a special feature of which will be the official reception to the Montcton Hawks, senior amateur hockey champions of Canada and winners of the Allan Cup on their arrival in Montcton on the Ocean Limited the same afternoon from Vancouver where the final games were played to decide the championship. It is expected a large number will take advantage of this low fare excursion to take part in the celebrations in honor of the first team from the Maritimes ever to win the Dominion Hockey Championship. An elaborate programme of entertainment and special features are planned.

Rats At The Bottom

(Canadian Press) KITCHENER, Ont., April 17—A drizzling rain was falling as merchants locked their shops for the day.

Suddenly a woman's scream rent the air. The shriek was pitched in the high key of horror, and it spiked the creepiness of the twilight. For several seconds it held its tremoring tone, then died away only to rasp forth again, louder and more bone-chilling than before.

An officer felt nervously for his gun and started toward a grated cellar window from which the shrieks issued. A group of people gathered about the window.

A woman became hysterical. "It's murder," she cried. "Someone's choking her to death."

The officer opened the front door of the store and peered in. No, the manager had not left. A light burning in the rear gave evidence of that. Suddenly the manager appeared on the scene, apparently wrought up and ill at ease.

"It's all right, officer," he said unsteadily. "I got a scare too. One of the girls had gone down cellar to the stock room, and I turned off the light and locked the door without knowing it."

"And," he concluded, "there are rats in the cellar."

Scientists Calm Despite Prophecy

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, April 17—Local scientists are calm despite the prophecy of Prof. William H. Hobbs, University of Michigan geologist, of severe earthquakes for the St. Lawrence Valley. These predictions are assumed by McGill University geologists to indicate the return of quakes similar to the famous tremors which spread such terror among the Indians in 1663, which injured nobody and caused very little damage.

Pointing out the improbability of the prophecy being fulfilled Professor T. H. Clark mentioned that there have been something like 250 recordable earthquakes in the last 300 years, less than one a year, none of them causing more damage than a few dislodged chimneys. Professor J. J. O'Neill stated that this area is one of comparatively stable equilibrium as far as the earth structure is concerned. "Further tremors of only moderate intensity, at the most, are to be expected," he said.

Slums Attacked In Old Country

(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer).

LONDON April 17—War upon the slums. The Government is resolved to enter upon this campaign forthwith, for it is convinced that public opinion will support wholeheartedly a determined effort to rid the country of these evil blots.

Sir Hilton Young, Minister of Health, within the next few days will enter into conference with representatives of local authorities over the whole of the British Isles, and will pledge the whole driving force of the Government, both financial and administrative in this united campaign. No more opportunity for this than the present, says Sir Hilton, has arisen since the War, for the fall of late in, the cost of building has been phenomenal.

Local authorities will be asked to make a complete survey of the needs of their own district, both in the way of reconditioning old property and of providing new houses. They will each be asked to prepare their own programme, which will then be submitted to the Ministry of Health for approval of re-adjustment. The programme which the Government has in hand is born of the dire necessity of the position, says the Minister.

It is already recognized that slum clearance is far from popular amongst many slum dwellers. There is no intention to make a wholesale removal of slum denizens to suburban areas, where they would be likely merely to re-create the same conditions as those they had left. New properties are proposed to be built on the sites of existing slum areas.

Officiated At Impressive Ceremony

(By H. Rooney Pelletier, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

QUEBEC, April 17.—In the Gothic, marble and gold church on the brow of Quebec's ancient promontory, where in 1619 Mathurin Villeneuve married Jeanne Chausset and became the founder of the Villeneuve family in Canada, Cardinal Jean Marie Rodrigue Villeneuve today celebrated Pontifical High Mass. As Canada's fourth cardinal he delivered his first official message to all Canadian Roman Catholics since his elevation to the Cardinalate, in Vatican City, on March 13.

In an atmosphere of awed devotion, filled with the fragrance of incense and the basso profundo of organ, the Cardinal officiated at the impressive ritual that is a Pontifical High Mass. A white satin chasuble, worked in gold braid, partly concealed his scarlet robes. Two altar boys carried his train as he moved through the Sanctuary.

A hush came over the congregation as he slowly mounted the winding steps to the pulpit. From the front pews clerical and lay officials, representatives of Governments, the Bench the Bar and the professions followed his every move. A gray-haired man and a little old lady sat partly concealed by a column. They were the cardinal's cobbler father and his mother.
