Living & Leisure The Woman's Realm

Four things a man must learn to do if he would make his record true; To think without confusion clearly; To love his fellow-men sincerely; To act from honest motives purely; To trust in God and Heaven securely.

—Van Dyke.

EVENING FURS

Evening furs (capes and coats) now have earrings of fur to match; and sometimes with a matching fur hood.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE

It is not necessary for everyone at the wedding ceremony to kiss the bride. Only intimate friends and relatives are correctly considered to have this privilege.

NEW COLORS FOR JUNIOR BRIDE GOWN

NEW YORK—New colors are coming to the fore in informal junior bridal dresses. They represent a change from the usual white to a true gold or the newest and brightest of colors—the usually rather staple color range sampled in short junior bridal gowns. They represent a new departure in the pale pink, beige, blue aqua and white. A new color in the white and white. A new color in the white and white. A new color in the white and white.

EMBROIDERY FUR

NEW YORK—Notable is the use of embroidery and fur in ensembles of covers, trousers and jackets. The value of ensembling is proved by the value of ensembling. The value of ensembling is proved by the value of ensembling.

NEW BASKET IDEA

NEW YORK—Women are using small clothes hampers as market baskets. Filled with raffia straw they can be slung over the shoulder and it is unnecessary then to wait for vegetables to be wrapped. Besides it doesn't squash foodstuffs.

OLD WIVES' TALES

In ancient days the belief that certain traits could be developed by eating certain foods was a commonplace. A boy given too much milk would grow up timid and afraid. In Germany as late as 1814 a law was passed forbidding women to eat meat more than

Price Control Questions And Answers

Questions and Answers on Price Control will appear in The Guardian as a regular feature each day. The questions are those which have reached the Wartime Prices and Trade Board from housewives in this region. The answers are provided by the Board Readers. Persons who have intelligent questions to ask on price control are invited to send them in writing to the Women's Regional Advisory Committee of Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

APRON SKIRTS

The little date dress with an apron is a "first" in short young crepe dresses. A lace ruffia simulates an apron, the satin ribbon faking the same kind of full apron skirt. Another popular apron skirt, due to have even greater popularity, is the oval apron, a pretty tapered line for crepe dresses. In black for quite dressed-up occasions, the oval apron is a cute treatment that is "in" after a run in fashion that started seriously last summer.

HORSE SENSE AND NONSENSE

This one isn't right out of the horse's mouth, but it accounts for the gleam in his eye—the horse's head that a couple of the New York shops are selling, made of soft leather with a wool fringe mane, and seen to best advantage as a lapel pin. It's the horse's glass eye that's the illuminating point, and that's no joke either. Inside the horse's neck is a little flashlight arrangement, and when you push the button the eye lights up. The inventor says it's practical in a dimout and useful in a theatre. —We say it's fun.

EISENHOWER RURS HIS LUCKY MONEY

Gen. Eisenhower carries seven old coins, one of them an old English fiveguinea piece always in his pocket; and as he waited anxiously at his headquarters for news that the Allied forces had landed in Sicily, he gave the seven old coins a good rub—for luck. Gen. Eisenhower seems to have something there.

SEEDLESS PINEAPPLES

If pollinated, pineapples contain about 1,500 seeds. In Hawaii, for instance, there are no natural pollinating agents for pineapple plants.

ARTESIAN ETYMOLOGY

Artesian wells are named after Artesium, the Latin name for the province of Artois, France, where such wells came into use centuries ago.

A Morning Smile

WELL PLEASSED

After pulling up a young lady who was driving a car, the policeman said to her sternly: "And, miss, did you know that not only were you on the wrong side, but you were travelling at 50 miles an hour in a built-up area?" "Oh, isn't it marvelous?" explained the sweet young thing. "And I only learned to drive yesterday!"

TO THE POINT

He was a peculiarly unpleasant person; and when visiting the local cattle show he made himself unpopular by his loudly expressed claims to superior knowledge. He was especially insulting to old Sam Fotts. "Bah," he said sincerely. "You know nothing about pigs, you don't. Why, my father raised the biggest pig ever raised in these 'ere parts." "Aye," retorted old Sam quietly, "and the noisest."

WOMAN UNWILLING TO ASSUME CARES SHOULD NOT HAVE CHILD

Mother Must Cuddle Baby, Follow Him To Manhood With Intuitive Sympathy

DEAR MISS DIX—Although I am only a 13-year-old girl I can understand what a mother's love can mean to a child. My mother loves children and for the last two years she has taken care of several children whose parents are separated for the only reason that they are tired of each other, and who don't want to be bothered with their children. These youngsters range from 18 months to 13 years old, and I feel so sorry for the poor little things who have never known a mother's love.

What can be done to make these mothers realize what a great duty they have to their children? A CONCERNED GIRL.

ANSWER—We take it for granted that every mother naturally loves her children. Thank God, this is generally true, but there are exceptions to the rule. Not every woman has a mother's heart, any more than every woman has a peaches-and-cream complexion. There are plenty of women who and who resent and hate the children they bear who have not a single maternal instinct in their systems interfere with their plan of life.

TELL BOY OF SISTER'S WAYWARDNESS

DEAR MISS DIX—We have two children, one a fine, upstanding boy in the service, the other a girl of 18 who has disgraced us and is not allowed to come home. Our boy is coming home on a furlough soon and will be expecting to see his sister. If we tell him about her, it will break his heart as she has broken ours. What shall we do? BROKEN-HEARTED PARENTS.

All That Glitters By Frances Parkinson Keyes

CHAPTER III

It was not until early May when she had a caller that Mrs. Morton remembered she had been bent before leaving Morcoville, on presenting Helen to Washington society with the least possible delay.

The caller had heralded her arrival by a charming little note, "Dear Mrs. Morton—" she had written—"I realize that this little Season of ours must be keeping you very busy, for I know how tremendously in demand you are everywhere. But might I run in, some morning, even if it isn't too, too early—and have a little chat with you? There is an important matter I do want so much to discuss with you. Most cordially yours, Lavinia Lovelace (Mrs. James Archibald Lovelace, Jr.)."

"Mrs. Morton answered promptly, and said she would be glad to receive her would be caller on Saturday, the twelfth, at eleven thirty.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am married for the second time to a widower with grown children. I also have grown children. Now the question has arisen: Where are we going to be buried when we pass to the Great Beyond? I have a burial place in one cemetery with members of my family there. He has a burial place in another cemetery with members of his family there.

ANSWER—Do you think after you are a saint in glory that you are going to bother much about where you are buried? Or are you expecting to use your angel wings to flap around cemeteries reading the names on the tombs? It seems to me a foolish thing for you and your husband to spoil your nice happy married life together by fighting over what's to happen to your unknown bodies after your souls have left them.

DEAR MISS DIX—We have two children, one a fine, upstanding boy in the service, the other a girl of 18 who has disgraced us and is not allowed to come home. Our boy is coming home on a furlough soon and will be expecting to see his sister. If we tell him about her, it will break his heart as she has broken ours. What shall we do? BROKEN-HEARTED PARENTS.

OH, TILLIE, I TOLD SOMETHING ELSE WHEN I WAS OUT OF MY HEAD. I TOLD 'EM I LOVED 'EM!

TILLIE, YOU'RE THE ONLY GIRL WHO EVER MEANT ANYTHING TO ME.

"CANAL ZONE" YOU'RE STILL DELIRIOUS.

NO, ON SECOND THOUGHT, YOU AREN'T. WHEN YOU'RE DELIRIOUS, YOU TELL THE TRUTH.

Canadians from coast to coast are getting ready to save coal this winter by making sure that their houses are well insulated. Home owners who are at all handy at odd jobs can weather-strip windows and doors. This will help keep the draft out and the heat in. Weather-stripping is inexpensive to apply and can be installed easily. If regular weather stripping is not available, a good substitute can be found in paper, rag or cotton batting.
