LOUIS KNOCKS OUT MANN IN THIRD ROUND

Bomber Rallies After Shaky Start To Flatten Challenger Under Heavy Rain Of Blows

(By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Writer) MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Feb. 23—The Louis, looking like the old Brown Bomber himself, dropped out of the fistic clouds tonight with a detonation that rocked the rafters of the old battle-pit and flattened burlly Nathan Mann, New Haven, Conn., challenger for the world heavyweight championship, in less than eight minutes.

Punch Drunk

Mann, looking like he had been put through a meat chopper, took the final count in one corner of the ring resting on one knee but the other leg to punch-drunk that he did not even appear to hear Referee Arthur Donovan's final "10".

The champion put an abrupt and convincing end to the match with a high-explosive brand of punching power, after being surprised and actually hurt by his challenger's brisk early blitz.

A hard right in the second round, which sent Mann back to the ropes, blinking and bewildered, appeared to touch off the fireworks. It was one of several robust blows which Mann connected during the first round and a half, while Louis looked the situation over. It aroused the champion to such an extent that his counter-blast quickly had the ambitious Connecticut entry on the floor.

Left jabs and hooks by Louis set Mann for the lethal finishing touches and he toppled for the first time from a hard right cross. He had sufficient possession of his faculties to realize it was a good time to take "nine" but he ran into another blast of leather upon remaining his feet.

Mann, bleeding from the mouth and nose, fought back courageously in the third but the end was in sight. The challenger, by now so dazed he didn't know much about what was going on, took counts of only two and three seconds as the champion's two-listed barrage flattened him with lefts to the body.

Nicholson Is Rated Highly By Kansans

The following clipping handed to the Sports Department is of general interest to the sporting public and particularly so to the many friends and former Abegweit teammates of Ivan "Hickey" Nicholson. The article, taken from a Kansas City exchange and written by Parke Carroll in his column "Sports From Another Angle," reveals in some measure the high regard in which "Hickey" is held.

Offers For Nicholson

"Following the customary post-punch period in which everybody said it was a lot of good-natured propaganda, hockey fans had cause for alarm today over the possibility of losing Ivan (Hickey) Nicholson before the playoffs.
