OUR SOLDIERS.

Although perhaps uncomfortably reminiscent of the anxious days of 1914 to 1918, the presence of the soldiers in Charlottetown is pleasing and inspiring. Although lacking the dark background of war clouds which invested the boys of the war years with a halo of glory, the soldiers of today lack nothing in personal or company address; they present a splendid military appearance on parade and better still their conduct both on the parade grounds and on the streets is most creditable. They are a manly, well behaved and altogether respectable body of men of whom the city and province may well feel proud. A goodly proportion of the men received their baptism of fire on the battlefields in Europe and the presence of these no doubt helps to steady the ranks and gives them the veteran appearance which has been so favorably commented upon when seen on church parade or route march. It is a significant fact, well worth mentioning here, that at the public service held in the park on Sunday night about forty of the men joined in the communion service at an after meeting, the majority of them having received their first communion on the battlefields in France. Such a leaven as this in a body of men cannot fail to have a beneficial effect upon all, and a feature of the church parades has been the seriousness and earnestness with which they joined in the services in the churches in which they worshipped.

Our province has been justly proud of its soldiers in the great war and it has much to be proud of, a record to which coming generations will point with patriotic pride. It may look with equal pride on its soldiers of today and with the assurance that if the necessity should again arise, which God forbid, they would stand as true to their country and their flag as did their predecessors who crowned themselves with glory in the dark days of the war.

Our soldiers are worthy of all possible kindness and attention on the part of our citizens and we feel assured that such will be accorded them during their all too short stay in the city.

This week will see an important addition to the ranks when the cavalry units will put in an appearance. It is hoped that all will unite in making their short sojourn a pleasant one.

CROP PROSPECTS.

The early spring this season has had the usual effect, an insufficient rainfall. As a result the hay crop, up to the present at least, shows a shortage. It is quite probable now that, whatever rain may fall before hay harvest, this crop will fall below average. The comparatively prolonged fine weather with but an occasional shower at night, has held back other crops as well and the general opinion now is that the crops all round will be below the average. This condition is not confined to this province alone. Except the western provinces, which seem to have received their own and the rains usually distributed over the eastern provinces the comparative drought has been general so that relative supply and demand will not greatly affect any one province at the expense of another. A short all round harvest usually means higher prices and it is possible that any shortage that may occur will be made good in better prices.

There is no anticipation that the general crop in this province will fall much below average. The grain and root crops have plenty of time to recover from the thirst of the past few weeks and no doubt the usual showers will be forthcoming. We, too often, complain before we are hurt only to find that the hurt did not materialize. This province has yet to experience its first crop failure. We have had short hay crops but our "farmers" have never gone beyond that. This will, in all probability, be the case this year.

Current Comment

On the hunt again after scapegoats to carry the iniquities of the government, is again the Patriot's predicament. Consciously guilty of the highest crimes of political deceit and perfidy to the electorate, its chief endeavor is to locate some others upon whom it can unload the blame for its unholy conduct. Condemned by the highest jury of its country in the land, after a most careful and deliberate judicial consideration of the facts, it now whines out, NOT ME, NOT US, BUT THOSE SIX MINISTERS OF THE GOSPEL, who have in charge the administration of the Prohibition Act, they are strong in public confidence; on their shoulders LAY THE BLAME. But up to the present, these ministers have not made any declaration, public, or private as far as we know, announcing their willingness to shoulder the blame which the Patriot on frequent occasions has sought to lay at their door. Nor do we feel disposed to hold the Prohibition Commission responsible for undertakings which were not theirs, and for conditions which were not theirs, placed or left absolutely beyond their control. It was the Bell aggregation, AND NOT THE COMMISSION, that promised those improvements in the system of liquor control, which was to bring about a more effective suppression of the traffic.

It was not the Commission that promised the invalidated in this province, that, upon their accession to power, they would be supplied with "INSPECTED" liquors of the purest quality. Nor can we see it that under the Act they have any power to do so, or that the Bell Government have passed any legislation enabling them to do so.

It was the treacherous defaulting combination that scattered these promises to the public, and afterwards scattered the question of fulfillment to the winds. It was also the Bell conglomeration, with the Patriot behind it, that promised to the poor and unfortunate sick that these liquors would be supplied to them "AT ACTUAL COST." What has the Commission got to do with this? It was not a promise made by them. Why does the slippery Government organ try to load this perfidy upon their shoulders? Those ministers are not absorbing the big profits from the liquor business. It is none of their funeral whether the fluids are sold at a profit, or at "actual cost." Not a cent of it goes into their pockets, but considerable of it goes to pay the increased salaries and indemnities of the Liberal combination. The Commission are giving their services absolutely free, not even paid for the shoe leather they destroy in attending to the business.

The medical profession of this province, comes next amongst the Patriot's scapegoats. Section 53 of the Act, says, "No liquor prescribed by a physician under this Act shall be consumed or drunk by the patient for whom it has been so prescribed or by any other person AS A BEVERAGE." The Liberal organ declares that everybody "knows" including the Commission, the Government and them selves, that 80 to 90 per cent of the liquors used, is "FOR BEVERAGE PURPOSES." In other words the inference of the Patriot's statement is that eight or nine out of every ten prescriptions written by the medical men of this province, are given in fraudulent violation of the Prohibition Act. As a de-(Rochester Herald) —A Rochesterian on what proved to be his deathbed, was prescribed whiskey by his physician. When the liquor—a half pint—was delivered, it was accompanied by a sales slip calling for $5. The man declined to be robbed, and the whiskey was returned to the drug store. The grass is growing over the Rochesterian's grave, but profiteering and prohibition flourish.

"Will" Crooks and Poplar

(From the Westminster Gazette) Nobody who has known the House of Commons during the last eighteen years can have heard of liberate charge against the reputation and character of medical men in this community it is unique in its sweeping fierceness, and when it further declares that this is done within the knowledge of the Government, and more seriously still with the knowledge of the Commission it declares a system of winking at law violation which will test the credulity of very many people! It is a charge that should be answered or explained by the ministers composing that board, and by our medical men.

If it is true that the physicians of this province, and we know that many of them are above suspicion as to this charge, are to the extent of eighty or ninety per cent, deliberately violating the Act, and defeating the purposes for which it was instituted, and that this is permitted to continue with the concurrence of the Government, and the knowledge of the Commission, then the condemnation of the Summerside Grand Jury, strong and forcible as it was, was not half as severe and far reaching as it should have been. The Prohibition Act provides a perfect control over the use or misuse of medical certificates. These can only be used by their grace or consent, and the Doctor who abuses his trust can be absolutely deprived of the privileges of their use. Despite the protestations of the Patriot, these matters are all controllable by the Government and legislature of the province, of which the Bell aggregation are the present masters, and hunt as they may, and squirm as they will, they can neither escape the responsibility for their acts, nor succeed in placing the blame upon others, guilty although some of the physicians may be, in complicity with our rulers, in defeating the effective enforcement of our prohibition laws.

THE GOOD TEACHER

The Lord is my teacher, I shall not lose the way. He leadeth me in the lowly path of learning. He prepareth a lesson for me every day; He bringeth me to the clear fountains of instruction, Little by little he showeth me the beauty of truth. The world is a great book that he hath written. He turneth the leaves for me slowly; They are all inscribed with images and letters. He poureth light on the pictures and the words. He taketh me by the hand to the hill-top of vision. And my soul is glad when I perceive his meaning; In the valley also he walketh beside me. In the dark places he whispereth to my heart. Even though my lesson be hard it is not hopeless. For the Lord is patient with his will wait awhile for my weakness, And help me to read the truth through tears.

the death of "Will" Crooks without regret. He was the most thorough Cockney and the most typical working-man of all those by whom the Labor Party has been represented, but he was prominent not on this account, but for his commonsense, his plainness of speech his warmth of heart, and his hatred of all shams. Everybody seemed to regard him as a friend, and when he did things that startled a House bound by tradition—as, for instance, when he led it in singing the National Anthem on a memorable occasion—it was recognized that he had acted as nobody but he would have dared to do. I doubt if he was more respected even in Poplar than he was at Westminster; but in both places he did work and established a reputation of which many a more famous public man would have been proud. One of the best of many good stories that Will Crooks was fond of telling concerned a visit paid by Lord Chaplin, during his term of office as President of the Local Government Board, with the Secretary, Mr. Samuel Provis, to see things for themselves in Poplar. They stayed to lunch, and Mrs. Crooks asked what they would like to drink, explaining that she and her husband were both abstainers but assuring her guests that no "prohibition" would be enforced in their case. "The Squire" looked at Mr. Provis, and then both looked at Mr. and Mrs. Crooks. "If you don't mind," he said, "we would both like a glass of beer." The only vessel available was a glass jug, painfully transparent, and it had to be used. The beer was brought and approved, but that afternoon the whole of Poplar was horrified to hear:—"Bill Crooks has broken out! Fact! Seen him send to the pub for beer?"

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

(Brantford Expositor)

In these days of equal rights for women, exception is being taken in some quarters to the time-honored customs which require a married woman to assume the name of her husband. The suggestion is that the husband and wife might agree on what name they would assume, or that the woman might be permitted to retain her own name. In the latter case a married couple instead of registering at a hotel say as Mr. and Mrs. John Smith might register as "John Smith and his wife, Maria Brown." What's in a name, after all?

BE AN OPTIMIST!

(Toronto Telegram.)

Be an optimist! Anyone can smile and see a great future for Canada when prices are jumping, every one is prosperous and we have a fresh supply of millionaires for breakfast every morning.

It takes a different brand of confidence to smile when prices drop the dollar lumps up as if through a magnifying-glass, and the breakfast food has changed from millionaires to bankrupts.

But from all over Canada come reports that indicate a bumper crop. The starvation that stares some countries in the face gives the Dominion a wide berth. There is work for everyone who is not too proud or too delicate to work on the land.

And all the while Canada's national resources are increasing in value. There is gold in the North land, oil in the Arctic circle, and billions of tons of coal waiting to be mined in the Western Provinces.

It is a period of universal poverty. The world is strewn with bankrupt nations, And Canada

THE TROUBLE

(Reynolds Newspaper) (Should Britain, because of the outbreak in Egypt, stop the progress of freeing Egypt from the Protectorate and so make her practically independent? We can see no valid reason why, though some are advocating it. When Egypt is responsible entirely for his own good order, she will probably make plenty of blunders, and many Egyptians will be killed by their fellows in the process. That seems to be the fashion in nationalities with newly found freedom. But the world has got to put up with that. Indeed, it is one of the penalties for holding a nation in bondage that, when the day of freedom comes men do not know how to use it. If we wait until all danger is past, Egypt will never be free.

Lloyd George's New Dog

(From the Boston Post) Lloyd George has followed President Harding's example. He has adopted a new dog. Like President Harding, the English Prime Minister loves animals. Now he has just imported a huge St. Bernard from the Alps of Switzerland. But even a Prime Minister's dog is held in quarantine in England, and the majestic guardian of the passes of the Alps was obliged to wait before he could become the pet of Lloyd George.
