You Need A Spring System-Cleaning Tonic

Nine out of ten people need a good bracing blood purifying, appetite-making, strength-building tonic.

HUGHES' Burdock and Sarsaparilla

is a preparation that we can recommend to those who feel "fagged out." It tones up the system, promotes the appetite, aids digestion, purifies and enriches the blood. It is not a "cure all" but is an excellent medicine to take at this season of the year.

USE OF WEDGEWOOD.

Not long ago there was seen a green and white wedgewood urn used in a strikingly beautiful combination. It formed the key-note of a room furnished in brown mahogany furniture of the Adam period. The draperies were in a flat old-blue brocade, the wall in gray, with white woodwork. Out of setting that dull green urn sang forth in greatest happiness.

You have bought them often—Shoes for the Boy or Girl with spongy leather in the soles, flabby insoles, shoddy counters, vamps cut off at the toe-cap to save leather—a few weeks' wear on a romping kid and you know the rest. A few cents added would have bought CROSBYS "Young Canada" School Shoes—REAL shoes—the makers have been on the job for sixty years and not one ounce of shoddy has ever been used in the factory.

IMPORTANT MEETING.—On Thursday evening the farmers of Iona and vicinity held an agricultural meeting. It was intended that the delegates to the Egg and Poultry Association should submit their report. They were instructed however at the annual meeting that a synopsis of the report would be printed that could be used at different meetings held throughout the country. Accordingly, Professor Ross was invited to attend the meeting and deliver an address on some agricultural topic. When the meeting was called to order the people were anxious to hear what had been done at the convention. Mr. William O'Connell and Mr. E. Daly their delegates were quite prepared to report. Mr. O'Connell dwelt on the different subjects that had been discussed and insisted that the Egg Circles should all stand together and support one another in the packing houses. His address which took a greater part of an hour was listened to with very much interest by all who were present. Mr. Daly went into the finances of the Association and showed the number of eggs that had been handled and the amounts that had been paid. Quite a number of questions were asked. Professor Ross spoke on the assistance that was being given by the Department of Agriculture and all that was promised by the Commissioner of Agriculture. He answered some questions regarding the candling of eggs and other matters of a somewhat technical nature, after which he spoke on the importance of good seed, pasture crop and the care of manure. After the usual vote of thanks the meeting adjourned. The attendance was large there being upwards of one hundred present.

DIES AT ANNA EVA FAY'S ENTERTAINMENT

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., April 22.—The question, "Is my brother dead or alive?" was written on a slip of paper and passed to a "mind reader" at a special matinee for women at Proctor's theatre here today by Mrs. Edward G. Collins, 988 Main street, New Rochelle. The brother about whom Mrs. Collins inquired disappeared seven years ago, and was well remembered by Mrs. Emma Middleton, of 357 Huguenot Avenue, New Rochelle, who, with Mrs. Christine Chandler, of the same address, accompanied Mrs. Collins. As the performer drew forth slips with questions from the audience, which were answered, Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Middleton waited expectantly until the "mind reader," Eva Fay, drew out the slip, read it, and answered.

Mrs. Collins, your brother is alive, in good health, and is in the navy." Mrs. Middleton grasped Mrs. Collins' arm excitedly. She told her two companions she felt very ill and they assisted her to a private room at the theatre, where she died within a few minutes.

You Can't Afford to Pay Less Anywhere

All works of taste must bear a price in proportion to skill, taste, time, expense and risk attending their manufacture. Those things called cheap are, when justly estimated, the cheapest; they are attended with much less profit to the artist than those which everybody calls cheap.

In purchasing drugs, chemicals or sundries at our store, customers always receive the best—not only the best as regards QUALITY, but the best in point of STORE SERVICE and LOWEST IN PRICE.

JANE GREY IN "THE LITTLE GRAY LADY" AT PEOPLE'S THEATRE

An all-feature and all-star programme was the bill of fare at The People's Theatre last evening, when the house was packed to its utmost not another seat being available at shortly after eight o'clock.

The main attraction was the presentation by Jane Grey, the noted American actress, of the famous dramatic success, "The Little Gray Lady." Miss Grey is not only an actress of surpassing skill in the legitimate productions in which she has starred for years, but possesses the ability to convey all her charm, personality and magnetism to her audience quite as well when playing before the camera.

The title role of the "Little Gray Lady" as closely resembles Miss Grey as her name does the title of the play, and that of the character she portrays Anna Grey. The scenes of "The Little Gray Lady" are laid in Washington and embrace a typical Washington boarding house, where all the inmates are Government employees, as well as several departments of the United States Treasury. Anna Grey is quiet, high principled young woman, who falls in love with Perry Carlyle, a weak young clerk, whose own extravagant tastes and the dissipation induced by endeavouring to please Ruth Jordan have combined to plunge both into dissatisfaction at their lot. He finds that his position in the Treasury department enables him to obtain possession of pieces of mutilated money and that by passing them together he can induce tradesmen to accept them for good bills, and so add considerably to his income. In a very few days the Secret Service men are on his trail, and it is only owing to the heroic self-sacrifice of Anna that he is saved from the consequences of his crime. Ruth in his trouble discards him. There are scenes of the most tense and thrilling suspense while Anna is concealing Perry from the police and when she confronts Ruth and struggles with her for the evidence which will clear or convict Perry, the situation is tremendous as the two women struggle with all the fierceness of love, passion and despair. The above programme will be repeated again to-day along with the other two plays, one a Beauty drama, and the other an uproarious comedy.
