PRODUCE

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, May 16—A decline of half a cent a pound in wholesale butter prices was recorded on the Montreal dairy and produce market today. The price for no 1 regraded in carlots on less was 18 to 18½ cents a pound. Receipts continued light, but increasing local production is causing weakness in the market. Offerings totalled only 86 boxes.

Another advance occurred on the potato market. Maritime stock gained five cents a bag for the second consecutive day, establishing an improvement of 10 cents per bag so far this week. New Brunsw and Prince Edward Island green mountain became 80 to 90 cents per 80 pound bag.

The egg market held at yesterday's prices. The general quotations for graded shipments in carlots or less were 17 cents a dozen for extras, 15 cents for firsts and 13 cents for seconds. Arrivals amounted to 4,192 boxes.

Cheese prices also held unchanged. Current Ontario colored cheese was quoted at 10 to 10¼ cents a pound. There were 826 obxes offered for sale.

Scout News and Notices

General Object

The general object of the Rover Scout section is to retain in the Brotherhood our older boys as they develop into young men, and to continue advanced training in the principles and practice of citizenship so as to prepare them to take up the responsible duties of manhood, and, where suitable, leadership in the Scout Organization—first in their own Groups and then outside. A Rover Crew should be the training ground for Assistant Scoutmasters and Instructors.

Rover Age

The usual age at which a young man, whether previously a Scout or not, may be admitted as a Rover (and is entitled to apply for membership in a Rover Crew) is 17, but in view of the fact that young men are often old or young for their age, discretion is left to the Rover Leader.

It is only in quite exceptional cases that anyone under 17 can be admitted.

Prospective Members

The Rover Leader must be prepared to deal with two kinds of young men:

1. Those who have been Scouts, the object being to retain them as members of the Group by furnishing them with opportunities of more advanced training in Rover Crews with young men of their own age.

2. Those who have not been Scouts. For these candidates two points require special care:

(a) In view of their lack of previous Scout training special attention must be paid to the Scout Promise and Law, and Spirit of Service.

(b) They should be admitted into the Rover Crew carefully, so as to avoid any danger of Scouting ideals being lost and of the Rover Crew tending to become a mere Social Club.

Conditions of Membership

Before a young man can be invested as a Rover Scout he must carry out the following to the satisfaction of his Rover Leader:

(a) Take part in at least three week-end hikes or one week's camp, under instruction except in the case of a First Class Scout.

(b) Make an elementary study of social needs, civics, hygiene and first aid.

(c) Perform some specific acts of service.

(d) Study ideals of Scout Movement as set forth in "Scouting for Boys" and "Rovering to Success."

(e) Study the interpretation of the Scout Law for Rovers.

(f) The Vigil

(g) Serve for at least three months with the Rover Crew. He may then present himself for investiture as a Rover Scout, making or reaffirming the Scout Promise. He is then entitled to wear the badges and uniform of a Rover Scout.

In the case of a non-Scout joining and wishing to wear uniform before he is invested as a Rover Scout, he must pass the Tenderfoot Tests, make the Scout Promise, and be enrolled as a Scout.

A Rover Scout may remain as a Patrol Leader in his Troop if desired by the Scoutmaster.

A Rover Scout may hold a Warrant without cessing to be a Rover Scout, but the possession of a Warrant will not give him precedence in the Crew.

Presentation Ceremony

A form of enrolment called the Presentation of a Rover Scout has been drawn up by the Chief Scout. Too much emphasis cannot be laid on the importance of seeing that the young man, before presenting himself, has a proper understanding of the principlec underlying Rovering. Copies of this ceremony may be had upon application to Provincial Headquarters.

The Rover Den

It is important that there should be a place where the Rovers may meet, and which they can call their own. Many Rovers have built their own dens; this is to be encouraged. The walls should be decorated with Crew records, photographs, etc. Where possible the den should be open every night to those who wish to meet there.

If a suitable den cannot be secured immediately a Crew may meet either after the Scout Troop or on a separate evening, using the Group Headquarters. The Crew should never meet in the same room at the same time as the Scout Troop.

The Rover Leader

Rovers should not be started unless the right leader has been found.

Leadership of young men is quite different from the leadership required for boys; it is a job for the older man, with experience of life. A young Scoutmaster should obtain the help of an older man if he wishes to start Rovers in his Group.

The qualifications for the Rover Scout Leader are:—

(a) A general knowledge of "Scouting for Boys," "Rovering to Success" and "Policy, Organization and Rules."

(b) A full appreciation of the religious and moral aims underlying the scheme of Scouting. A general knowledge of the social needs of the community in his neighborhood, and ability to find service for his Rovers.

(c) A personal standing, character and experience of life such as will enable him to lead young men, and an understanding of the principles of leadership involved.

(d) Age not less than 30, but in sptcial cases warrants will be granted down to the age of 25, on the recommendation of the Commissioner.

(a) Three months' service with a Rover Crew.

(f) Acceptance by the Rovers of the Crew concerned.

The Rover Crew

The Rover Crew forms one section within the Scout Group.

It retains the name and number of the Group with which it is affiliated. It consists of one or more Patrols, each of which usually is called after a famous man. The minimum Rover Patrol consists of four Rover Scouts, including the Rover Mate and Second.

A Rover Court of Honour consisting of the Rover Leader, Rover Mates and Second Mates of the Rover Crew, should meet regularly to deal with all routine matters, programmes, etc. Rover Mates should keep in close touch with their Patrols in order that they may adequately represent their views to the Rover Court of Honour.

Programme

The programme should be "all round," a place for everything and everything in its place. A one-sided programme will tend to produce one-sided men. The essentials of a good programme are to assist in developing the Mental | Physical | Spiritual | sides of a man.

MENTAL. — Talks, discussions, lectures, debates, etc., etc., on any subject under the sun, by the Rovers themselves, or by experts.

PHYSICAL.—Open air Scouting, national games, gymnasium, etc. Under this heading also come social activties, dancing, etc.

SPIRITUAL. — "Rovers' Own," Church duties, Services, both individual and corporate.

"Service"

The first duty of a Rover is to his own Scout Group, and all should lend a hand, and have some definite job,—secretary, treasurer, log-keeper, stores-keeper, or camp quartermaster—in addition to helping run the Cub or Scout Sections, as Assistant Clubmaster, Scoutmaster of Instructor. Rovers should be clearly shown that they join the senior section for what they can put into it rather than for what they can get out of it. That they will benefit is unquestionable, but the amount of benefit is gauged by the amount of service put into it.

Insurance man, putting questions to cowboy: "Ever had any accidents?"

"No," was the reply.

"Never had an accident in your life?"

"Nope. A rattler bit me once though."

"Well, don't you call that an accident?"

"Naw, he bit me on purpose."

"Now Jones, you're not paying attention. Who said, "I cone to bury Caesar, not to praise hin?"

"Er—the undertaker, sir."

Spent Night In Motor Boat On Atlantic

(Canadian Press)

CANSO, N. S., May 16—Willie and Joseph Boudreau, fishermen of Green Island, were safe here tonight after a day spent in a helpless motorboat where the Atlantic swell sweeps into Chedabucto Bay.

The two men, brothers, set out from the Richmond County village early today to attend to their lobster traps, but found themselves in the grip of a heavy sea when their engine broke down. It was not until late this afternoon that a passing sailboat noticed their plight and towed them into this port.

Meanwhile, the coastal steamer Madelene had been searching without success, and preparations were being made to send the lobster carrier Nova II out of Arichat in the morning.

Columbia University Students on Strike

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 16—Students clashed in free-for-all fights across the campus of Columbia University yesterday as the aftermath of a strike to protest the authorities' failure to renew the contract of Donald Henderson, radical economics instructor.

Eyes were blackened, eggs were heaved, clothes were torn and anti-Henderson students inadvertantly played a hose on the police when the stream failed to reach the demonstrators, but only three arrests were made.

The strike, in which some 500 students participated, started with peaceable picketing, display of banners and distribution of circulars but bloomed into a general melee atound a mass meeting at which speakers included Diego Rivera, who was banished from Rockerfeller Centre last week for portraying Lenin in a mural.

The Mexican painter compared his dismissal to the case of Henderson and said freedmon was at stake in both situations. While he was speaking a students attempted to tie a black gag around the statue of Alma Mater and the first skirmish broke out.

THE GARDEN OF THE GULF

(Written June 16, 1931, at Cornwall, Prince Edward Island)

This is the Garden of the Sea;
On every side is witchery grand;
A fairy-garden fair to see,
The dearest spot in all our land.

From shore to shore we view with pride
The well-kept homes that grace the plain;
Those homes where peace and love abide,
And sweet contentment ever reigns.

Is it not fairest of the isles,
This Eden in a crystal sea,
Where voluptuous beauty smiles,
Upon each hamlet, stream and tree?

The heart is touched by those gay scenes!
The soul is filled with tranquil bliss!
When summer wakes from winter's dreams,
No grander place on earth than this!

Here, in this garden of the sea,
Old Nature placed with lavish hand
Her richest gifts, for you and me,
And clothed with beauty our dear land.

She made and shaped each rising knoll;
The plains and forest good to see,
Red beaches where the billows roll,
And blossoms gay upon the lea;

The shady glens, the winding brooks,
And tiny lakes hid in the shade;
Wild paths that lead to hidden nooks,
The open plain, the sheltered glade.

Are we not happy—yes, and free?
No form of slavery do we know.
In mood and manners all agree,
"Tis sweet the amity we show.

Each peasant's door is open wide
To him who seeks a friendly hearth;
And here the stranger may abide
Regardless of his means or birth.

A place where God walks heart and hand,
With folk whose lives are in His care;
And, as they view their fruitful land,
In praise to Him they offer prayer.

Presentation To Rev. Fr. MacDonald

On Sunday, May 7th, Rev. Father Leonard MacDonald celebrated High Mass at Corran Ban and preached an eloquent sermon on St. Joseph.

After the service the parishioners' joy in having another native of their little parish raised to the Priesthood was well expressed in a nicely worded address, read by Mr. Peter Hughes, and a substantial purse presented, on their behalf by Mr. William Keizer.

Father MacDonald in a few words eloquently acknowledged both the address and the purse.

The Priest above named is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. MacDonald of Grand Tracadie and brother of Rev. W. V. MacDonald, D. D., of Hope River P. E. I.

Rev. Leonard MacDonald, Corran Bann.

Rev and dear Father:—We have looked forward to this, your first Sunday since ordination with us, to extend to you a hearty welcome and offer our congratulations.

You do not know how happy we are to-day, to be privileged to assist at your Mass, happy in the realization that this little parish of ours, has given another priest to the church, another reaper for the harvest of souls which Christ referred to when he said so long ago, "The harvest is indeed ripe, but the reapers are few". We have known you since you were a child amongst us, and looking upon you as one of our own then, as we do now, and shall continue in the future, we have followed the different stages of your life, each of which in its own way, led to the goal you have attained, and we have done so with a pardonable pride in your achievements. Long before you took steps which led immediately to your noble choice in life, your conduct to the observing and interested eye was such as to mark you out as one upon whom God had special designs. With a wholesome seriousness, and without ostentation, you pursued your path of duty. Your uprightness, and the fidelity with which you practiced Christian virtues has always been a source of edification to us, while your kindly disposition and sympathetic nature has won for you a high place in our esteem.

When your decision to enter the seminary four years ago became known, it was no surprise to us, and indeed we would have been surprised in the light of your prevlous conduct if you had not taken that step. We knew then that you were only testing your vocation, and we prayed that it might stand that test, and that God would give you the strength to withstand the trials you must meet in that holy and rigid preparation for the noblest state in life that God can give to man. You have been faithful to the graces God has given you; this we know, this from the very fact of your presence with us to-day as a priest and for this we thank God and offer you our congratulations. This then, is the burden of our message to you, thanks to God for the good things he has wrought on your behalf, and congratulations to you for your co-operation with God's Grace and, consequently on your success in attaining to the high goal of your holy ambition. We know that you are extremely happy to-day and since as we said you are one of our own, your happiness is ours and we rejoice with you. As you leave us to take up your priestly duties in some other part of the diocese we hope that the good example you are leaving behind will be an abiding force for good, especially among the young people of our parish and we assure you that we shall follow you with our good wishes and with our prayers that by God's gace you may long be spared to labour in the ministry, and that you may lead many souls to the great high-priest Jesus Christ.

Please accept this accompanying purse as a mark of our good will, and may we dear Father ask a "memento" when you go to the altar of God to offer Sacrifice.

Signed on behalf of, the Parishioners of Corran Bann.
