Palpitation of the Heart—Nervous Prostration—Cured by
Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.
They make weak hearts strong. They make shaky nerves firm.

Mr. Ray V. Cormier had a very trying experience while at College; but, thanks to Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, he has been restored to health. He tells his experience in the following letter to us:—
"Wellington Station, P. E. I., Dec. 3rd, 1904."
"Messrs. The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ontario."
"Gentlemen,—Having been cured of a very troublesome disease, I find it my duty to write you a few lines. I was troubled with a very great palpitation of the heart and nervous prostration. I was attacked with it at College, and could not follow up the games of the University without being overcome with fatigue. I could not descend the stairs without resting half-way. I have left College, and am working in a general store, where I found your famous pills. I used three boxes, and am now completely cured; I cannot thank you enough. You may use this letter for the purpose of benefiting anyone who is suffering as I did. My home is in Sackville, N. B., but at present I am on Prince Edward Island."
"I remain, dear sirs, RAY V. CORMIER."
Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, 50 cts. per box, or 8 boxes for $1.25. All dealers, or mailed on receipt of price.

(CHAPTER XV—Continued.)
CHAPTER XV.

When a current of life sets strongly in one direction, it is remarkable how many smaller currents set in the same direction. Within two days there came a letter from Doctor Thorpe to Francesca, asking her if she could give him any information about Lancelot.
"The next heirs," he said, "are already moving to get charge of the property, on the supposition that so long a silence indicates death."
This letter set Clara to asking questions, and finally induced in her a strong belief that Doctor Thorpe was at least acquainted with the reasons for Lancelot's strange and determined silence.
"And you ought to know these reasons, whatever they are," she said, positively, to Francesca. "Indeed, my dear, they may be such as would justly prevent your seeking your lover, because a meeting might only be re-opening a wound. You must go and see Doctor Thorpe. You can go to Leigh this afternoon, stay with Mrs. Idle all night, and return to Atherton early to-morrow. I dare say your father will like to drive you."
To this plan there were no objections made, and both father and daughter threw away all thought of their parting and endeavored to make the trip as charming to each other as possible. Doctor Thorpe's house was not far from Idelholme, and in the evening Francesca found him there and at liberty.
How is it that a bachelor's house can be known the moment it is entered? Everything was in the neatest order, but Francesca knew there was no wife in the tidy place. Doctor Thorpe sat by a large fire; he had his slippers on, and was reading and making notes from a folio on a table before him. He was a little astonished at Francesca's appearance, and said, with an air of apology.
"My dear young lady, a letter would have answered my letter."

"No, it would not, doctor. At least, I want to tell you something, and ask you something. I am going to Mexico to look for Lancelot—unless you know of any good reason why Lancelot and I ought never to meet again. If you do, in such a case as this I not only ask, I deserve, your confidence."
"Going to Mexico to look for Lancelot! My dear, let me kiss you for the thought! My dear, if I was not an old man I would kiss the feet that dare so sweet and true a pilgrimage! My dear, you should have lived a century ago. I will tell you the truth—the whole truth, for you do indeed deserve it. And may God send you and Lancelot together, for he is a good lad—a lad any good girl may safely love."
"Why has he never written to me? Why has he hid himself away? If there were reasons for forbidding our marriage, he might at least have told me them. He might have come and bid me 'farewell.' He might have sent me occasionally some token of his remembrance."

Was Not Able To Walk For Three Months.

Was Given Up To Die. The Doctor Said So.

Burdock Blood Bitters
Saved Her Life.

Read what Mrs. Wm. Castillon, New York, Quebec, has to say about Burdock Blood Bitters:—"Last December I fell very sick after confinement. I was not able to walk for three months, and was given up to die by the doctor. My husband read of the many wonderful cures made by Burdock Blood Bitters, so procured me two bottles. After using it for about ten days, I was able to get around, and could mind my baby without help from anyone, and am now well, and able to do my own work. I told a lady friend of mine who was troubled in the same way, and she used it with equal success. I cannot too highly recommend your medicine, for I know just how good it is, and hope and wish that anyone suffering as I did will give it a trial."

The Winner!
The International Yacht Race for the Kaiser's Cup was a question of sails and of men who manipulated sails.
The free-for-all race in the Bedding Business is also a question of sales and of men who know how to make sales. Wherever Bed Springs and Mattresses are sold the Hercules and Ostermoor Mattresses are International Winners. We are Selling Agents for the above.
