Manitoba Gov't Seeking Means to Increase Revenue

(Special to The Guardian.)
WINNIPEG, Oct. 26.—Trading in futures on the local grain exchange may be taxed by the Manitoba Government if a measure being considered by Hon. F. M. Black, provincial treasurer, is passed by the Legislature. A proposal has been made to the Minister to place a tax on the daily clearings of the grain exchange, and it is expected that from this source a revenue of not less than $250,000 could be obtained.

The provincial treasurer, with a province going behind $8,500,000 in debt, is faced with the problem of increasing revenue through taxation and he has under consideration several new measures which would increase the income of the province $500,000 annually. The suggested new tax is on gasoline sold throughout the Province. It was considered by the Finance Administration but was not adopted. A tax would be imposed on each gallon of gasoline sold and it is estimated revenue from this source would total $200,000 yearly. Present exemptions under the amendment tax may be abolished and the tax will be restored on billiard parlors.

Science Produces Tickless Clock

(Special to The Guardian.)
BERLIN, Oct. 26.—The tickless clock is one of the boons promised humanity through the discovery of a German scientist who has been delving in the fields of oscillation. A selected audience of Government officials, scientists and newspaper men today witnessed a demonstration of inventions of this nature perfected by an engineer, Heinrich Schiefelstein, head of the Laboratorium fuer Schwingungstechnik of Berlin.

A noiseless timepiece, which operates without a lever, was one of a number of specimens Schiefelstein used to show the technical importance of oscillating power for high speed power engines and in the propulsion of ships, airplanes and gliders. A German American corporation has been founded in Berlin for the purpose of wide-world exploitation of these discoveries. Fred A. Britten, of Illinois, an American Congressman, is said to be actively interested in the inventions.

Salvation Army Rebels at Order

(Special to The Guardian.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Salvation Army of America will break cleanly from the English parent organization and establish itself as an absolutely independent unit with Evangelist C. Booth as commander-in-chief if the "insurgent officers," who number 90 per cent of the American Salvation Army are able to translate their present plans into action.

This revolt is the result of the "brutal and arbitrary" order of General W. Bramwell Booth which he issued in London through the newspapers recalling his sister from the American command which she has held for eighteen years.

Only one obstacle halts the insurgents. That obstacle is the loyalty of Commander Booth to the tradition of discipline instilled by his father, the founder of the organization. Against this barrier is the pressure of insurgents within the organization and friends from without.

Sir Hamar Greenwood Last Irish Secretary

(Special to The Guardian.)
LONDON, Oct. 26.—Sir Hamar Greenwood who was chief secretary for Ireland during the critical time of the peace treaty negotiations, on leaving London this morning to open the fight in his own constituency, Sunderland, said, "When I surrendered the seals of office to the King yesterday I did so as the last holder of that office. I followed a long list of distinguished predecessors, and throughout my tenure I felt the responsibilities of the duties of that historic post. It is a source of pleasure and pride. I may frankly add that I played some part in effecting the Irish treaty which yesterday was approved by the Dail Eireann and in setting up the Free State constitution based upon our own Canadian model my knowledge of Canada's charter of self government and the support I had from many tried and trusted friends in Canada during my term of office was invaluable to me, and I closed not a little in bringing to a close the conflict of centres. My colleagues and myself have nothing to regret in standing together for the common interests of the Empire."

Premier Bonar Law Issues Manifesto

(Special to The Guardian.)
LONDON, Oct. 26.—Andrew Bonar Law, as leader of the Unionist Party, in a manifesto this afternoon declared one of the tasks of that party if it is returned to power will be to make good the Anglo-Irish treaty both in letter and spirit and to co-operate with the Irish Government.

The manifesto declares it will be the Government's earnest aim, if returned, to give wholehearted and practical support to the League of Nations, to fulfill the obligations of Great Britain as undertaken abroad but not to extend her commitments, but preferably to curtail them, and to maintain friendship and good understanding with the United States. The crying need of the nation at this moment is what we should have tranquility and stability both at home and abroad so that free scope should be given to the initiative and enterprise of our citizens.

"It is my confident hope that under the well tried guidance of the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs the negotiations for the settlement of the Near Eastern crisis will result in a true and lasting peace. The maintenance of our friendship and good understanding with the United States, based not on any formal alliance but on the community of inherited ideals as well as the recent comradeship in arms must always be a principal aim of British policy 'at home or chief preoccupations, the state of trade and employment.' The most helpful method of reviving industry is the development of trade within the Empire. The Unionist party propose therefore, immediately to consult the Government of the self governing dominions and if they approve, to summon as early as possible an economic conference with the view of finding in what way, by mutual co-operation they can best develop the vast trade, the resources of the Empire admit.

A Spectid Program

A very interesting talk on recent astronomical discoveries, illustrated with suitable lantern slides, was given in the Baptist Church school room last evening by Mr. J. B. Rombough, city. The slides were taken from telescopic photographs made at the great observatories at Mt. Wilson, California, and at the Yerkes Observatory, Wisconsin, and were remarkable for clearness and accuracy. Various views were given of the north, south and central portions of the moon; of the planets Jupiter, Mars, Neptune, Venus and Saturn; also of nebulae, star clusters and sun spots. Mr. Rombough, while not professing anything more than an amateur knowledge of astronomical science handled his subject in a very capable and fascinating manner. It has been Mr. Rombough's privilege to come in contact with some of the great astronomers of the day and much of his information had been received at first hand at the Maryland Academy of Science. The meeting last night which was very largely attended, was presided over by Mr. Herbert Yeo. Before Mr. Rombough's address, a short programme, consisting of a piano solo by Mrs. Murray, a vocal solo by Mrs. Lee Warren, and readings by Miss Edna Gordon and Mr. Lloyd Jenkins was received with applause. In closing, a warm vote of thanks, moved by Mr. J. A. Clark and seconded by Mr. J. P. Gordon, was tendered Mr. Rombough. The entertainment which was held under the auspices of the Philatheans, is the first of a number of entertainments to be put on to make up an initial sum to go towards the erection of a new school room for the church and the success of last night's programme is highly gratifying to the society and to everyone taking part.

(Special to The Guardian.)
SAKONA, Ont., Oct. 25.—Alex Cameron, arrested for intoxication and placed in the local jail, had a pleasant sojourn over Sunday in his cell, where he imbued freely of some fine stock gin and real bear which he secured from an adjoining cell by the police. Cameron secured an opium pipe, taken in a recent raid by the police, and using the case pulled the box of gin where he could pry the lid open. He secured the gin and immediately proceeded to drink it with all possible haste and secrecy, topping it off with several bottles of real bear held as an exhibit in a former capture. (Special to The Guardian.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—French francs were quoted in this market today at 7.05 cents, a new low record for the year. The par value of the franc is 19.3 cents each. The recent depreciation in Paris exchange is a reflection of the huge deficit which France will face when its new budget is under taken by the Chamber of Deputies.
