WELCOME TO THEIR EXCELLENCIES.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND will extend a hearty and loyal welcome tomorrow to Their Excellencies, the Governor-General and Viscountess Willingdon on their first visit to this province. It is fitting that the personal representative of His Gracious Majesty King George should be loyally received in every province in the Dominion, and we feel sure the "Little Sister of Confederation" will do her part. We are distinct among the provinces in the extent of our area, being by far the smallest of them all, but this is not our only distinction. We are the Cradle of Confederation, the cradle of the fox industry, the cradle and the grave of Prohibition. We have more people to the square mile, more horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry than any other province in Canada, and we are the wealthiest per capita. Modesty forbids further comparison with our sister provinces, or we might mention our quiet, scenic beauty, the luxuriant wealth of vegetation in field and forest, but these will speak for themselves.

Having laid claims to these distinctions, we feel sure that Their Excellencies shall be given an opportunity of seeing as much as possible of the province, for the province is outside of the City of Charlottetown.

COMMUNISM IN CANADA.

AT a recent convention in Montreal of the Catholic League of Canada, a resolution was unanimously passed and forwarded to the Federal Government, asking that the Communist schools in Canada, wherever they exist, be closed and the Communist teachers be deported. Every true Canadian will endorse this resolution. It has long been known that such schools exist here, that communism is being openly taught in some of our principal cities, and, so far no action has been taken to check it, except the resolution above mentioned. More such resolutions should be passed and pressed upon the Government.

Communism, as everyone knows, is subversive of constitutional government, it is subversive of Christianity, and it is not only a disgrace but a serious menace to Canada that it should be allowed to lift its head among us. Why the government has not long since taken some action in the matter can be understood only on the ground that some of its members have themselves been in contact with the Communist germ.

It will be remembered that when a Soviet House in London was raided by Scotland Yard, the addresses of some Canadian agents were unearthed, showing that we have them amongst us and they are not here merely for their health. They are busy, busy undermining Canadianism, and it is well known that all are not Canadians who are of Canada.

No good can come of introducing Communism into this country. No good can come of publicly teaching Communism to young Canadians. The Government is responsible for permitting these schools, and they will be held responsible for them. It is much easier to nip this menace in the bud than to check it when it blossoms into open anarchy and rebellion.

Other Christian communities would do well to follow the example in this respect of the Catholic Women's League. When they do, the Government may take action even if it should lose a few votes by it for many Communists have votes in Canada.

A FORGED LETTER

In our issue of June 29 last under the caption of "Slick Tactics and Slang English" we published an editorially what purported to be a coming letter over the alleged signature of Mr. A. C. Saunders. On the face of it the letter seemed to be written to adherents of the United Church and set forth that Mr. Saunders sponsored the Church Union bill and was therefore entitled to "unionist" votes and support. We are informed by Mr. Saunders, however, that copies of this letter were sent, not to unionists, but to Presbyterians, with evident intent to injure the Liberal party and himself as leader. We are assured neither Mr. Saunders himself nor anyone with his authority had anything to do with the letter which was a forgery. Needless to say had we suspected anything of the kind we would not have given the letter space or comment in our columns, but it was sent in by a reliable resident in Montague in the original envelope in which it was addressed to him, and was published in good faith. Mr. Saunders having brought the facts to our attention we regret having published the letter and comments in our columns and under the circumstances tender Mr. Saunders our apologies for unintentionally publishing a forgery.

SCIENCE TO THE RESCUE.

THE increase in the number of automobiles and other gasoline consuming machinery suggests a doubt as to the continuance of the supply of gasoline. The United States Bureau of Mines states that between 1916 and 1925 the number of automobiles in the United States increased by 468 per cent. During the same time the production of crude oil increased by about 100 per cent. Yet the supply of gas has not failed.

In 1916 only 19.8 of the crude oil sent to refineries was recovered as gasoline. In 1925 the proportion recovered in this form was 35.1 per cent. This makes all the difference and improvements are still going on in this line. The United States multiplication of cars is but a fraction of the increase of cars in the world and shows but a fraction of the world's consumption of gasoline. Both machinery and crude oil production are increasing, the improvement in refining is also increasing as scientific research and discovery are finding out better methods.

Science is increasingly saving the world's wastes, increasingly utilizing material which for ages gone by was useless because not understood.

Crude oil, the existence of which has been discovered only in comparatively recent years, has made the automobile and the aeroplane possible, and has added in scores of ways to the world's work and the comforts of the home. As its properties become better understood and more of its hiding places discovered, its uses will be further multiplied.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Royal Customs Commission meets here today.

Rain distribution is somewhat irregular this season. It falls in comparatively small areas and in vastly different quantities.

All the boasting about Prince Edward Island's scenic beauty is not done by the natives. Visitors are joining heartily in the chorus.

Just how the new Liberal Government will switch Prohibition into Government Control and give it another name, will be one of the interesting political developments of the future.

Expectations regarding increased tourist traffic for this summer are already more than realized. The first few days in July saw more visitors by train and car than in any previous year, and more are editorially what purported to be a coming

Notes by the Way

SO Much has been said and written and broadcast of late about Confederation and Canada's wonderful Jubilee that it may be thought by many readers that further mention thereof would be quite superfluous. But day by day newspapers and other publications arrive from more and more distant point in Canada and the States repeating the story from another and more distant locality. For it requires about six days for a newspaper printed in Vancouver to reach Charlottetown by mail. And each city, town and village had its own way of celebrating.

Nothing short of amazing is the wide-spread publicity that Canada has obtained because of her Jubilee. The report of it has sounded throughout the British Empire and throughout and beyond where the English language is spoken. And what is perhaps more important and desirable is the fact that the press of other countries has responded in a chorus of good wishes and admiration for Canada. Not even Canada's noble and heroic efforts and sacrifices in the Great War were so widely and admirably exploited at that time as the rapidly expanding greatness and glory of the Dominion has been just now by the press of Great Britain and the United States.

Special supplements devoted exclusively to Canada, containing staff correspondence and articles from the pens of many writers of the foremost rank were issued by such papers as The London Times, The New York Times, The New York Sun and other publications which spread the fame of Canada before millions of readers. These notices were generously laudatory and leading American journals did not hesitate to commend the Dominion in comparison with their own Republic in varied fashion.

The New York World affords an instance of this and discriminating judgment when it says:

"Canada has crime, but it is not the crime of the United States. The homicide rate for this country between 1911 and 1921 was 7.2 per 100,000 of population; that for Ontario and Quebec for the same period was 0.5. The Canadian courts are as efficient as those of England and murder is swiftly punished, yet the death sentences for the whole Dominion average only twenty-five a year. Canada has her political scandals. But such epidemics of federal corruption as the United States has endured twice in sixty years in the Grant and Harding Administrations are unknown in Canadian history."

The Detroit Free Press touches the fringe of a like comparison between the neighbor nations when it says:

"Canada is a happy nation and may well make her Jubilee a thanksgiving. The Dominion started off with divergent and almost equal forces, the British and the French, the Protestant and the Catholic, the progressive and Conservative industrially, the Puritan and the Liberal socially. Disaster could have come from such a commingling of apparently opposite forces. But out of this heat and pressure has emerged "a diamond among the nations." Politically Canada has worked out a system of Government which leaves its citizens perfectly free to "act for themselves" while retaining deference for the Crown. In Canada the daughter has set up her own household but is always glad to hear a word from Mother, who is older, and full of experience."

These delirious from the wise editors across the border are at once just, generous and discriminating and show a good knowledge of the Canadian people, their political institutions and their history. So far and just are these estimates of Canada and its happy people that we could wish the writers had gone a little further and given their candid opinion as to the merits of liquor prohibition as an agency for promoting the welfare of a nation. They have prohibition over there while seven of the nine Canadian Provinces have repealed it within the past eight years.

Political interest throughout Canada, which had been relegated to the back ground during the Jubilee festivities will be revived by the notice that the Conservative Convention to select a leader will open at Winnipeg on October 11.

And again our fair City and Province will have occasion to be glad and rejoice when on Thursday His Excellency the Governor General and the Countess of Willingdon will visit us. And later, it is hoped, that Premier Baldwin, leader of the British Government will pay a like honor to Canada's Garden Province. We must keep the Old Flag flying!

A SERIES OF LITERARY QUOTATIONS FOR BOOK LOVERS

Wednesday, July 6th. Flaxman born, 1755; Sir Thomas Moore beheaded, 1535.

I thought that it was snowing flowers. But no, it was this young girl coming towards me. —Yori-Kito

The man who, by some sudden revolution of fortune, is lifted up all at once into a condition of life greatly above what he had formerly lived in, may be assured that the congratulations of his best friends are not all of them perfectly sincere. An upstart, though of the greatest merit, is generally disapproved, and a sentiment of envy commonly prevents us from heartily sympathizing with his joy. If he has any judgment, he is sensible of this, and, instead of appearing to be elated with his good fortune, he endeavors as much as he can, to smother his joy, and keep down that elevation of mind with which his new circumstances naturally inspire him. He affects the same plainness of dress, and the same modesty of behavior, which became him in his former station. He redoubles his attention to his old friends, and endeavors more than ever to be humble,

Ability to Act

Sickness, absence from town, pressure of personal business, and many other causes might make it impossible for an individual, appointed your executor, to act when his services are most urgently required.

It is for this reason that far sighted business men name The Eastern Trust Company executor and trustee of their estates.

They know this Company will be prepared to assume its duties when called upon to do so.
